Record Quake Kills 7 in Washington State

Compromise Ends Strike On 4 District Newspapers

2-Year Contracts Give Stereotypers Raise of $7.50 Week And Pressmen $7

The strike of AFL pressmen and stereotypers, which halted publication of the Capital's daily newspapers for 2½ days, was ended last night.

Agreement of terms for settling the differences between the two unions and the four newspapers was reached at 5:30 p. m. Membership of both unions ratified the settlement.

Pressmen and stereotypers reported to work at The Washington Post and the Washington Times-Herald in time to get the first edition on the streets before 8:30 p. m.

Representatives of the publishers met successively with representatives of the pressmen and stereotypers in an all-day session and worked a compromise formula for ending the walkout and for writing new management-union contracts.

190 Workmen Involved

The 140 pressmen and 50 stereotypers involved in the strike, under the settlement reached yesterday, will get an increase of $6 a week over the present contract, effective on the expiration of their last contracts. The pressmen also will get an additional $1 a week, starting next November 1. The stereotypers also will get an additional $1.50 starting the same date.

Members of both unions who have more than five years of service on Washington newspapers will get a three-week vacation starting this year, instead of in 1950 as the publishers proposed.

Adjustments in working hours also were granted both unions.

The pressmen also won a reduction in the work week, time and a half pay for sixth-day work, and additional manpower for the press crews.

Detailed Terms

Detailed terms for the settlement with the pressmen are as follows:

Wages will be increased $6 a week, retroactive to February 7. Another increase of $1 will be added next November 1. Pressmen have been getting $79.10 a week on the day shift; $82.85 on the night shift. The union originally asked for $100 a week on the day shift, $110 for the night side. Just before the strike this demand had been reduced to a flat increase of $8 a week and the publishers had offered $6.

The work week is to be reduced from 37½ hours to 36¼ hours. The union had asked for a 35-hour week.

Time-and-a-half will be paid for sixth-day work, after 36¼ hours. On this point, the union dropped two other earlier demands for more extensive overtime pay.

Three weeks' vacation will be given pressmen with five or more years of service on Washington newspapers. The pressmen have been getting two weeks' vacation, the management had offered to give three weeks' vacation beginning in 1950.

An extra man will be added to each of two different press ar-

Terms of Settlement

Agreement was reached yesterday on resumption of work in all four Washington daily newspapers on the following terms:

For Pressmen

1. The contract agreed upon will run for two years, ending February 7, 1951, with reopening on wages and hours on February 7, 1950.

2. Wages are to be increased $6 a week, effective February 7, 1949, with an increase of an additional dollar a week, effective November 1, 1949.

3. The work week is to be reduced from 37½ to 36¼ hours.

4. Time and one half will be paid for sixth-day work, after 36¼ hours.

5. Three weeks' vacation will be given employes with five or more years of service on Washington newspapers.

6. An extra man will be added to each of two different press arrangements, effective when sufficient trained men are available.

Stereotypers

1. The contract agreed upon will run for two years, ending December 1, 1950, with reopening for wages only on 30-day notice by the union, on or after January 1, 1950.

2. Wages are to be increased $6 a week, effective December 1, 1948, with an increase of an additional $1.50 a week effective November 1, 1949.

3. Saturday night hours are to be reduced from 7½ to 6½ hours, effective immediately.

4. Three weeks' vacation will be given employes with five or more years service on Washington newspapers.

To Complete Mrs. Doyle's Term

Mrs. E. C. Magdeburger Named As Member of School Board

By Elsie Carper
Post Reporter

Mrs. Edward C. Magdeburger, mother of five children and president of the D. C. Federation of Women's Clubs, yesterday was named to the District Board of Education.

Her appointment was announced by Chief Judge Bolitha J. Laws after a general term meeting of District Court judges. She was selected by the judges from a field of 20 nominees.

Mrs. Magdeburger fills a vacancy on the board left by the resignation March 25 of Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle. Mrs. Magdeburger will complete Mrs. Doyle's term, which expires in June, and then will be considered for reappointment.

In announcing her appointment, Judge Laws described her as "very well qualified."

A resident of Washington since 1922, Mrs. Magdeburger is the wife of a naval engineer now in charge of Diesel propulsion for the Navy Department Bureau of Ships. They live at 1612 Missouri ave. nw.

Active in community and club affairs, Mrs. Magdeburger is a past president of the Petworth Woman's Club, past grand matron of the Order of the Eastern Star, and served two terms as worthy matron of Joppa Lodge Chapter, OES.

She has served as president of the Macfarland Junior High School Parent-Teacher Association, vice president of the Barnard Elementary School P-TA, and has headed committees for both the McKinley High School P-TA and District Congress of Parents and Teachers.

The Federation of Women's Clubs, which she has headed since 1947, dropped its traditional policy not to promote anyone for public office to urge the court to consider her for appointment.

A native of St. Louis, Mo., Mrs. Magdeburger attended schools in St. Louis, winning a scholarship to Washington University, where she majored in English, German and history. She studied piano at the Conservatory of Music in St. Louis, winning an artist's diploma. Since moving to Washington, she has taken graduate work at Maryland and George Washington Universities.

Only one of the five Magdeburger children now lives in Washington. Kathryn, who served two wartime years in India with the Red Cross, is a secretary of the National Security Resources Board. A second daughter, Alice, is a

Kirk Is Choice For Ambassador, Moscow Hears

Moscow, April 13 (AP).—An informed source said today the name of Vice Admiral Alan G. Kirk, a former director of United States Naval Intelligence, has been submitted to the Russians for Ambassador to Moscow.

Diplomatic protocol may require several weeks for action on the nomination. First the Russians would have to say whether the nomination is acceptable. The appointment would have to be confirmed by the United States Senate.

Should Kirk become Ambassador in Moscow, succeeding Gen. Walter B. Smith, he would be the second United States Admiral to hold the post in recent years. Admiral William H. Standley was Ambassador from early in 1942 until October, 1943, when he was succeeded by W. Averell Harriman. General Smith resigned March 25.

Pact Nations Plot A-War, Soviet Says

New York, April 13 (AP).—Andrei A. Gromyko charged today that the North Atlantic treaty nations are isolating Russia and plotting aggressive atomic warfare against her.

The No. 1 Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister spoke in the United Nations Assembly, but made no demands for United Nations action at this time.

Warren R. Austin, chief United States delegate, promptly issued a statement saying the pact is not an aggressive instrument. Austin said it is rooted in the purposes and principles of the United Nations Charter.

Reply May Come Today

The United States representative will reply soon, perhaps Thursday. He demanded the floor after Gromyko but Assembly President Herbert V. Evatt said others had been scheduled ahead. Austin had spoken before Gromyko on Russia's 30 vetoes in the Security Council.

Gromyko declared the pact signers were trying to encircle Russia. He said Russia knew the pact was aimed at her because she was the only great power not included.

Gromyko declared the agreement undermined the basis for the existence of the United Nations, but that Russia would continue to uphold the principles of the Charter.

Gromyko turned aside from an Assembly debate on the veto to attack the pact. He used nine pages of a 29-page, 6500-word speech in the first direct reference to the North Atlantic Pact made by any Russian bloc delegate in the United Nations.

"Cannot Be Justified"

"The signatories to the North Atlantic Pact are taking widespread military measures which cannot be justified by the interests of these countries' defense," Gromyko said.

"This is particularly true of such countries as the United States, Great Britain and France, where an intense armament race is taking place and where military plans against the Soviet Union are being drawn up. These include plans for the use of the atomic weapon, which certain American statesmen are wont to rattle with ever greater frequency."

He charged the United States and Britain are building bases on territories near the Soviet Union and said only naive persons could believe that Norway was included in the pact for peaceful purposes.

Gromyko asked what the United States would do if some great power several thousand miles from its territory should set up air bases in Mexico.

He said no attack from the Soviet Union threatens any of the countries in the pact.

Doubts Council Approval

Gromyko charged the pact was being effected outside the U. N. because it would not be approved by the Security Council.

"The North Atlantic group of countries is being set up as an instrument to enforce United States and British domination over other countries and peoples," Gromyko said.

The Soviet delegate said Britain and France have gone against obligations contained in treaties with the Soviet Union.

Before Gromyko spoke, Austin told the Assembly the veto has seriously undermined the confidence of U. N. members in the efforts of the Security Council to maintain peace.

Austin favored the plan before

Senate Votes Rent Control Bill for D. C.

A 40-23 Senate vote last night gave final congressional approval to the bill continuing District rent control through June 30, 1950.

The compromise measure now goes to the White House.

Four Republicans joined 36 Democrats in voting for the bill. The 23 votes against the bill were all cast by Republicans. The four Republicans who voted for the bill were Senators George D. Aiken (R., Vt.), William Langer (R., N. Dak.), Margaret Chase Smith (R., Me.) and Leverett Saltonstall (R., Mass.).

The District this month has rent control under a 30-day stop-gap law that continued the existing rent control law to the end of April.

Chairman J. Howard McGrath (D., R. I.) of the Senate District Committee steered the measure to final passage after declaring that basic revision of the local bill "at this late stage, could only result in great inequalities with respect to tenants and undue advantage to landlords."

Senator Joseph R. McCarthy (R., Wis.) forced the roll call vote in a last ditch fight to change the formula of District rent control to one that would give landlords a "fair net operating income." The present formula is based on comparable rents for comparable housing.

As it cleared Congress, the new rent control extension bill continues most major features of present District rent control, but makes these major changes in the existing law.

1. Criminal penalties are dropped from the enforcement section of the local rent control act, in line with Congress' similar decision to drop such penalties from the national rent control law.

2. Increased powers are given District Rent Administrator Robert F. Cogswell to determine whether to take controls off housing accommodations that result from future conversions. They would be subject to control until he orders the controls off. He could issue such a decontrol order if he found a conversion had resulted in "additional self-contained family units."

The section does not affect housing made by conversions and decontrolled under the rent law of last year.

3. Hotels with 50 rooms or less will be relieved of rent controls on their transient accommodations. Larger hotels here were freed of such controls last year.

4. A new limitation is fixed for establishing cooperative ownership of apartments here. The bill requires that 65 per cent of tenants in occupancy in a building must be members of a cooperative before the co-op can evict other tenants upon sale of their apartments. At the same time, the bill safeguards the right of persons who bought an apartment on a cooperative plan before March 1, 1949, to obtain possession of it by legal action to evict the tenants.

Rent Administrator Cogswell said the bill continues a workable basis for rent controls in the District. He said the heart of the act had been kept, that is the system of fixing Washington rents so that comparable prices are paid for comparable housing accommodations.

House Votes Defense Bill Of 15 Billion

Expansion of Naval Air Arm Defeated In 271-1 Decision

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

With only one voice raised in dissent, the House yesterday passed a record peacetime military spending bill, carrying $15,909,116,800 for the armed forces next year.

Final passage of the measure came after defeat of efforts to expand naval air arm appropriations, and some of the strongest saber-rattling debate heard on the House floor in years.

Vote 271 to 1

The standing vote on passage was 271 to 1—with left-winger Representative Vito Marcantonio (ALP, N.Y.) declaring in the negative.

No major changes were made on the floor, and attempts to cut back the expansion of the Air Force, approved by the House Appropriations Committee, met little support.

An amendment offered by Representative Harry R. Sheppard (D., Calif.) to boost naval plane procurement funds by 300 million dollars set off a heated Navy versus Air Force air power debate.

Chairman Clarence Cannon (D., Mo.) of the House Appropriations Committee opposed the move. He argued that the Navy today occupies a secondary place in our military structure and that we must concentrate on buying long-range, land-based bombers.

U. S. Must Drop Bombs

Cannon told the House that if war comes the United States must win during the first three weeks by dropping atomic bombs on Soviet targets from planes based in western Europe. If we don't, Russia will overrun Europe within 60 days, he declared.

Chairman Carl Vinson (D., Ga.) supported Sheppard's motion, declaring the House Appropriations Committee by following the recommendations of the Bureau of

Compromise Reached on ERP Funds

Conferees Set $5580 Million Authorization; Cut in Outlay Hinted

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

Senate and House conferees last night agreed on a compromise European Recovery program authorization measure totaling $5,580,000,000 for the next 15 months.

Action followed closely on the heels of a statement by Marshall Plan Chief Paul G. Hoffman that it is "entirely possible" a cut may be made in actual appropriations in view of price drops in this country.

The conference report, which is expected to be brought up in the House today, merely authorizes the appropriations for foreign aid. A measure to provide the money must be passed later. ECA Chief Hoffman said the Economic Cooperation Administration invited the most searching inquiry into the proposed program by the Appropriations Committees.

Senate Voted Full Sum

The Senate and the House had previously passed somewhat differing bills to continue the economic aid program another 15 months. The Senate had approved the full Administration request of $5,580,000,000, while the House figure was 200 million dollars less. Conferees were named to iron out the differences.

The conference-approved measure provides:

1. $1,150,000,000 for the Economic Cooperation Administration until June 30 this year.

2. $4,280,000,000 to run the Marshall Plan through June 30, 1950.

3. An additional sum of 150 million dollars, to be a charge on the public debt, to guarantee that American businessmen can convert into dollars their earnings in foreign investments.

The ECA administrator was authorized to place a limit on the amount of investing and earnings

Heavy Loss In Property Reported; Many Hurt

500-Mile Temblor Felt From Oregon To British Columbia; Seattle, Tacoma Hit

Seattle, April 13 (AP). — Death, fear and widespread damage rocked through the Pacific Northwest at 11:54 a. m. (P.S.T.) today.

The worst earthquake in the region's history brought death to seven persons and injury to many others. It cracked buildings. It cast bricks and glass into city streets on the heads of many of the thousands who fled the swaying structures.

It hurled two houses into Puget Sound from Fox Island, near Tacoma, Wash. They were believed unoccupied, but the Coast Guard sent a boat to investigate.

Entered Near Puget Sound

It cracked the earth. It disrupted rail traffic for two hours between Portland, Oreg., and Seattle. It was felt over a 500-mile long area of the coastal Northwest, hitting hardest the Puget Sound cities of Olympia, Tacoma and Seattle. Eastern Washington, Oregon and British Columbia and northern Idaho felt it slightly.

A Seattle man, Alfred Welander, 60, died of a heart attack two hours after the shock. Konrad Sorenson, 71, also died of a heart attack, in Cosmopolis, Wash.

The casualty list was concentrated in the west central Washington area. Percival Bisson, a workman, was killed by falling bricks and Mrs. C. W. West died of a heart attack at Olympia, Wash. Marvin Klegman, 11, was killed by bricks at Lowell school in Tacoma and Jack Roller, a high school athlete, was injured fatally when a Castle Rock building toppled. In Centralia Mark Kuveric, 70, was killed when the entire front of a business building collapsed.

Injured were reported from many western Washington cities. The total may run to scores.

Capital Buildings Damaged

The quake struck violently in Olympia, Wash., damaging eight major State capital buildings. Three were ordered vacated immediately, and an official said damage to State structures alone would amount to uncounted millions. All Olympia city business buildings were ordered closed.

In the western Washington zone of heaviest damage water tanks split open, windows were shattered and bricks and concrete blocks rained into the streets.

Thousands of persons rushed from swaying buildings in Seattle, Tacoma, Olympia, Longview, Centralia and other Washington cities, and in Portland, Oreg.

Castle Rock, Aberdeen, Bremerton and Port Angeles were among the other western Washington towns that shivered and shook during the quake. East of the Cascades the series of earth shocks was felt in Wenatchee, Omak, Ellensburg, Yakima and Spokane, Wash., and on into northern Idaho, Vancouver and Victoria, B. C.,

Army Secretary Expected to Quit Before Week's End

The retirement of Secretary of the Army Kenneth C. Royall is imminent, it was reliably reported yesterday.

President Truman, it was said, will accept Royall's resignation before the end of this week.

An announcement to this effect would cause no surprise in the Pentagon. Rumors that the Army civilian chief was planning to resume the practice of law have been current for several weeks, and he has done nothing to discourage them.

4 Dead, 35 Injured In Georgia Tornadoes

Manchester, Ga., April 13 (U.P.).—Casualties from tornadoes that twisted through Georgia communities last night rose to four dead and 35 injured today.

District Wins Grand Award, Cities Prize for Traffic Safety

By Sam Zagoria
Post Reporter

Washington was named a grand award winner yesterday by the National Safety Council for doing the most during 1948 "that could be done practicably for traffic safety."

The city shares the honor of the top award with Massachusetts in the national traffic safety contest. The District won the top honor in 1946 as well.

The District was voted first place in the safety contest among cities with population of 500,000 and over and was awarded an "outstanding achievement award for its motor vehicle traffic record."

Inspector Arthur E. Miller, head of the Police Department Traffic Bureau, said the record of 52 fatalities caused by motor vehicles made last year was the lowest in the past 25 years.

Arlington, Va., won second place for cities of 100,000 to 200,000 population. Since Arlington County has no incorporated cities, it is considered a city unit in the contest.

First news of the contest victory came in a telegram from Ned H. Dearborn, president of the National Safety Council, which has

Fay's Evidence Is Challenged By Judge in Gambling Case

By Benjamin Bradlee
Post Reporter

District Court Judge David A. Pine yesterday challenged the Government to produce evidence in support of its contention that a Maryland telephone was being used in violation of District gambling statutes.

United States Attorney George Morris Fay is seeking to remove the telephone of Nathan Miller, 4923 LaSalle rd., Avondale, Md., on the grounds he has evidence Miller's phone was being used to aid and abet violation of District laws.

"There is some evidence," Judge Pine said, "that Miller may have violated Maryland gambling laws, but such a violation would not be a matter under the jurisdiction of the United States Attorney for the District of Columbia."

Miller has petitioned for an order restraining Fay and the telephone company from discontinuing service.

Pine's statement interrupted Ross O'Donoghue, assistant United States attorney, as he was summing up the Government's case against Miller.

The judge asked O'Donoghue: "On what evidence do you rely to prove that Miller's telephone was used to aid and abet violation of District gambling statutes?"

O'Donoghue said he was not prepared to answer the question at that time.

Pine said the question was crucial, and continued the case until today.

Previously, O'Donoghue had been called to the witness stand by Miller's counsel, Myron G. Ehrlich, and was asked: "What is the evidence you say you have on which you base your letter requesting the telephone company to discontinue Miller's telephone service?"

O'Donoghue, as a witness, said the evidence consisted of docu-

With Certain Limits

Pass Welfare Legislation Or Pass Out, Taft Warns GOP

By The Associated Press

Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, told his GOP colleagues bluntly yesterday that the Republican Party will be on its way out of existence if it doesn't support welfare legislation.

Taft's statement, made at a closed meeting of the Republican senatorial conference, brought him into sharp conflict over party policies with his Ohio colleague, Senator John W. Bricker, and others.

Members who attended said Bricker and Senators George W. Malone (Nev.) and Karl E. Mundt (S. Dak.) argued heatedly that the Republicans would make a mistake if they adopt a "me too" attitude toward President Truman's social welfare program.

The argument arose in discussion of the party's attitude toward a bill—ready for Senate action—aimed at spurring the construction of 810,000 housing units in the next six years. The conference broke up without any decision on a GOP stand.

Taft confirmed that he took the floor to contend that measures providing Federal aid for housing, education and health "do not depart from any basic principle" on which the Federal Government was founded.

He said it would be "an unwise

D. C. News Drought Had Varied Effects

The fog of uncertainty and inertia in the city room since Monday was suddenly dispelled yesterday about 5:15 p. m. as the unexpected was announced:

"This time you're writing for publication—the strike's over."

Rid after 2½ days of the frustration of writing for phantom editions that never appeared, reporters swung back into action with a purpose.

Outside news offices, there was hardly a life or activity not affected in the Nation's Capital by the drought of local papers.

Radio and television stations increased newscasts and were flooded with requests by newspaper advertisers for commercial time.

Blackout on News

News-hungry citizens gobbled up all available out-of-town papers. But short of gluing an ear to the radio, most had to suffer through a blackout on local news developments — and the daily destiny of favorite comic strip personalities.

Retail merchants fretted, fearing that without newspapers to advertise their wares, usually heavy pre-Easter sales would nose-dive.

The failure of the four Washington newspapers to publish was felt in quarters ranging from the White House to funeral parlors, movie theaters, courts, homes and offices.

Like the average man, President Truman was hit by the lack of local papers, Charles Ross, White House press secretary, said.

Ross made frequent trips into the President's office at Blair House with ticker copy of press associations, to apprise Mr. Truman of developments the world over.

Friends Unaware of Deaths

Without newspaper announcements of deaths and funeral plans, many persons died without their friends knowing about it, undertaker William W. Chambers, sr., found.

"Nobody can tell who's dead and who isn't without papers," said Chambers. "A family is too disturbed to telephone everyone when death comes."

One florist wailed he'd lost some of his best business during the strike: Nobody knew who died so no one ordered funeral flowers and wreaths.

Movie theaters, plagued with phone calls about attractions and schedules, reported business exceptionally good for Holy Week. Frank La Falce, of Warner Brothers, suggested an explanation:

No Paper, So It's Movies

"The folks can't read the papers after dinner, the kids are driving them crazy, they've read the magazines around the house—so it's 'Maggie, whaddyasay we see a movie, huh?'"

Eight downtown theaters banded together to develop publicity substitutes for newspaper ads and critics' reviews. Jointly they bought radio time, ads in the Bulletin, a one-page paper draped in bars, poolrooms and barber shops, and the Shopping News.

Advertising firms like Kal's went through the motions of preparing some $5000 worth of newspaper ads daily—which never appeared.

Early yesterday Judges F. Dickinson Letts and Henry A. Schweinhaut were appointed by their colleagues in District Court to investigate the effect of the newspaper shutdown on litigation. Particularly vexing was the problem of the legal notices, reporters were told. Without them, action must cease on bankrupcy, receiverships, probates, some divorces and other types of cases, unless the court can find a solution.

Judge Missed Joe Palooka

Chief Judge George P. Barse of Municipal Court, also was incommoded by the newspaper void.

"The first thing I read in the comics," said Judge Barse, "and I really missed good old Orphan Annie and Joe Palooka — they're both honest, clean-cut American types."

From more Olympian heights, Supreme Court Justice Hugo Black flatly stated that the temporary loss of local dailies had "no impact whatever on my life." Justice Black said he had "managed to survive" without erudite editorial writers pontificating down his neck.

On Capitol Hill Senator Arthur Vandenberg (R., Mich.) said the lack of local dailies "made breakfast a bit dull—I missed the home talent."

Senator Missed "Old Friends"

Senator Eugene D. Millikin (R., Colo.) said "It was like not having old friends around." Senator George W. Malone (R., Nev.), however, said he couldn't have cared less "because you only get one side of any argument in any of these papers anyway and its always the Administration side."

But the man on the street, the orchestra leader, the doorman and the taxi driver and the Government worker generally voiced one sentiment—they never appreciated before what newspapers meant till now . . .

Then there was the secretary at the National Association of Manufacturers, Miss Mary E. Nichols, who found her boss already in the office when she arrived late, all because of the paper shortage. He was lost without papers to read at home after breakfast, so he wandered to work at 8:30 a. m.—even opened his own mail.

Secretary Slept Longer

A Justice Department secretary found the strike meant more sleep. With no papers to read after dinner, she went to bed earlier.

The Alexandria Gazette almost trippled its circulation, jumping from 15,000 to 40,000 papers sold daily. Five-cent editions jumped to 7 and even 10 cents at some stands here.

Among the nettled were numbers bettors. Without locally published figures of the total mutuel at Gulfstream, they either had to take the numbers runner's word for the winning digits or buy hard-to-get out-of-town papers.

And then there was the sad plight of the press agent — lost without a single clipping to fatten his press book, his wallet and his clients ego.

CIO Strikes Double AFL's Man-Days Lost

CIO workers engaged in fewer strikes than AFL workers in 1948, but the CIO strikes caused twice as much loss in working time.

Final Labor Department figures on 1948 work stoppages showed those involving AFL unions numbered 1446, CIO unions 966, and unaffiliated unions 857. The strike total of unaffiliated unions included 587 in the coal industry.

But evidently because the CIO's strikes occurred among larger groups of workers, the idleness involving AFL unions cost six million man-days lost, as compared with 12,400,000 man-days lost as a result of CIO strikes and 12,900,000 man-days lost through strikes involving unaffiliated unions.

The Labor Department reported there were 3419 work stoppages in 1948, as compared with 3693 in 1947. Workers involved totaled 1,960,000 in 1948 and 2,170,000 in 1947. Idleness came to 34,100,000 man-days lost in 1948, as compared with 34,600,000 in 1947.

Almost 20 per cent more strikes occurred in 1948 than the average for the 1935-39 prewar period. The number of workers involved and idleness in 1948 was approximately double the 1935-39 average.

Coal mining led all other industries in number of strikes and amount of strike idleness. Man-days lost in 1948 for coal alone was 9,834,000. This was almost five per cent of the normal working time of coal diggers.

Wherry Absent From ECA Dinner By an Oversight

By the United Press

Senate Republican Leader Kenneth S. Wherry complained last night he was the only member of the Senate Appropriations Committee not invited to a dinner given by ECA Administrator Paul G. Hoffman.

Neil Dalton, head of Hoffman's press corps, hastily explained that it was a "clerical error, an oversight on the part of a clerk."

"It's terribly embarrassing," Dalton said. "There was a vacant chair. We tried to get Mr. Wherry all night. We tried every 15 minutes. But he wasn't home."

Hoffman gave the dinner at the Metropolitan Club last night for William C. Foster, head of the ECA mission in France, who is returning to that country soon.

Senate-House conferees agreed yesterday on a bill authorizing ECA appropriations for another 15 months. But some economy-minded Senators have threatened to trim ECA's funds when the actual money is appropriated.

4 Red Consulates Closed

Peaceful Settlement of Strike . . .

The Washington Post

CONTRACTS SIGNED—This was the official end of the 2½-day strike by Washington newspaper pressmen and stereotypers—the signing of contracts with the two AFL unions last night in the Willard Hotel. Participating were (seated, from left) Leo Buckley, president of the Stereotypers' local; Cyrus Ching, Federal mediator; and Charles Ernest of the Pressmen's union; and (standing, from left) Philip L. Graham, president and publisher of The Washington Post; William Shelton of the Washington Times-Herald; Crosby Boyd of the Evening Star; and Matt Meyer, business manager of the Daily News and chairman of the publishers' negotiating committee rangements, effective when sufficient trained men are available. The publishers had opposed union demands for increased manning of crews, charging there was not available an adequate number of experienced pressmen. Now the union guarantees, in effect, to supply the extra men.

The new contract will run for two years, ending February, 1951, but beginning with February, 1950, the contract may be reopened for further collective bargaining on wages and hours.

Stereotyper Terms

Detailed terms for the settlement with the stereotypers are as follows:

Wages will be increased $6 a week retroactive to December 1, 1948. An additional increase of $1.50 a week becomes effective November 1, 1949. Stereotypers have been $78.60 a week on the day shift, $80 a week at night. The union originally asked for $100 a week on the day shift, $105 at night. This wage increase demand had been cut down to $9 a week by the union just before the strike.

Hours for night shift employes will be cut from 33½ hours a week to 32½ for those who work on Saturdays. Previously the hours were 32½ for those who worked 5 days not including Saturday but 33½ if one of the 5 days was Saturday. Day shift hours remain unchanged at 37½ hours a week.

Three weeks vacation will be given stereoptypers with five or more years service with the Washington newspapers. As in the case of the pressmen, the publishers had originally offered three weeks, instead of two, beginning in 1950.

The new contract will run for two years, ending December 1, 1950, and can be reopened for wages only on 30 days notice by the union, on or after January 1, 1950.

A week ago Tuesday night the pressmen met in "continuous session" at Pythian Temple, and failed to report to work. As a result of the ensuing 25-hour-work stoppage, all four Washington newspapers failed to publish Wednesday. The international office of the pressmen, however, declared that the strike was unauthorized, and ordered the men back to work. Meanwhile, three international vice presidents of the AFL Pressmen's Union came to Washington to particiate in the negotiations.

Second Strike Sanctioned

Negotiations were then held through Sunday. That afternoon, the pressmen met and voted to strike at 8 a. m. Monday, this time with the sanction of the international union.

The stereotypers also met at Pythian Temple, and decided also to go out on strike to win their demands for a new contract.

Federal conciliators kept representatives of the publishers and unions talking to each other all through Sunday night, breaking up without a change at 6 a. m. Monday, two hours before the strike deadline. Publishers' offers to settle the strike through arbitration or a fact finding committee were turned down by the unions.

On Tuesday, the U. S. conciliators made another try to find a solution to the deadlock at another 2½-hour session, but to no avail. The settlement was finally reached yesterday after an all-day meeting of the publishers' and unions' representatives.

Operating on Old Contracts

Both Pressmen's Local No. 6 and Stereotypers Local No. 19 had been operating until the strike on old contracts. The anniversary date of the stereotypers' contract was December 1, 1948; that of the pressmen, February 7, 1949. Both contracts provided that the terms were to continue beyond the anniversary date so long as negotiations of a new contract continued. The second strike followed notification to the publishers by the unions that negotiations were over.

It was the first strike suspending publication of all four Washington papers. The morning newspapers missed two days' publication; the afternoon papers, three. The earlier wildcat strike by the pressmen caused The Washington Post to miss publication for the first time in its 71-year history.

Rival Indorsed To Run Against F. D. Roosevelt, Jr.

New York, April 13 (AP)—A municipal Court judge won the indorsement of Democratic organization leaders Tuesday for a vacant congressional seat wanted by Franklin D. Roosevelt, jr.

Justice Benjamin Shalleck was chosen by the Tammany Hall executive committee for Democratic nomination in a special election May 17 to fill the seat left vacant by the death of Representative Sol Bloom.

Roosevelt was nominated today by the New York County executive committee of the Liberal Party. He told a Liberal Party rally last night that he wants to be elected so he can "fight against the reactionary coalition of Republicans and Dixiecrats."

Senate Group Backs Fund to Probe Prices

Funds to conduct Congressional investigations of prices and economic conditions were approved yesterday by the Senate Rules Committee.

It recommended $60,000 for the Senate Banking Committee.

Chairman Maybank (D., S. C.) of that group originally asked $50,000 for an inquiry into why farm prices have dropped sharply while retail prices of goods made from them remain high. The Rules Committee raised the amount to $60,000 to cover investigations such as housing, small business and aid to veterans.

At the same time $30,000 was recommended for the Senate-House Economic Committee for a special study of investment funds and Government monetary, credit and fiscal problems as well as low income families and unemployment trends.

Both proposals now go to the Senate for expected approval.

Meanwhile, the Commerce Department reported that retail grocery sales in February totaled $1,884,000,000, 7 per cent below January but 1 per cent above February, 1948.

The Department said chain grocery sales were estimated at 740 million dollars or 39 per cent of the total. The chain store sales were 67 million dollars below January but 15 million dollars above February, 1948.

Part of Bank Loot Found in Cemetery

New York, April 13 (U.P.)—Banker Richard H. Crowe led FBI agents tonight to a cemetery on Staten Island where they recovered a "large amount" of the $62,000 still missing from the cash he took from the National City Bank on March 25.

Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe today ordered Crowe committed to Bellevue Hospital for "mental and physical examination."

Oleo, Butter Leaders Hurl Charges

Senator Wiley (R., Wis.) said yesterday the unrestricted sale of yellow margarine would "doom American agriculture." But Representative Poage (D., Tex.) contended that dairymen are simply afraid of competition.

Both men, rival leaders in the butter-oleo fight, testified before the Senate Finance Committee.

Poage is author of a House-approved bill to lift Federal taxes off oleomargarine. Wiley is one of 26 Senators pushing a substitute bill to remove the taxes but ban interstate shipment on yellow margarine.

Wiley told the committee:

The best dairy economists in the Nation have predicted that if oleo is permitted fraudulently to take the place of butter and to drive butter from the market, there will be a slaughter of an estimated two million head of dairy cattle."

Poage said experience abroad and in the United States contradicts arguments of dairymen that less butter would be sold if colored oleomargarine had no Federal restrictions.

"If we believe in free enterprise, we must believe in competition," he said.

Hearing Slated May 2 On FEPC Proposals

Chairman Adam Clayton Powell, jr. (D., N. Y.), announced yesterday that his House Labor Subcommittee will begin hearings May 2 on one phase of President Truman's civil rights program.

Powell said the group will take up proposals for a fair employment practices commission.

He said members of Congress will be the first witnesses.

German Industry Bars Eased by Big 3

By Murrey Marder
Post Reporter

Big Three agreements to ease restrictions on German industry and cut back the list of German plants scheduled for dismantling as war reparations were announced yesterday.

Both moves, agreed to by the United States, Great Britain and France, are part of their over-all plans to foster a self-supporting western German state under limited supervision, and raise the economic level of western Germany to a point where it can contribute to European recovery.

The actions stem from the foreign ministers' conferences here last week, which brought accord on plans to merge the Big Three occupation zones of western Germany, replace the military government there with a civilian Allied high commission, and establish a western German republic.

Provisions of Agreement

Like the previously announced accords, yesterday's agreements were made entirely independently of Russia.

The industry agreement provides, in part:

1. Restricted production of primary aluminum, synthetic ammonia, ball and roller bearings, certain machine tools, and construction of ocean-going ships, prohibited by the 1946 Four-Power Allied Control Authority plan.

2. Unlimited production of heavy tractors, vanadium, and radio-transmitting equipment for other than military purposes. These were prohibited under the 1946 agreement.

Banned by the new agreement, signed yesterday by the Big Three military governors in Frankfurt, Germany, would be any production of arms, ammunition, aircraft and similar items, primary magnesium, synthetic rubber, synthetic fuels and numerous other items of specific military value.

ing to a spokesman, the Western Allies' view is that Russia breached the Potsdam Agreement by making impossible any later basic accord on over-all economic policy for Germany, forcing the Big Three to act without Russia.

In place of the Big Four agreement limiting German ships to 1500 tons, the new agreement would permit partial revival of the German merchant marine—which was six million tons before the war—with authority to build cargo vessels and tankers up to 7200 gross tons and a speed of 12 knots.

Western Germany would also be permitted to buy from other nations up to 100,000 gross tons of tankers, up to 10,700 tons each and 14 knots speed, and 300,000 tons of dry cargo ships up to 7200 tons each and 12 knots speed.

Shipbuilding capacity, however, would be cut back by dismantling seven western German shipyards and no ocean-going ships could be constructed until a coastal fleet, adequate for recovery, is available—possibly within two years.

Accord on Plants

The accord on retaining industrial plants provides:

1. Retaining in western Germany all or part of 159 plants previously marked for dismantling and removal as war reparations.

2. These include 32 plants in the steel industry, 88 metal working plants, 32 chemical plants and 7 plants in nonferrous metal industries.

3. Five of the 32 steel plants produced crude steel, and retaining these would increase the crud-steel plant capacity in western Germany by 165,000 tons, to a "theoretical capacity" of 13,300,000 tons a year, although the production ceiling will remain at 11,100,000 tons.

4. The French government additionally agreed to retain in the French zone of occupation the equipment from 40 other plants or part of plants scheduled for dismantling.

The State Department announced that a revised list of the plants subject to reparations will be submitted to the final authority, the Inter-Allied Reparation Agency at Brussels.

"Final" Plant Decision

This agreement, it was said, is a "final decision" on plant removal from western Germany, and permits retention of "those plants which . . . can contribute most effectively to the coordinated economic revival of the countries participating in the European recovery program . . ."

Basis for the plant agreement was an extensive study made for the Economic Cooperation Administration by an industrial advisory committee headed by George M. Humphrey, president of the M. A. Hanna Co. of Cleveland.

This committee originally recommended retaining in Germany 167 of 381 plants that it studied, and negotiations later reduced this to the 159 figure. ECA Administrator Paul G. Hoffman, Secretary of State Dean Acheson, Secretary of the Army Kenneth C. Royall, Humphrey and Robert D. Murphy, head the Office of German-Austrian Affairs, hailed this as wholly satisfactory.

The Big Three agreement on industry levels was set out in detail. Primary aluminum production would be limited to 85,000 tons a year for example, and ball and roller bearings to 33 million units a year "on a one-shift basis, or present capacity, whichever is the less . . ."

All industry limitations are to remain in effect in their preesnt form until January 1, 1953, or until the German peace treaty is settled, whichever is earlier. If there is no treaty by that time, the limitations will be reviewed.

Calls Fears Baseless

Secretary Acheson said yesterday that any German fears that the Western Allies would use their power to suppress future German industrial competition are founded on "a baseless assumption."

He said it "has always been our aim to make Germany self-sufficient to the greatest possible degree in order to reduce the need for outside assistance."

Last week, the Big Three sent to Germany the text of an occupation statute setting out the powers the Allies will reserve to themselves in western Germany, and Acheson said general reaction to this "has not been unfavorable."

Acheson said there had been some misinterpretation of the foreign policy and trade controls listed in the statute. While the remain in effect in their present Western Allies would have the final say on such matters, he said, there would still be considerable latitude in these fields for the Germans themselves to act, and they will be encouraged "to develop their own foreign trade resources."

There must be some control over foreign trade, he said, to "assure ourselves that the funds we are supplying are properly used and are not squandered."

Quake Rains Bricks . . .

were on the northern fringe of the disturbance.

Shrieking sirens of ambulances and fire equipment added to the din. Many persons fainted, including several prisoners in the King County (Seattle) Jail.

Water Tanks Flood Streets

In seattle two water tanks broke atop business buildings, cascading water down the sides into the streets. Throughout western Washington scores of brick and concrete buildings were cracked and thousands of chimneys were damaged in homes.

Near Bonneville Dam on the Columbia River earth slides caused alarm, but the big dam and power lines apparently were not damaged.

The University of Washington seismograph recorded start of the quake at 11:15 a. m. Both needles were knocked from the drum. The seismograph still was vibrating 20 minutes later.

University seismologists rated the quake as of No. 8 intensity. (No. 12 is the worst possible intensity and would mean total destruction of an area). The worst previous quake here on February 14, 1946, was rated No. 7.

Seattle Near 'Quake Center

Keith Oles, geology department associate, estimated the center as a short distance west or southwest of Seattle.

At Honolulu and Barbers Point, seismographs located the quake's center between Seattle and Tacoma, by checking intersecting reports. The shock knocked a needle from a seismograph at the University of Nevada in Reno, and was recorded on machines in New York City.

Near Tacoma a 23-ton steel "saddle" plunged through a scow from the top of a tower being built for a new bridge across the Tacoma Narrows. The original Narrows bridge collapsed in 1940.

But throughout western Washington — the 50-to-100-mile-wide strip from Puget Sound and the Pacific Ocean to the Cascade Mountain Range, the damage was generally heavy.

At Seattle damage was particularly severe in the south business district, where old brick buildings shuddered and debris showered into the streets. Several persons were hurt by falling bricks. Parked automobiles were smashed or dented.

Frederick & Nelson's store, the Olympic Hotel, and St. James' Cathedral were damaged as was Lafayette school.

At least 10 emergency cases were admitted to hospitals at Centralia and Chehalis, Wash. Scores of buildings and at least a dozen automobiles were damaged there. It was at Centralia that a collapsing store front caused one of the deaths.

The National Bank of Commerce building was evacuated at Bremerton, Wash. The Longview Eagles hall also was evacuated. The Oregon Journal was damaged at Portland, Oreg.

Red Cross headquarters moved into action first at Olympia. Emergency shelters and facilities were set up for the care of evacuees. Sheldon Williamson, Washington State Red Cross public relations officer, said the need was particularly acute because hotels and downtown rooming houses were ordered evacuated.

At Seattle the telephone company reported the flood of calls was the greatest since the death of President Franklin D. Roosevelt. Exchanges were jammed for more than an hour, and the heavy traffic—partly long-distance calls from relatives—continued for several more hours.

Boy Scouts Trapped in Dome

There were close calls by the dozen. The casualty list was smaller, probably, because school children at Seattle were on vacation.

In Olympia, where the capitol buildings swayed and cracked, 25 Boy Scouts on a sightseeing tour were trapped 287 feet above the earth in the capitol dome. State patrolmen escorted them to safety after the jolting stopped.

And in Seattle a police officer reported observing an unidentified man hustling down a main street, attired only in shorts, shoes and a sports coat.

A touch of realism was given patrons of the Blue Mouse Theater at Tacoma. When the quake struck, they were viewing the quake scenes in the film "Last Days of Pompeii."

Many thought for a moment that the theater management had added a touch of realism but soon changed their minds. Evacuation was orderly.

Sixth Army Headquarters at San Francisco said it has been advised that Army aid will not be needed.

House Votes 595 Millions For Veterans

The House on Wednesday rushed through by voice vote a $595,890,000 emergency fund to meet rising costs of veterans' educational and unemployment benefits.

The bill was sent to the Senate for approval only two days after President Truman reported that the $2,629,977,894 appropriated to carry out the program through June 30 will be exhausted next week.

The President had estimated in his January budget that an extra $323,193,891 would be needed, but the emergency fund was increased by another $272,696,109 because of increasing unemployment among veterans and mushrooming claims for education and on-the-job training benefits.

The Veterans' Administration meantime announced that committees on "waivers and compromises" are being set up in all its regional offices to handle defaulted GI loans.

It said the committees will decide the amount due on a defaulted loan should be collected, waived or otherwise adjusted. Each case will be considered on its merits and VA will not press for a quick settlement where it would result in "undue hardship" on the veteran or his family.

Since the GI loan program started in 1944. VA has paid claims against guaranteed loans totaling about 10 million dollars, on behalf of 11,200 veterans. Claims currently are being paid at the rate of 450 to 500 a month.

More than half of the debts resulted from business loans.

In another move to aid veterans, the House completed congressional action on a bill to help the overseas sweethearts of GIs to come to this country to be married. The bill, sent to the White House for Mr. Truman's signature, admits GIs' fiancees to enter the country without regard to immigration quotas but requires them to get married within 90 days thereafter. Only those who filed applications before January 1 are eligible.

F-8 Pilot Dies in Crash

Frankfurt, Germany, April 13 (U.P.).—A United States Air Force pilot was killed today when his F-8 fighter plane crashed 25 miles east of Nuernberg.

Johnson Backs Air Academy

A separate "West Point of the Air" to educate future Air Force officers was recommended unanimously yesterday by a special national military board.

Defense Secretary Louis Johnson approved the proposal and passed it along to the Air Force as a guide in drafting legislation to authorize the proposed academy.

The board did not recommend any specific site for the school but Congress already have introduced bills to establish it at a dozen different places.

Dr. Robert L. Stearns, president of the University of Colorado, headed the board. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhowev is vice chairman. It included six civilian educators and representatives of the Army, Navy and Air Force.

The board decided against expanding the Military Academy at West Point, N. Y., and the Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., to educate future Air Force officers.

It said a separate academy would "develop the morale and spirit found in the existing academies." It also should help unification by putting the Air Force on a par with the Army and Navy, it added.

The Air Force now is allocated 40 per cent of the West Point graduates and 7 per cent of those from the Naval Academy. That system would continue until the new academy is operating.

Argentina's Packers To Close Down April 21

Buenos Aires, Argentina, April 13 (U.P.).—The 12 major packing houses in Argentina will close down April 21 because of huge operating losses, reliable United States business sources said today.

Wage increases recently granted to 58,000 workers retroactive to February 1 have doubled the industry's monthly losses from three million dollars to six million dollars, the sources said.

Approximately half of the industry is owned by United States firms, including the "Big Three," Armour, Swift and Wilson.

Air Force Joins Army in Blast At Inadequate Defense Setup

The Air Force joined the Army yesterday in publicly blasting the existing national defense setup as inadequate and expensive.

Secretary of Air Symington, appearing at a closed-door session of the Senate Armed Services Committee Thursday, declared the present unification law "has not worked satisfactorily." Chairman Tydings (D., Md.) made the testimony public yesterday.

"We have tried out this half-measure organization and there is unanimous agreement that it is inadequate," Symington said.

He added that former Secretary of Defense Forrestal "has constantly been a referee of three brawls as he tried to operate his job."

Like Secretary of the Army Royall, who said much the same thing in an open session of the committee Tuesday, Symington said the civilian defense chief never will be able to ride herd on the quarreling Army, Navy and Air Force unless he is given much greater power.

Such authority, he said, "could save billions annually."

That could be accomplished, Symington added, by operating the Defense Department "from a fresh start as against trying to haul together three independent units," each with its own training, procurement and the like.

When such a merger of functions was adopted in the San Francisco defense region, he said, it ended a "triplication in warehousing, in transportation, and so forth."

Just as Royall did, Symington urged dropping the civilian heads of the Army, Navy and Air Force from their present ranks to the position of undersecretaries.

Both officials went considerably beyond the measure intended to tighten up the unification of the three services which is now before the Senate committee.

Last Temblor, In '46, Shook Seattle Too

Portland, Oreg., April 13 (U.P.).—The last relatively strong temblor in the Pacific Northwest was on June 24, 1946, when one person died from a heart attack brought on by excitement.

The 1946 quake was centered mostly around the Seattle area and damage was minor.

But seismologists described it as the "sharpest in recent years."

In nearly 100 years the Pacific Northwest has not suffered a major earthquake disaster. But from 1830 to 1860 the area was plagued with a continuing series of bad jolts touched off by the eruptions of Mount Hood, Mount Rainier, Mount Baker and Mount St. Helens.

On July 15, 1936 a "State line earthquake" centering near Walla Walla, Wash., caused $100,000 damage and shook an area of 105,000 square miles with no casualties. A 1939 temblor in Washington caused slight damage.

Czechs Jail American Woman Relief Chief For 'Political Activities'; Expel 2 Pastors

Prague, Czechoslovakia, April 13 (AP).—The United States Embassy revealed today that Miss Vlasta A. Vraz, the head of the American relief here since this nation was liberated from the Germans in 1945, is a prisoner of Czechoslovakia police.

Miss Vraz, an American citizen whose home is in Berwyn, Ill., was arrested Saturday. Interviewed in prison by United States Consular officer Carroll Parry, she said she understood she is held for an investigation "in connection with alleged activities of a political nature."

Miss Vraz said she had been treated well so far.

It was learned that at least two American pastors have been expelled from Czechoslovakia recently and the American head of an orphanage in Moravia is under orders to quit the country.

The security police have ordered that all visas for foreigners issued before Apri 1, 1949, must be returned for reexamination. The purpose of this was not announced.

Dr. Kenneth Miller, chairman of the Board of American Relief for Czechoslovakia, termed the arrest astounding and "a rather ungrateful sort of procedure." He commented in New York that Miss Vraz has been the sole agent in distributing more than four million dollars' worth of relief supplies, including food, medical equipment and drugs. The charge of political activity is baseless, he said, adding: "We are solely a relief organization and have engaged in no political activity whatever."

He said Czech relief work would stop.

The circumstances of the arrest were not made public.

It was learned today that the Rev. and Mrs. Daniel Seryance, who held a Baptist church post in Slovakia, had left March 15, virtually expelled from Czechoslovakia for violating a 1935 law which dealt with foreigners "who created economic instability and public disorder."

It was learned the Rev. J. J. Pavelda of Phoenix, Ariz., another Baptist minister, was expelled last December.

Police barred display of the European editions of the New York Herald Tribune in the public library of the United States Information Service. The newspapers have been censored daily for the last week without a single reason being announced.

Mosaic Association To Seek Skilled Workers in Italy

The National Terrazzo and Mosaic Association will send Charles Di Giulian, president of the Standard Art, Marble & Tile Co., as its representative to Italy to choose 200 trained terrazo and mozaic workers for possible future immigration here.

Di Giulian

The industry, suffering a seceng shortage of skilled workers, hopes for passage of a House bill, HR 946, amending present immigration laws to permit priority immigration of workers in the skilled trades.

Di Giulian, who lives at 5900 Moreland st. nw., leaves April 23 for a four-week trip to Italy, accompanied by Otto d'Agnolo of Rockford, Ill., another association representative.

No U. S. Bases, Norway Says

Oslo, Norway, April 13 (AP).—Norway moved quickly today to discredit a report in the Moscow press that the United States is getting military bases here.

The Norwegian Foreign Office said the report consisted of "brazen lies."

Moscow's Pravda prominently displayed a Helsinki dispatch quoting an article in two Finnish Communist newspapers from the "Oslo correspondent of the Democratic Press Bureau of Finland." It said a "so-called American transport delegation which arrived in Norway in mid-March consisted of American military specialists" whose job was to study the territory and ports of Norway with the idea of setting up naval and air bases.

"It is clear the government of Norway, notwithstanding all its assurances to the contrary, has undertaken an obligation to grant the United States military bases even in peacetime," the dispatch concluded.

Cultural Purge Against Jews Seen in Soviet

London, April 13 (U.P.).—The current Soviet campaign against "homeless cosmopolitans" among Russian literary critics is taking on some aspects of an anti-Jewish "cultural purge," experts on Russian affairs said today.

Soviet art and literary journals have deliberately drawn attention to the Jewish origin of such critics—usually by adding in parenthesis the Jewish family names to their Russian and Ukrainian pseudonyms.

In the past the Soviet press was more inclined to conceal than to advertise the Jewish origin of prominent persons, but a study of names of persons involved in the campaign showed that nearly all are Jews.

Attacks on Jewish nationalism led to the assumption among Russian experts here that establishment of a Jewish state in Palestine may have influenced the outlook of Soviet Jewry. Soviet authorities, the experts added, may therefore be trying to nip in the bud the emergence of pro-Zionist tendencies in the Soviet Union.

Peters Ordered Deported As Alien Communist

The Justice Department said yesterday a deportation order has been issued against Jay Peters of New York City, whom it described as an important figure in the U. S. Communist Party.

Peters was described by a number of witnesses before the House Un-American Activities Committee as a leader in the Communist underground.

When he appeared before the committee, Peters refused to answer many questions on constitutional grounds that he might incriminate himself.

The Justice Department announced the deportation order has been signed by Immigration Commissioner Watson B. Miller. His action upheld the findings of an immigration hearing officer at New York that Peters, a native of Hungary and an unnaturalized alien, should be excluded from this country.

19 More Germans Convicted at Nuernberg

Nuernberg, Germany, April 13 (AP).—An American court completed tonight the reading of verdicts convicting 19 former German officials of war crimes.

Sentences will be passed Thursday. The prosecution has asked the death penalty. Only 2 of the 21 Germans who went on trial 15 months ago were freed. The trial, the longest of the war crimes hearings, involved a total of seven counts.

Judge Leon W. Powers of Dennison, Iowa, filed a dissenting opinion, complaining that a strange doctrine of "mass or collective guilt" was applied in the majority ruling of the two other judges. He agreed only in the convictions on two counts, enslaving conquered peoples and membership in criminal organizations.

His dissent will not affect the convictions as only a majority vote is required.

The majority are William C. Christianson of Red Wing, Minn., and Robert T. Maguire of Portland, Oreg.

The court found the 19 guilty, in one way or another, of helping in the Nazi program of aggression, plunder, brutality and murder.

The 19 found guilty were Baron Ernst von Weizsaecker, Gustav Steengracht von Moyland, Wilhelm Keppler, Ernst Wilhelm, Bohle, Hans Woermann, Karl Ritter, Edmund Veesenmayer, Hans Heinrich Lammers, Wilhelm Stuckart, Richard Walter Darre, Otto Dietrich, Gottlieb Berger, Walter Schellenberg, Lutz Schwerin von Kresigk, Emil Puhl, Paul Koerner, Paul Pleiger, Hans Kehrl, Karl Rasche.

Otto Meissner and Otto von Erdmannsdorff were acquitted on all counts.

Sen. Gillette Plans Fats, Oils Hearing

Senator Gillette (D., Iowa) said yesterday a Senate Agriculture subcommittee of which he is chairman will open a hearing next week on the fats and oils supply problem, including current low prices for lard.

An announcement from his office said it is likely the other subcommittee members will be Senators Lucas (D., Ill.), Holland (D., Fla.), Aiken (R., Vt.) and Young (R., Ind.).

U. N. Delays Action On Plea of Israel

New York, April 13 (AP).—Israel's hopes for early admission to the United Nations were dashed today by a surprise decision for full review of the Zionist state's right to join.

The U. N. Assembly voted 31 to 18 to study the Israeli application in the 58-nation political committee. Nine countries did not vote. Earlier the Assembly voted 46 to 7, with three abstentions, to put the question of admitting Israel on the Assembly calendar of this spring session.

Israel must get a two thirds majority of those present and voting in the Assembly. It may be mid-May before the bid comes up for a final vote.

The decision meant the Assembly majority wants full information from Israel on these points:

1. Israeli designs on Jerusalem. Israeli leaders have sought at least part of Jerusalem as Israel's capital. The U. N. wants to internationalize Jerusalem and the holy places.

2. Treatment of Arab refugees, reported to total between 800,000 and 1,000,000. They left fighting areas during the Palestine war.

3. Scandinavian dissatisfaction with Israel's inquiry into the assassination of Swedish Count Folke Bernadotte, U. N. mediator.

4. What does Israel plan to do about the differences between her present borders and the boundaries laid down in the U. N. Palestine partition plan of November 29, 1947?

Among the big powers, only Britain voted to send the application to committee. The United States, Russia, France and China advocated direct action by the Assembly.

The vote on the proposal for committee treatment showed:

For (31)—Afghanistan, Argentina, Belgium, Bolivia, Brazil, Burma, Cuba, Denmark, Egypt, El Salvador, Ethiopia, Greece, Haiti, India, Iran, Iraq, Lebanon, Luxembourg, Netherlands, Norway, Pakistan, Peru, Saudi Arabia, Siam, Sweden, Syria, Turkey, South Africa, Britain, Venezuela, Yemen.

Against (18)—Australia, White Russia, Chile, China, Costa Rica, Czechoslovakia, Dominican Republic, France, Guatemala, Mexico, New Zealand, Panama, Poland, Ukraine, Russia, United States, Uruguay, Yugoslavia.

Abstentions (7)—Canada, Colombia, Ecuador, Honduras, Liberia, Nicaragua, Philippines.

Absent (2)—Iceland, Paraguay.

the Assembly that lists 34 items as procedural and thus not subject to the veto. The Council rules provide that the five great powers must agree unanimously that a question is procedural in order to prevent a veto.

Gromyko made a detailed defense of the Soviet use of the veto. He said if the veto were abolished or weakened the Security Council would be transformed into a blind instrument in the hands of the British-American bloc.

He said if it were not for the veto all decisions would be dictated by the United States.

Dutra Welcome Committee to Meet

Kathy's Family at Funeral Services

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

PARENTS AND SISTER—The family of 3-year-old Kathy Fiscus, whose tragic death in a California well pipe touched the Nation's heart, enters an automobile after attending funeral services for Kathy yesterday at Alhambra, Calif. British Charge Soviet Breaks 20-Year Pact

London, April 13 (AP).—Britain accused Russia today of breaching their 20-year friendship alliance.

She said Russia had violated every clause in the Potsdam Accord, relating to the alliance.

The note, a reply to Russia's protest against the North Atlantic alliance, was made public as a diplomatic specialist in German affairs reported that Russia has made a new conditional and informal offer to lift the Berlin blockade.

The informant, who declined to be identified even as to nationality said the Russians recently launched feelers through Polish representatives in Berlin on a deal to lift the blockade if four-power negotiations on Germany would be resumed.

The story could not be confirmed in Berlin, Frankfurt or Washington.

Britain said Russia agreed in their treaty to give "all possible economic assistance after the war" to her ally, but on the contrary engaged in "open attempts to wreck the European Recovery Program."

The note said the Atlantic alliance conformed to the spirit and letter of the U. N. Charter.

Kathy Buried In Easter Garb, Doll by Side

Alhambra, Calif., April 13 (AP).—The funeral of pretty little Kathy Fiscus was held today.

The family had requested that no flowers be sent, that the money be contributed instead to the Children's Hospital in Los Angeles. But sympathizers symbolic of a world's grief for a little girl who fell 90 feet down an abandoned well to her death could not be stopped.

There were more than 100 sprays in the ivy-grown stone mortuary chapel. Actor Lionel Barrymore sent a 5-foot cross of white sweet peas and white roses.

Kathy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David H. Fiscus, lay in a 4-foot casket covered with blue silk plush and lined with pale pink velvet.

Her features were tranquil, her blond, curly hair touseled. She wore the ruffly white dress she would have worn Easter Sunday. At her left side in the coffin lay her plaster doll, which wore a tiny figured dress and was wrapped in a miniature plaid quilt. The doll's painted blue eyes were open.

Members of the heroic rescue team which labored 52 hours to free her from her pipe prison sat in front rows.

The Rev. Bertrand R. Crist, pastor of the San Marino Congregational Church, which Kathy attended, conducted service. Burial was in Chula Vista.

Premier Forms Greek Cabinet

Athens, Greece, April 13 (U.P.)—Premier Themistocles Sophoulis formed a new Greek government tonight. It will be sworn in Thursday.

The new cabinet closely resembles the old, with the exclusion of Spyro Markenzinis, minister without portfolio, whose refusal to resign forced the entire cabinet to quit yesterday.

Two others dropped were Labor Minister Elevtherios Gonis and National Economy Minister Athanasios Capsalis.

The Premier had demanded Markezinis' resignation because the New Party (rightist) leader had been accused of currency smuggling.

Polk Thought Slain By Reds to Halt Aid

Salonika, Greece, April 13 (U.P.).—The blonde, American-born wife of a Greek newspaperman said today she believed Communists killed CBS Correspondent George Polk "to thwart American aid to Greece."

Mrs. Helen Zotos appeared as the first American prosecution witness in the trial of Greek newsman Gregory Staktopoulos and his mother, Anna, charged with Polk's murder last May.

Three others indicted have never been caught.

Polk once was a Washington newsman.

Mrs. Zotos said:

"I can say I believe the Communists were the perpetrators of the crime. They had everything to gain. It would not have been to the advantage of the Nationalists."

Quizzed by Defense

On cross-examination, a defense attorney asked Mrs. Zotos if she believed a correspondent accredited to the Greek government had the right to "contact the enemy."

Polk reportedly was trying to get in touch with Guerilla Leader Markos Vafiades when he was killed.

"That is the basis of being an objective reporter," Mrs. Zotos replied.

Later, Staktopoulos personally questioned her, saying that he was the first newspaperman to report that Polk was missing and asking why she had not sent a similar story.

Defense Points a Finger

Defense attorneys asserted the American-born witness was "personally interested in Staktopoulos' conviction" because if he were acquitted "the investigation would continue and she might be involved."

[Staktopoulos testified that Polk was shot to death in a rowboat in Salonika Bay at midnight, May 8, the Associated Press reported. He said he did not see the shot fired.]

Mrs. Zotos is married to Stephen Zotos, a Greek correspondent now stationed in Washington. She wrote for the Associated Press under her maiden name, Helen Mamas.

William Polk, a brother of the murdered man, arrived here this morning to observe courtroom procedure. He said a private American committee studying the Polk case was particularly interested in the methods used in the trial.

He said the committee had noted that the court permitted hearsay evidence, and that it took only 7 minutes to select a jury.

Polk conferred during today's session with Maj. Gen. William J. Donovan, wartime head of the United States Office of Strategic Services, who conducted a lengthy investigation of the slaying last summer.

Communists Quit Yangtze In Peace Step

Nanking, China, (Thursday,) April 14 (U.P.).—The Communists have begun a general withdrawal from the north bank of the Yangtze River, Nationalist officials reported today.

The report came as thousands of refugees streamed southward from the Hankow area, in face of the Communist threat to the mid-China city, and as south China took emergency measures to cope with the influx.

Gen. Ku Chu-tung, Nationalist chief of staff, said the withdrawal showed the Reds' cease-fire order—issued to facilitate peace negotiations—had filtered down to the front lines.

The Communist radio said "formal" peace talks had begun in Peiping but gave no further details.

Authoritative sources stated the peace talks would be concluded "one way or another" by the end of the month, and that a tentative agreement would be brought here today from Peiping.

U. S. A-Bomb Stocks Put at 100 to 200

NYHT News Service

New York, April 13.—From published data, the present stock of American atomic bombs "would be conservatively estimated at 100 to 200," J. A. Campbell, assistant professor of chemistry at Oberlin College, Ohio, a former member of the wartime Manhattan project, said in an article published today in the "Armed Forces Chemical Journal."

Dr. Campbell told a reporter he wasn't citing information derived from his own project work, but rather putting together published statements.

D. C. Board Orders Report on Burial Of Indigents

District Commissioners, acting on a complaint by Senator J. Howard McGrath (D., R. I.) on the handling of the burial of District indigents, directed Public Welfare Director John W. Tramburg to make a report on present policies.

The city heads met with Tramburg and Edgar Morris, chairman, Board of Public Welfare, Tuesday morning to discuss the letter from Senator McGrath, chairman of the Senate District Committee.

The Senator protested that the "decent" burial of many indigents is left to "charity and chance" because of a welfare department rule that only persons who had been on the relief rolls were eligible for burial at public expense.

U. N. Prodded By Indonesia

New Delhi, India, April 13 (A.P.).—An unheralded conference of 11 Asian countries again prodded the United Nations today to restore authority of the Indonesian republic.

The conference called in a communique for a "prompt and satisfactory settlement of the Indonesian problem in accordance with the Security Council's resolution of January 28."

At the same time, Premier Thakin Nu of Burma was reported going home empty handed after an appeal to Indian Prime Minister Nehru for arms and supplies to help put down insurrections. An Indian source said India is short of arms.

Thakin Nu represented Burma at the surprise conference on the Indonesian question. The other 10 countries were India and the members of the 19-nation January conference who have diplomatic representatives here. They were Afghanistan, Australia, Ceylon, China, Egypt, Iran, Nepal, Pakistan and Siam.

Today's meeting came on the eve of a scheduled Dutch-Indonesian meeting in Batavia Thursday.

of each business that ECA would guarantee to convert.

The conference struck out the House-passed provision guaranteeing dollar compensation to American businessmen in the event of seizure, destruction by riot, revolution or war etc.

Among other major points of the compromise bill are:

1. House conferees accepted the Senate-passed provision that 54 billion dollars remaining in unobligated Chinese aid funds shall be made available to the President "for obligation through February 15, 1950, for assistance in the areas of China which he may deem not to be under Communist domination and to be furnished in such manner and on such terms and conditions as he may determine."

2. House conferees also accepted the Senate provision that ERP aid for the Netherlands shall be continued unless the U. N. Security Council invokes sanctions against the Dutch for their Indonesian operations.

3. A compromise "small business" provision was adopted providing for the appointment of a special assistant to handle the problems of small business. The provision stated that so far as practicable ECA shall make information available as far in advance as possible to small business as to how they can participate in the program.

4. The measure provides that 12½ per cent of the wheat transported under ERP grant shall first be ground into flour in American mills. Under the present law the figure is 25 per cent.

5. The Senate-adopted provision that at least 15 per cent of corn shipments shall be in the form of corn grits, corn meal and corn flour is eliminated.

6. House conferees accepted the Senate amendment that no ERP funds may be used by participating nations "for the advertising of foreign products in this country nor for advertising foreign travel in this country."

Decreases Recognized

Hoffman told a news conference that some of the recent price drops in this country were taken into consideration when the Economic Cooperation Administration drew up its requests last fall for $5,580,000,000 to run the Marshall Plan another 15 months.

"But it is entirely possible that a recalculation might disclose savings that can be made as a result of further changes in price," he said.

Hoffman added that the ECA would welcome it "if such savings or any savings can be effected without imperiling the present momentum of recovery."

When asked later whether the savings might be applied on the arms program, Hoffman replied through an ECA spokesman that this is "a matter of policy for the President and the Congress to decide."

Jury Told Red Said Party Backs Strikes

New York, April 13 (AP).—An FBI agent today quoted a Michigan Communist leader as saying the party was "behind all strikes, auto, steel, electric and meat."

The agent, Fred Cook, did not amplify the statement for a Federal Court jury at the conspiracy trial of 11 top American Communist leaders.

He said Carl Winter, Michigan State Communist Party director and one of the trial defendants, made the statement at a meeting in Detroit in 1946.

An earlier witness told the jury that one of the main aims of the Communist Party in stiffening its policies in 1945 was to "kill the Roosevelt myth."

Doesn't Explain Myth

This witness, Frank S. Meyer of Woodstock, N. Y., did not explain what was meant by the phrase "Roosevelt myth."

Meyer added new details to the prosecution charge of a conspiracy beginning in 1945 to advocate violent overthrow of the government.

A Communist Party member for several years and formerly a teacher at a New York Communist school, Meyer said the school faculty was told in 1945 that the party must return to Marxist-Leninist principles.

The Government contends these principles aim at a violent revolution with control of the state to be seized by the working class.

Jacob Stachel, educational director of the party and one of the 11 top Communists on trial, gave the instructions to the faculty, Meyer said.

He quoted Stachel as saying that one of the reasons the party had drifted away from Marxism-Leninism was that "the years of Roosevelt had cut off the sharpness of understanding of the class struggle, and that one of the first things to do was to kill the Roosevelt myth."

A Detroit FBI agent, Eugene H. Stewart, took the stand and told the jury of a "Lenin Memorial" meeting in Detroit, January 31, 1946.

The speakers were Winter and Tim Buck of the National Labor Progressive Party of Canada, Stewart testified.

Time Soon to Come

Winter told the open meeting, the agent testified, that "the time was soon to come when Lenin's teachings would be put into action."

Stewart quoted Buck as using the phrase "we Communists" and as saying the United States is "the sole remaining imperialist nation" and that "the time was soon coming when the Communists would smash their way to victory."

FBI Agent Cook corroborated Stewart's testimony about the Detroit meeting and said Winter declared the Communist Party was "behind all strikes auto—steel, electric and meat."

Stewart was called hurriedly by the prosecution after the defense had waived its right to cross-examine Meyer.

The defense asked that the cross-examination be postponed until the next session of court, saying this was "desirable to have an overnight check" before proceeding. But Federal Judge Harold R. Medina ruled against the request, saying it might set a precedent for similar delays after every other witness had testified.

The defense also declined to cross-examine Stewart.

'Step to Peace'

Atlantic Pact Sent to Senate By President

President Truman sent the North Atlantic alliance to the Senate Tuesday. He asked ratification of the 12-nation alliance as only one step—although a long one, he said—on the road to peace.

In a message accompanying the treaty, the President underlined determination of the western powers to avoid being overcome one at a time by terror and oppression. He avoided mention of the Soviet Union by name, but he said:

"No single action, no matter how significant, will achieve peace. We must continue to work patiently and carefully, advancing with practical, realistic steps in the light of circumstances and events as they occur, building the structure of peace soundly and solidly."

Knowing that the treaty faces possibly a month of hearings and long debate thereafter, Mr. Truman did not ask the Senate for speedy approval. Nor did he discuss the Administration's further step for peace that will occasion much of the debate. This step, the program to help arm the alliance nations, is scheduled for submission to Congress at some later date.

Submission of specific arms legislation may even be deferred, it was learned, until after the Senate has acted on the treaty.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee chairman, Senator Tom Connally (D., Tex.), said the hearings will begin April 25 or some time thereafter.

The Atlantic treaty was signed on April 4 by the United States, Canada, Great Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg, all of which must ratify to make the alliance effective, and by Norway, Denmark, Italy, Portugal and Iceland. In submitting it to the Senate, President Truman sent along three documents: the text of the treaty itself, his message, and a long statement from Secretary of State Dean Acheson.

Acheson's statement spelled out the history of the treaty, its objectives and the meaning of its preamble and 14 articles.

Peace Pamphlet 'Raid' On Soviet Proposed

Senator Ralph E. Flanders (R., Vt.) yesterday proposed bombarding Russia with peace pamphlets dropped from guided missiles and remote-control planes to back up the North Atlantic security alliance.

He advanced the proposal during a Senate discussion of the alliance. While he favors the pact, Flanders said he is considering voting against it because he is afraid that it alone will not halt Communist expansion.

He said the United States must launch a "political offensive from our side of the cold war" that will tell the Russian people in so many words "why it is that the rest of the world fears Russia and arms against her."

policy for the party to take the position that these and other welfare matters are affairs of the States in which we ought not to concern ourselves."

Taft, who heads the Senate GOP policy committee, told his colleagues further that "if you deny the Republican Party's interest in the welfare of the low-income people of this Nation, there soon won't be any Republican Party."

It was his position, Taft said, that the Republicans should try to put "certain limitations and restraints" on the Truman program to prevent the "complete socialization" he charged would be involved in such proposals as that for universal medical care.

"We should work to reduce hardship and poverty to a minimum," he said. "But we must not set the sights for Federal aid so high that people who don't work are better off than people who do."

Taft said he agreed with Bricker, Mundt and Malone that the Republicans must support the free enterprise system. But he added:

"We had better take care of those in the lowest income brackets or we will lose the free enterprise system."

the Budget, had "cut the vitals out of the Navy."

He declared that attack aircraft carriers are the "backbone of the Navy," and said the 1950 appropriation bill would permit only 843 naval planes to be ordered next year—about a third less than this year. It will mean, said Vinson, that the Navy will have only 5058 planes by 1955, instead of the 8166 required.

The Sheppard amendment—which would have boosted 1950 Navy plane orders to approximately 1300—was defeated 125 to 63.

Cannon's table-thumping attack on the naval air power proposal was certain to have repercussions abroad. Put the money into land-based Air Force bombers, he shouted.

Picture of Warfare

"With the signing of the Atlantic treaty we have the bases," the Administration leader said. "All we need now is the planes to de-The Bomb.

"We must hit Moscow and every other city in Russia within one week after the next war starts. We must, in the first three weeks, pulverize every military center in the Soviet Union."

The Missourian, urging concentration on land-based air power, declared: "Let us equip soldiers from other nations and let them send their boys into the holocausts instead of sending our own boys."

He also agreed with Representative John Taber (R., N. Y.) that the Navy's new 65,000-ton carrier should not be built, contending it would be a "sitting duck" that would "be sunk in three days." Representatives Dewey Short (R., Mo.) and Sterling Cole (R., N. Y.) joined Vinson and Sheppard in urging strengthening of the Navy. The latter declared that defeat of the Sheppard amendment "indicates a trend which will spell the end of naval aviation."

Before passing the bill, the House defeated by voice vote amendments to: (1) End the standby draft and release all draftees; (2) kill the Air Force's new blue uniform.

Of the near 16 billions carried in the bill, $1,886,000,000 is cash to pay off prior years' contract authorization, $2,646,301,000 is in new contractual authority, and the remainder is new cash. The Air Force would get $4,222,954,000 cash and $1,992,755,000 contract authority; the Navy, $4,375,327,000 cash and $643,546,000 contract power, and the Army $4,481,834,200 in cash.

Even a Solomon Couldn't Solve This

San Francisco, April 13 (AP).—Two claimants of a German shepherd dog appeared before Assistant District Attorney R. J. Swetmann.

One, David Hines, called, "Here, Scotty; here Scotty."

The other, Thomas Van King, called: "Here, Jo Jo; here, Jo Jo."

Swetmann called: "Come here, Laddie."

The dog sped into Swetmann's arms.

He waved his arms in despair and told the men to take the case to the civil courts.

Truman Urges Valley Agency For Columbia

By Marshall Andrews
Post Reporter

President Truman asked Congress yesterday to consolidate Federal development of the Columbia River Valley in a Columbia Valley Authority patterned after TVA.

The President proposed that a CVA take over building and operation of conservation, water and power facilities in the great valley of the Pacific Northwest. These operations are now maintained separately by the Reclamation Bureau and the Bonneville Power Administration, both Interior Department agencies, and by the Army's Corps of Engineers.

The request was contained in a lengthy message to Congress in which Mr. Truman said establishment of a CVA "will provide not only for a balanced program of constructing dams, irrigation works, power transmission lines and other facilities, but also for a workable operating plan for using these facilities simultaneously for flood control, navigation, power generation and transmission, fish protection and other purposes."

Better Development Seen

Not only would this program give better balance to development of the valley's resources, he said, but would bring the Government "closer to the people—closer to the grass roots." And he added:

"This means Government action that will be more responsive to the needs of the people."

While the President offered no estimate of the cost of such a project, he said it would have the advantage of planning and construction already accomplished.

Although the proposal met with approval in Congress it also ran into trouble. Senator Magnuson (D., Wash.) said he would introduce a bill next week to carry it out and Senator Kefauver (D., Tenn.) said he would join in its sponsorship. But the message was tabled in the Senate until Vice President Barkley can return from out of town and decide to which committee it should be referred.

Mr. Truman told Congress he did not intend transferring any other Federal activities in the region to the CVA and stressed the importance of "local participation." The organization, he said, should have its headquarters in the area, "easily accessible to the people who live there.

Preference to Cooperations

It should, he continued, be required:

"To follow the reclamation laws in contracting for the disposition of land or water in reclamation projects.

"To give the customary preferences and priorities to public agencies and cooperatives in disposing of electric energy.

"To demonstrate the economic soundness of various projects it undertakes and to repay reimbursable costs, in accordance with national policies."

The President pointed out that the Columbia River system is second only to the Mississippi in flow and that the three million kilowatts of electric energy now being produced in the area could be increased tenfold. More land could be irrigated, he said, than the four million acres now being supplied with water.

U. S., Canada Set Up Joint M-Day Group

The United States and Canada on Tuesday established a joint committee to coordinate their plans for industrial mobilization in the event of an emergency.

The State Department made public an exchange of notes between Laurence A. Steinhardt, American ambassador in Ottawa, and Canadian Foreign Minister Lester B. Pearson, creating the Joint United States-Canada Industrial Mobilization Committe.

Steinhardt's note said that common interests of the two governments in defense, "their proximity and the complementary characteristics of their resources" indicate the advantages of coordinated efforts.

United States members of the board are Dr. John R. Steelman, acting chairman of the National Security Resources Board, and Donald F. Carpenter, chairman of the Munitions Board. Canadian members are Harry J. Carmichael, chairman of the Industrial Defense Board, and S. D. Pierce, associate deputy minister of the Department of Trade and Commerce.

The committee will have the function of exchanging information "with a view to the coordination" of industrial mobilization plans, and making recommendations regarding such plans. It also will be responsible for cooperation with the existing permanent joint board on defense in industrial mobilization matters.

Senate Approves TVA Steam Plant Fund

The Senate last night passed a 542 million dollars deficiency appropriation bill, including $2,500,000 to start work on the TVA's new Johnsonville, Tenn., steam plant.

The measure was sent to conference with the House, which already had passed a different version.

Action came after two days of hot dispute centering on the steam plant. Senator Styles Bridges (R., N. H.) sought to strike the plant fund, but was defeated, 55 to 30.

Senator Homer Ferguson (R., Mich.) then moved to amend the bill to permit a taxpayers' court test of the constitutionality of the development of mechanical power by the Government. The move was defeated on a point of order.

Salaries Tied Up

Pay for some Government employes since April 1 is tied up in the bill and Senator Kenneth McKellar (D., Tenn.) said he did not want it delayed during the 10-day recess the House starts this evening.

Provisions for the Johnsonville steam plant are identical in the House and Senate bills.

The chief disagreement is over the over-all amounts provided in the two versions. The Senate added 67 million dollars to the House-approved total, primarily to meet expenses that arose after the House version was passed.

The largest item, unchanged by the Senate, is 151 million dollars in grants to States for increased old-age and blind-aid benefits.

The Senate raised to 14 million dollars the amount earmarked for Administration of unemployment compensation and State employment offices. The House had voted only 10 million dollars, rejecting an attempt by Representative Antoni N. Sadlak (R., Conn.) to boost it to 14 million dollars.

Other major items in the Senate bill include:

A $4,800,000 appropriation to pay for administration of rent controls.

$99,379,000 to the Veterans Administration for national service life insurance, for soldiers and sailors civil relief, and for miscellaneous veterans' benefits.

$11,084,500 for the Agriculture Department to meet unexpected expenses.

$13,783,140 for the Commerce Department and $10,954,000 for the Interior Department.

An emergency fund of $44,509,000 for the Army Engineers to make up a deficit on current flood control and navigation projects.

$102,977,000 for the Postoffice Department for various services and functions.

Bill to Admit 195,000 More DPs Approved

A House Judiciary subcommittee yesterday approved a bill to allow 195,000 additional refugees to enter the United States during the next four years, including some who fled from "iron curtain" countries as recently as last year.

The measure would nullify provisions of the present Displaced Persons Act which President Truman labeled discrimination against Jews and Catholics.

Subcommittee Chairman Francis E. Walter (D., Pa.) said the measure "certainly" will be indorsed by the full committee and he predicted the House will pass it. He said it should reach the floor soon after Easter.

Truman Could Increase It

The bill would permit entry of 300,000 displaced persons up to July 1, 1953. The President coould increase the number to 400,000 if he found it to be in the best interests of the Nation, and provided other nations are taking their fair share of DPs.

The present law allows entry of 205,000 DPs up to July 1, 1950. Mr. Truman has asked that the figure be raised "substantially."

The new measure would permit entry of DPs who moved into refugee camps in Italy and the western zones of Germany and Austria up to January 1, 1949. Present law sets the cut-off date at December 22, 1945.

Walter said the January 1, 1949, date would open the doors to Poles, Czechs and Hungarians who have fled their countries since the end of the war.

An Administration bill introduced in the Senate by Senators J. Howard McGrath (D., R. I.) and Matthew M. Neely (D., W. Va.) provides for a cut-off date of April 21, 1947.

Discrimination Barred

The subcommittee wrote in a specific provision barring discrimination because of race, religion or place of birth. It also struck out a provision of the present law requiring that 30 per cent of incoming DPs be farmers who intend to continue farm work.

The bill also would permit entry under the displaced persons law of 4000 White Russian refugees in Shanghai and 18,000 Polish soldiers in England. They would be included in the over-all total.

Motive for Murder Supplied by Chum, Official Declares

Milwaukee, April 13 (AP). — A school chum's disclosures have supplied "a motive for murder" in the slaying of Patricia Birmingham, District Attorney William McCauley said tonight.

McCauley said evidence indicated Milton Babich, 19, had made advances to 16-year-old Patricia and threatened to harm her if she told her sister, Kathleen, then 17, with whom Babich had been keeping company. Kathleen was pregnant.

Babich, charged with first-degree murder, is alleged to have shot Patricia on February 10 and dropped her body, weighted with concrete, in the Milwaukee River. Five weeks later he eloped with Kathleen.

N. C. Governor Retains Senator-Naming Power

Raleigh, N. C., April 13 (AP).—The North Carolina Senate today killed a measure to strip the Governor of power to fill vacancies in the State's representation in the United States Senate.

The action, by a 25-to19 vote, was regarded as a victory for the Governor.

Safeway Trims It Before Weighing

SO YOU SAVE MONEY

We'll give you 2 T-Bone Steaks
(they won't cost you a penny)
if ever you get a SAFEWAY T-Bone not trimmed this money-saving way

TOUGH MEAT removed from end of steak by Safeway before we weigh your T-bone on the market scales. It gives you a steak that eats tender in every part

EXCESS BONE and gristle at top end of steak cut off by Safeway before weighing . . . so you don't pay for these waste parts

EXCESS FAT is trimmed off by Safeway before we weigh the steak. This is another extra step that gives you more good-eating meat for your money

Test purchases by Independent Bureau show you can save money on meat

We asked an independent research organization to check methods of trimming meat in this area.

And we secured proof that it pays you to check trimming as closely as you check price when buying meat.

In 231 representative markets in this area where they bought meat they found a great variation in the way meat is trimmed.

In 97% of the markets other than Safeway, T-bone steaks purchased were not trimmed before weighing.

Had the T-bone steaks been first trimmed and then weighed (as Safeway does), the average saving would have been almost 24¢ per pound. Customers of some of these stores would have saved amounts up to 52¢ per pound.

This survey shows unmistakably that thousands of housewives in this area are paying regular meat prices — which are high enough these days, goodness knows — for waste that is thrown away!

- Example: For T-bone steaks purchased UNTRIMMED shoppers paid an average of almost 48¢ more per 2-lb. steak than if these steaks had been trimmed BEFORE weighing. In some markets as much as $1.04 more!
- Example: For rib roasts purchased UNTRIMMED shoppers paid an average of almost 56¢ more per 6-lb. roast than if these roasts had been trimmed BEFORE weighing.
- Example: For rib lamb chops purchased UNTRIMMED shoppers paid an average of over 34¢ more for six chops than if these chops had been trimmed BEFORE weighing.
- Example: For legs of lamb purchased UNTRIMMED shoppers paid an average of over 61¢ more per 6-lb. roast than if these roasts had been trimmed BEFORE weighing.

Wherever you buy meat you are entitled to money-savings that result from proper trimming of each cut before it is weighed. Insist that your butcher trim this way. If he refuses, why not buy at a market where this kind of trimming is done?

It means more tender, juicy meat in every pound you pay for...a bigger value for your meat dollar at Safeway!

YOU SEE ABOVE how Safeway removes excess waste, fat and bone from T-bone steaks before weighing. And the test-purchase report presented here shows you how important it is to compare trimming as well as price.

We prepare other cuts in similar fashion — each one according to its special requirements. This waste-free cutting is part of Safeway's Guaranteed Meats plan. We regularly trim our meats this way.

When you compare meat prices, remember that Safeway's prices always are on the TRIMMED cut, free of excess bone, waste and fat, ready for cooking.

If ever you're not satisfied that the meat you buy at Safeway is trimmed the money-saving way we say, just show it to the manager of the Safeway store where you bought it. If your Safeway T-bone steak (for example) is NOT trimmed as shown above—you get TWO T-bone steaks without a penny's extra cost (and without quibble or argument!)

Safeway buys nothing less than the top government grades of beef (all beef sold at Safeway is U.S. Government graded) . . . nothing less than the top grades of lamb, pork and veal. More. We hold our meats the full number of days needed to bring out peak flavor and tenderness. And we safeguard their goodness with exact temperature controls.

Come prove for yourself — there's more good-eating at less cost in Guaranteed Meats from Safeway!

SAFEWAY GUARANTEED MEATS

*This offer effective at all Safeway markets

Court Will Study School Ownership

The question of who owns the schools in the City of Falls Church—Fairfax County or the city—was thrashed out yesterday in Fairfax County Circuit Court.

Visiting Judge C. G. Quesenbery of Waynesboro heard arguments by both sides and then announced he would take the question under advisement. He gave no indication when he might give his decision.

LaRue Van Meter, city attorney of Falls Church, claimed Falls Church automatically became a separate school district when it became a city last August. The Virginia constitution specifically provides for this, he said.

He attacked as unconstitutional a 1942 act of the General Assembly which put Falls Church schools back under county jurisdiction, and which provided they should stay there even though Falls Church should become a city.

This would mean taxation without representation, Van Meter said, because the county board of supervisors, where the city has no representative, would decide the tax rate Falls Church should pay for schools.

Hugh B. Marsh, Commonwealth's attorney for the county, contended that an act of the General Assembly is necessary to make Falls Church a separate school district. The County Court is without jurisdiction in the matter, he said, and the constitutionality of the 1942 act is irrelevant.

Kefauver Bill Indorsed by Suffrage Unit

The board of trustees of the Central Suffrage Conference last night indorsed the Kefauver home rule bill in principle, reserving for member bodies the right to criticize certain provisions of the measure.

The motion on the bill, which is awaiting action on the Senate floor, came after Trustee Kenneth P. Armstrong suggested that a specific stand be taken rather than reiteration of the Conference's oft-repeated indorsemnt of the general principle of home rule.

Meeting at the Carnegie Endowment Building, 700 Jackson st. nw., the trustees congratulated the Senate District Committee, headed by Senator Estes Kefauver (D., Tenn.) for its favorable action on the bill and urged "early and favorable action thereon by the Eighty-first Congress."

R. I. Ave. Citizens Seek Traffic Lights

The Rhode Island Avenue Citizens Association last night appointed a special committee to attempt to speed installation of traffic lights at Eastern and Rhode Island aves. ne.

It was stated at the meeting held at 2004 Rhode Island ave. ne. that the signals had been promised by the Department of Vehicles and Traffic for more than a year.

The streets and sidewalks committee was instructed to make a study of the number of loading platforms with inadequate reflector markings following report that many of the reflectors on Rhode Island ave. have been knocked off.

Civic Group Plans Fund-Raising Show

The Ledroit Park Civic Association last night completed plans for a talent show to raise funds for support of a summer vacational opportunity and job placement program for youth of the area.

The group also went on record at its meeting at the Banneker Center, 2500 Georgia ave. nw., in support of nursing schools and voted to urge Congress to appropriate sufficient funds for their continuation.

Students from Dunbar High School will perform in the talent show to be held April 29 at Garnet-Patterson Junior High School. Cooperating with the civic group in the summer program are the Garnet-Patterson Parent-Teacher Association, the Urban League and the Junior Police and Citizens Corps.

Labor Bill Sent To House Open For Revision

The House Rules Committee cleared the Administration's labor bill Monday but with a virtual invitation to the House to rewrite it on the floor.

The committee broke its two-week blockade of the measure with a wideopen rule, permitting members to offer amendments without limit, including a complete substitute for the bill.

That means nearly every provision of the Taft-Hartley law may be offered from the floor in the form of amendments. Leaders claimed the strength to vote down all but a few of such amendments, but privately conceded the House will write its own version of the new labor law.

House Labor Chairman John Lesinski (D., Mich.) had requested a closed rule, permitting only committee amendments and limiting debate to six hours. The rules committee allowed eight hours of debate.

Icelandic Beauty to Rule Winchester Fete

Miss Margret Thors, brown-haired, blue-eyed, 21-year-old daughter of Iceland's Minister to the United States, Thor Thors, was chosen queen of the 22d annual Shenandoah Apple Blossom Festival yesterday.

Triumphant over more than 100 candidates to the throne, Queen Shenandoah XXII will reign over the two-day festival at Winchester, Va., April 28 and 29.

Born in Reykjavik, Iceland's chilly capital, Miss Thors is the fifth foreign-born queen of the Shenandoah Valley's spring extravaganza in honor of the flowering apple trees.

Living Here Since 1941

She has been living in Washington since 1941 when her father became Envoy Extraordinary, Minister Plenipotentiary from Iceland to the United States and Canada. He is also Iceland's permanent delegate to the United Nations.

Up until the time Festival Director Tom Baldridge notified her of her succession to the throne, Miss Thors didn't even know she was entered and still doesn't know who sent in her picture.

A Winchester release described her as thrilled and stunned, "No, not stunned and thrilled — that's too much like Katharine Hepburn," she protested last night. "I was pleased and surprised, but not stunned and thrilled."

Studio Society Editor

A graduate of the National Cathedral School here and Briarcliff Junior College in New York, where she took a general academic course—"the usual sort of thing you learn in a junior college"—Margret is currently the society editor of Hessler Photographic Studios on Connecticut ave.

She lives at 3839 Massachusetts ave. nw. with her father, the Minister; brothers, Igo, 18, and Thor, jr., 14, students at Sidwell Friends School, and her mother, Mrs. Agusta Thors who, she says, "is very beautiful, much more beautiful than I."

'Perfect Safe Job' Scanned by Police

2 Wives; 2 Teams Too Much . . .

DAVID PRAGER
"Sponsor"

MRS. ANNE PRAGER
Memphis Wife

MRS. ANITA C. PRAGER
Los Angeles Wife

$200-a-month cashier, who kept up two wives and two basketball teams and got jailed in Memphis Monday on an embezzlement charge, blamed it all on love. "I just fell in love with another woman while I was still in love with my wife," said David Prager, 29. "I knew I couldn't get by with it. It's bad enough without discussing it." His wives weren't so reticent. His wife in Memphis said she was thinking about a divorce. The other, in California, said, "I still love him."

The puzzle of the locked room, which long has intrigued writers of mystery fiction, now challenges the local police.

Yesterday may well go down in police archives as the date of the perfect safe job.

There is no argument about this: The offices of the Pennsylvania Linoleum Co., 903 E st. nw., were entered, the company safe was opened, and $956 was stolen.

But police cannot explain how the thieves entered the place. There were no pry marks on doors or windows.

"They certainly weren't small enough to come through the mail slot," one policeman observed.

A policeman from the First Precinct checked the place at midnight. Both front and back doors were locked. He checked again at 2 a. m. Same. He checked again at 4 a. m. This time the back door was open.

The only way this door could have been opened without being pried, police say, was from the inside.

Police believe the cracksmen spent a leisurely eight hours opening the safe, four inches of steel incased in concrete.

They used an electric hammer and electric drill belonging to the company to work on the safe. They pulled the plug on the electric clock to connect the equipment.

So, apparently, the safe crackers were in the offices before 8 p. m., because the clock had stopped, and departed before 4 a. m. But how did they get in? Police would like to know.

This was the third theft at the company's offices in recent months. The first time, thieves made off with equipment valued at $1000. A second robbery yielded $200.

88 True Bills Returned in Prince Georges

The Prince Georges County Grand Jury yesterday returned 88 indictments, bringing to 146 the total true bills for the April session.

Of the 88 returned yesterday, 66 were against four teenagers charged in a series of robberies and housebreakings.

Two of them, Morris Anglin, jr., 18, of Hyattsville, and Michael Principe, 17, of Washington, now are serving indeterminate sentences in the Maryland Reformatory for Males for similar offenses. The two others are juveniles.

One indictment charges Walter G. Tilghmann of Beacontown, Md., with assault with intent to rape on a Laurel, Md., widow, mother of two children, on February 7, near the Laurel American Legion home.

Frank Dent, of Almshouse rd, near Forestville, was indicted on charges of murder in connection with the shotgun slaying of Thomas Batson.

Late Hour Selling Laid To County Inn Employe

Raymond G. Van Heiten, 49, an employe of Charles and Ellen's Place, 5312 Marlboro Pike, Hillside, Md., was arrested yesterday on charges of selling liquor after hours.

Van Heiten, who lives at the establishment, was reported by Prince Georges County Detective Wilson J. Purdy to have sold liquor after 3 a.m. to a customer. Van Heiten posted $500 bond for appearance Monday in Police Court at Upper Marlboro, Md.

Runaway 'Gas' Truck Kills 1, Burns 2

Newhall, Calif., April 13 (U.P.) — A runaway truck loaded with 4000 gallons of gasoline, roared 5 miles down one of California's main highways today, reaching a 100-mile-an-hour speed before it crashed and burned. The driver, Nolie J. Glover, 43, who stuck with the truck, was killed.

Another truck driver was burned and is not expected to live, and a highway patrolman was badly burned in reseuing him.

Man Jailed 4 Years in Bar Killing

Towson, Md., April 13 (AP). — Charles Allen, of One Spot, Md., 50-year-old carpenter, was sentenced to four years in prison April 13 a the result of a beer-bottle fight after another man stepped on his toes.

Allen, father of six children, was convicted of manslaughter by two judges sitting in Baltimore County Circuit Court. The case was moved here on change of venue.

"The price of life," declared Judge J. Howard Murray, "has not fallen so low that it can be taken because someone steps on a man's corn."

Allen testified Perry Stallings, 38, of Glenock, Md., stepped on his foot January 15 when swinging around the dance floor at a tavern near Churton in Anne Arundel County. Allen was at the bar. He said he swung with a beer bottle.

Both men were arrested, and Stallings was examined at Emergency Hospital in Annapolis. He was found dead of a fractured skull the next morning in a cell at the Anne Arundel County Jail.

Rapillo Seized on Mail Fraud Charge

Jeremiah M. Rapillo, identified as former police chief of Berlin, Md., was arrested in Alexandria yesterday on a charge of using the mails to defraud.

Rapillo, 48, was charged specifically with advertising cigarettes for sale out of State at below-market prices and then failing to deliver. Arraigned before United States Commissioner Stanley King in Alexandria, he fainted when the charge was read to him.

He was taken to Alexandria Hospital for treatment and was released.

He was freed under $1000 bond for hearing before King April 27. Officials said he lives in Washington, but had no specific address.

John J. Beall, Alexandria postal inspector, said he had received several complaints from persons who failed to receive cigarettes ordered from Rapillo. One was from a customer who ordered 14 cartons, he said.

Rapillo reportedly operates a private detective bureau and secretarial bureau, as well as Jerry's Tobacco Co., at 819 King st., Alexandria.

Rapillo was ousted as Berlin's police chief in December, 1947, after two months in office.

During his brief tenure he made the news frequently when (1) the rest of the four-man police department quit on him, (2) he clamped down on slot machines, and (3) he led the move to install parking meters, which were removed with him.

Sesquicentennial

Preliminary plans for Washington's sesquicentennial celebration next year would make it a sort of festival of freedom. Exhibits are expected to tell the story of the unfolding of democracy since the Capital was established here on the banks of the Potomac a century and a half ago. Pageants, drama and celebrations are expected to remind many millions of visitors of what the American people have accomplished under the reign of freedom. If the celebration is properly conceived and carried out, it can be made a significant reflection of the ethos of the American people.

It must have come as a rude shock to many people in all parts of the Nation, therefore, to learn that the House Appropriations Committee has voted to deny funds for the celebration. Many of the States are planning to send exhibits appropriate to this sesquicentennial. Representatives of many countries are being invited to participate. The vast numbers of citizens who will flock to their Capital in connection with this anniversary will expect to see exhibits, productions and celebrations worthy of the great and wealthy Nation that the United States has become. But a few niggardly Congressmen have taken the liberty of saying that no such observance of the occasion shall be held.

The event is in every sense national in scope. It is the founding here of the Nation's Capital in the year 1800 and not merely the community of the District of Columbia that is to be celebrated. To say that Congress has no interest in observing the occasion would be comparable to saying that the sesquicentennial of the Declaration of Independence and of the Constitution should have been passed by as events of little significance. We can scarcely conceive of this decision as reflecting the final judgment of Congress. In other words, we do not believe that the spirit of freedom is so dead in this great land that the people will permit the 150th anniversary of their Capital to go uncelebrated.

Guilty Diplomat

An American court at Nuernburg has handed down a highly important decision in finding Baron Ernst von Weizsaecker guilty of planning aggressive war. The Baron was not a Nazi at all. He was a well-educated, cultivated German of the old school who served for years as the chief of the German Foreign Office. The diplomats of foreign countries almost invariably found him an honorable man, and in the early years, at least, he gave the impression of wanting to check Hitler in his crazy march toward conquest. In the spring of 1940, when Sumner Welles visited him to inquire about the prospects of peace, the baron moved his chair to the center of the room so that he could talk confidentially without being overheard by Nazi dictaphones in the walls.

Yet this courtly German diplomatist took part in many of the secret meetings that led to the attacks on Austria, Czechoslovakia and Poland. But what was most heinous was the revelation at the trial that he initialed an order for deporting 6000 Jews from France to the gas chambers of Poland. His crime was not only that he "went along" with the Nazi conspiracy. He, of all people, had the education and the training to know when wrong was being done, when crimes were being plotted. He, of all people, should have tried to stop the war, even at the cost of his job, even at the price of exile. He was all the more culpable because he knew the meaning of international law and morality. Many professional diplomats may object to his conviction because he was a charming individual, a fellow member of the brotherhood of career diplomacy. Whatever his sentence may be, his conviction was abundantly deserved. To others in his profession, it will stand as a lesson and a warning.

Back Tracks

In our editorial of last Saturday, "Spy Tracks," we recriticized in particular two sections of Senator McCarran's counter-espionage bill, S. 595. One would have opened the door to almost unrestricted wiretapping; the other would have made peacetime violation of many petty regulations at airport and waterfront installations subject to $5000 fine and one year's imprisonment. These examples of extreme vigilantism we called paw-prints of the intelligence agency bloodhounds who drew up the bill.

And they were. But we had missed certain developments that had taken place without any publicity since the bill was originally introduced in January. On March 22 Senator McCarran quietly introduced a substitute bill from which the wiretapping provision was dropped. Last week in its hearings the Senate Judiciary Subcommittee informally agreed to make the other provision apply in peacetime only to military installations. Our criticisms of last Saturday, therefore, were obsolete. The bill had already been revised to erase the worst paw-prints.

Thus To Revisit

Well, now at least you know the answer to a question that has been bothering philosophers and lexicographers for a good many years. The question of course is "What is news?" Thanks to the strike of Local No. 6 of the International Printing Pressmen's Union and Local No. 19 of the International Stereotypers and Electrotypers Union, we are now able to formulate a tentative definition of the word: News is that which has been missing from your life in the last 72 hours.

If you can say what it is that you have missed, and doubtless you can, then you are in the enviable position of knowing better than we do what constitutes the essential nature of news. For here of course in the offices of The Washington Post the raw materials of news have been pouring in at the usual rate, by the usual methods and from the usual sources. Our reporters have been as busy and the press association teletype machines as active as ever. We are quite as well informed as we were last week about what is going on in the world. Indeed, the only difference between this week and last is that we have been prevented from telling you what we know.

The strike appears to have demonstrated at least one thing, and that is that, whatever its virtues, the radio is not an entirely satisfactory substitute for newspapers. That, at any rate, is what we are being told by many of our readers, and we are satisfied they have not taken the trouble to tell us so merely to console us. In this connection they make two points which seem to us both interesting and encouraging.

First, they say, the radio permits little or no liberty of selection. The broadcaster or commentator makes his own selection of topics and one is obliged either to listen patiently to whatever he chooses to talk about or to do without news entirely. In a newspaper, however, one may skip over an item that appears to hold no particular interest and proceed to the next. Or one may skip the news entirely and proceed to the comic strips, or the sports pages, or the classified advertisements, or whatever it is that seems to matter.

Second, the readers tell us, editorial opinions aired by radio are likely to fill the listener with a sense of frustration. If one disagrees violently with a newspaper editorial, one can work off some of his indignation by writing a letter to the editor, and the chances are at least even that the letter will be published. Of course one can also write a letter to a radio news commentator, and the chances are better than even that it will be gratefully acknowledged by the third assistant to his second assistant secretary. But then an angry letter to a radio commentator is prima facie proof that you have taken the trouble to listen to him, and so is likely to increase his prestige with his sponsor or broadcasting company.

Finally, our correspondents say that for some reason, of which no doubt the psychologists can provide an explanation, news absorbed through the ear makes less impression than news absorbed by the eye. Moreover, if during the broadcast one is distracted by telephone calls, unexpected visitors or minor accidents to one's children, or if one's mind happens to be wandering at the moment, one is simply out of luck as far as a particular item of news is concerned. But it is always possible to read a newspaper article twice, and we have even heard of authenticated cases in which it has been done. How truly, then, hath the poet spoken, who said:

> Heard melodies are sweet, but those unheard
> Are sweeter; therefore, ye soft pipes, play on;
> Not to the sensual ear, but more endear'd
> Pipe to the spirit ditties of no tone.

The World's Forum

Twice on Tuesday the United Nations Assembly refused to abdicate its primary function as a town meeting of the world. By votes of 41 to 3 and of 30 to 7 it decided to take up for discussion the Indonesian situation and the question whether Hungary and Bulgaria have suppressed human rights and freedoms in their recent trials of churchmen.

Because the Indonesian conflict is already before the Security Council, the Assembly can do no more than debate it. On Hungary and Bulgaria—neither of which, incidentally, is a United Nations member—it can also make recommendations. But here again discussion is its first and foremost form of activity. The Assembly is the world's platform of debate. For it to rule out even the discussion of situations threatening to peace and human welfare would be to deny its own chief reason for existence.

In more concrete terms the large majority vote on the Indonesian issue demonstrated the Assembly's unwillingness to let the Dutch throw a wrench in its wheels. Attempting once more to keep the United Nations at arm's length, the Netherlands representative argued against adding Indonesia to the Assembly agenda. It might, he asserted, imperil the success of direct negotiations about to start in Batavia. That risk must be taken. But the spotlight of publicity in the Assembly, a sort of light the Dutch are anxious to avoid, is more likely, we think, to spur the Batavia negotiations to real success.

The case of Hungary and Bulgaria, centering of course on the Mindszenty trial, proved more touchy. Twenty nations abstained from voting on this one. But thirty, a bare majority of the total membership, would not be turned aside. They rejected the Russian bloc's contention that the Hungarian and Bulgarian trials dealt with violations of domestic law and were thus outside the United Nations' competence to examine. They rejected the abstainers' view that settlement procedures fixed in the peace treaties ought to be exhausted first. These procedures, of course, have already been invoked by the British and American notes of April 2. In concrete terms again, the Assembly refused to hold the spotlight of publicity away from a situation that badly needs enlightened attention.

Job Fatigue

Mr. Forrestal's physician says that the former Secretary of Defense is suffering from job or occupational fatigue. The illness has become familiar since the United States became a world power and assumed Atlas like responsibilities. We suggested last week that the immense tasks in our Government should be recognized by Congress by giving our administrators a proper framework of organization. Mr. Forrestal suffered from lack of it and was compelled to work day and night on details that ought to have been done by an Undersecretary and Assistant Secretaries of Defense. We hope again that Congress will speed the bill which would give the new Secretary of Defense the apparatus which Mr. Forrestal lacked.

There is another lesson in the Forrestal illness. Job fatigue is apt most generally to develop as soon as an administrator quits his job. All keyed up for years, he finds no rest when he stops, only a nervous tension which brings on a crackup. In England, cabinet members and under-cabinet members still have their seats in Parliament even after resignation, and the problem is not so acute there. But the phenomenon is not unknown even in Britain. Mr. Churchill expressed the predicament of the man leaving high office as only he can:

> I shall now relate my personal experience. When I left the Admiralty at the end of May, 1915, I still remained a member of the cabinet and of the War Council. In this position I knew everything and could do nothing. The change from the intense executive activities of each day's work at the Admiralty to the narrowly measured duties of a counselor left me gasping. Like a sea beast fished up from the depths, or a diver too suddenly hoisted, my veins threatened to burst from the fall in pressure. I had great anxiety and no means of relieving it; I had vehement convictions and small power to give effect to them. I had to watch the unhappy casting away of great opportunities, and the feeble execution of plans which I had launched and in which I heartily believed. I had long hours of utterly unwanted leisure in which to contemplate the frightful unfolding of the war. At a moment when every fiber of my being was inflamed to action, I was forced to remain a spectator of the tragedy, placed cruelly in a front seat.

And then it was, Mr. Churchill goes on to say, that the muse of painting came to his rescue "out of charity and out of chivalry," and the avocation saved him from job fatigue. The problem, accordingly, is remediable not only by Government provision of a proper framework of organization, but also by the officials themselves—and all of us—developing interests, as Churchill did with his painting, that would not leave them high and dry on retirement.

Praise For The House

Last year the Senate provided the real leadership in launching the Marshall Plan. The House, in contrast, tagged along with irresponsible oratory and irrelevant amendments. This year the two houses have reversed their roles. It took the Senate 13 days of tiresome debate to make up its mind to extend the Marshall Plan for another year. The vote in the end was decisive enough, but sometimes during the long debate the Senate chamber was like a cave of the winds. The debate in the House, on the other hand, was marked by high seriousness from start to finish. The House beat down every attempt to make ECA a vehicle for dumping unwanted American farm surpluses in Europe. Nobody could have foreseen a few weeks ago that ECA would go into its second year so free of congressional restrictions.

Mr. Hoffman, the administrator of ECA, has described the action of both Houses as an Easter present that will give new assurance and hope to Europe. We think it will give assurance to the American people as well, for it shows that this sometimes quarrelsome Congress still knows how to rise to its great responsibilities.

LINES FOR THE NEXT GENERATION

We have this thing, more malleable than reach
Of thinning Time: compounded syllable
And thought, rewelded into lucid speech
Of iron consonant and silver vowel.

More weighted than the vialed mercury
Louder than thunder, clear as bittern cry,
A word can pierce the brain more potently
Than brash Ulysses probed the Cyclops eye.

Be volatile. Let no alarming foes
Impede the throated valves with dikes of fear;
However far, however strange, our language flows
Against the caves of every harkened ear.

Give back the talon to the hungry hawk;
Return the lethal gas to earth again;
There is no room for force where men may talk
To one another on a common plane.

We shall advance upon your speaking voice,
Upon the vehicle of what you spell—
O you to come, be chary in your choice:
Shell without words or words more charged than shell.

"Oscars Away"

In your editorial of April 5, "Oscars Away," you managed to kick a fact or two right in the teeth.

The Washington Post slipped into the easy groove of speaking glibly about a sharp decline in box-office receipts. Figures for the first quarter of this year show that domestic film revenues are running neck and neck with the same period in 1946—which was the peak year in the entire history of the American motion picture industry.

Do you know that your ecstatic faith in the quality of British films is not shared by many prominent Britishers? Recently during debate in the British Parliament on the British film quota, the Earl of Drogheda told the House of Lords that "it is a fact, I fear, that many British films produced this year have been very disappointing." The Earl of Rosebery carried on with the comment that "this year we have had 70-odd (British) pictures made, with the result that we have had quantity before quality . . ."

Oliver Lyttelton told the House of Commons that British exhibitors were "extremely perturbed about the quality" of British films. He added that there is "some substance to the fears about the quality of British production."

Brannan's Farm Program

I am a dirt farmer, and I dropped in on Secretary of Agriculture Brannan recently to thank him for his courageous progressive stand for farmers. I heartily indorse his long range farm program.

This program will give farmers equality in our national purchasing power which is good for everyone. We all must prosper if we are to avert a depression.

I asked him further to consider implementing his long range program by trading with any nation, our surplus farm commodities for depleted national resources such as lead, tin, copper, iron, etc., for stockpiling purposes. This would enhance our Nation's real wealth and keep the farmers operating at 100 per cent capacity thus creating more business for all. We farmers consume 40 per cent of all manufactured goods when we operate at maximum.

Mr. Brannan stated that he was heartily in favor of such a program. I asked him to keep this stockpiling in and under the Department of Agriculture.

Greece And The Pact

The 12 signatories to the history-making North Atlantic Treaty served notice to the world that the pact was designed to keep the peace despite Russian cries that the agreement was "openly aggressive" and aimed at her.

However, it is unfortunate that the agreement does not give to Mediterranean countries the protection provided to the signatory powers. Immediate action should be initiated to bring Greece, Turkey and Spain into the pact.

The new treaty presents heavy responsibilities to this country and raises questions which must be dealt with wisely. Whatever commitments are made to the European countries must not interfere with promises either explicit or implied that we have given to Greece and Turkey who first took on the battle against the Red aggressor.

The Soviet bloc of countries, already hostile to the things the Western democracies stand for, may hesitate long before making an overt move against any of the 12 countries bound together within the framework of the treaty. But struggling Greece might be considered as a soft touch for the Soviet dominated countries in a swift drive to disrupt the aims and purposes of the Western democracies.

With the aid of funds and supplies from America, the Greek people have fought valiantly against terrific odds to retain their independence. They are winning that battle now. But suppose the Reds behind the iron curtain should suddenly decide to redouble their efforts to complete the utter subjugation of the Greek nation?

Greece, as one of the first nations to resist the advances of the Communist countries is entitled to primary consideration by the member nations of the alliance.

"Gregorian Ghost"

In your April 10 editorial entitled "Gregorian Ghost" you stated there is no way to divide seven into 365 without an extra day, and no way to make each year and quarter start on a Sunday without leaving this day outside of the seven-day cycle.

There is one way to eliminate that extra day and still have each week begin on a Sunday. That is to accumulate seven of these extra days and give one year an extra week—a leap week which would be similar to our present leap day every four years. CHARLES PRIMOFF.
Arlington.

You seem to imply that there is no way to reconcile the religious faiths of the world with such a calendar reform as Senator Kefauver now champions.

Has no one suggested that the extra day each year, and the leap year day, be an extra "Sunday?" Surely no religion would object to having two Sundays eight days apart if the extra day between were a "Sunday."

In my opinion (Presbyterian) the world would benefit greatly by a new holy day, celebrated together by all religions, all races and all nations.

Dark Night On The Baltic

We, Latvian and Estonian inhabitants of Camp Valka, a total of more than 3000 persons gathered on February 24, in a protest meeting, are addressing herewith the whole Christian world's conscience as well as the democratical opinion the world over. We emphasize in drawing attention to the disaster governing in our Baltic states which are bleeding under the yoke of communism.

The news we get from our countrymen are speaking a dreadful language about the unbearable disaster reigning there. We are separated by an iron curtain from our home country, still the moaning and groaning from there reaches us as well by letters, as also through individual refugees and it makes us tremble.

The forces governing now our country usurped in the most brutal manner the sovereign rights of our people. They try to run their doctrines not considering the real mind, wishes and wants of our people.

All supposed to be undesirable to the Bolshevik regimen and suspected to be dangerous to them are destructed in a pityless manner. This proceeding of destruction includes not only their imaginary foes, but all connected with them: even infants, sick mothers and weak old aged. To punish individual offenses penalty is applied to all appertaining to the same profession or confession, to neighbors or as well to the same community.

News got from Lithuania tells us that all priests were deported from the territory of former Lithuania. Recently we heard that whole communities were deported from Latvia and Estonia owing to their opposition to the regimen. The population was removed to far uninhabited regions. Instead of the deported, entirely strange people, sympathizing with the Bolshevik regimen, were imported.

Maybe we would not believe in this, but we have to believe, because we ourselves were eyewitnesses of suchlike dreadful actions on the part of those powers.

During one night, on June 13-14, 1941, 36,000 of our peaceful population were deported. They were delivered to disaster and to a total destruction. The year of Bolshevik regimen took us about 65,000 of the best sons and their only fault was to love their state and their people. For it they fought, for it they worked and suffered.

We, who escaped the iron fists of this regimen and are now under the protection and care of our deliverers: the United States, England, France and other sympathizing countries, are feeling and mourning deeply with our fellow countrymen considering their hard fate in our country. We are protesting in front of the whole world, in the name of mankind and civilization against these acts of oppression committed to the members of our people, in our homeland.

We should like to make known to the whole Christian world these facts full of disaster and despair, we would like to induce the ears of the whole Christian world to hear the moaning and groanings full of dire despair coming from the borders of our homelands: Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania.

We are rapping at the conscience of the whole Christian world who has the possibility to diminish this disaster. It must put an end to this blasphemy of the Almighty, the destruction of defenseless, the kicking of the free meaning and the rights of mankind.

Wherever fate should bring us, to what country and to what shores, we would not stop to tell the world the truth on these mental sufferings till the moment would come the world would hear us. It should be then the moment we would get back those simple rights of man to which every human being on the earth is entitled. These rights were robbed from our brothers by those dreadful forces of Bolshevism.

We believe in the powers of God and our lips are praying to Him. We are addressing today the mind of the whole world with this request: Do help our brethren in our homeland, deliver them from final destruction.

In the name of the partakers of the protest meeting:

Uncle Sam's Proxies

THE GRADUATION exercises were short, simple and businesslike. Brief remarks from several State Department officials and the class "spokesman," then the awarding of diplomas. No music, no ivy-columned ceremony. No surging in the breasts of spectators as at Annapolis and West Point commencements.

Yet this was a graduation that concerned every American's dignity and safety. These 22 graduates of the Foreign Service Institute would soon be symbols of the American people in far-off points of the globe. In a world daily growing smaller, more tense, their simplest acts would be building blocks toward peace or conflict.

What kind of young men were these? How had they been trained? Was the diplomacy classroom keeping pace with the physics laboratory?

These were questions the public could well be asking, with Uncle Sam having around 11,000 proxies stationed throughout the world—nearly three times as many as in 1941. With United States world responsibilities growing hourly, with President Truman's "bold new program" for underdeveloped areas in the offing, more and more young people would be going out to "be" the United States abroad, to stand in world capitals and remote consulates as its dignity, its strength, its intelligence, its integrity.

THOSE WHO conduct the Foreign Service Institute feel that the class just graduated (at the end of a three-month-course) is especially typical of the times, the country and the aims of the Foreign Service. It is one of the highest ranking of all classes in written marks. All but one of its members are veterans. More than half are married. Median age is 27. Fifteen States are represented. Surnames have melting pot connotations—English, Irish, German, Italian. Colleges include big Eastern universities, State institutions, small church schools. Many class members have done graduate work at several colleges. Nearly all have held jobs in industry, a training especially desired for rooting them in the American system.

Keeping a grassroots quality in the Foreign Service is one of the aims of the institute. Otherwise the men sent out will not be so able to interpret their country abroad. For that reason the present system with youths doing undergraduate work in a wide variety of colleges is preferred to a "West Point of the Foreign Service," at which students would be taken younger and cast into a mold.

A question being increasingly asked about American officials sent abroad is: How skilled are they in human relations? In the last two years the Foreign Service Institute has reflected this trend of the times by greater emphasis on such training.

INSTITUTE students come from the mental cream of American youth. The slim young men who moved so effortlessly across the stage of the State Department auditorium last week to receive their ribbon-tied diplomas had survived a rigid selection in which hundreds of other aspirants fell by the way. They knew their languages, history, economics, law, American Government. They were prepared to meet propaganda, speak in public, write understandably. They had done field work in Government departments, custom houses, on ships. Their personalities had been appraised, their characters tested.

But this was still not enough equipment for the mental carrying of the American flag over the earth. Now regarded as second only to the general requirement of "awareness of purpose" is the ability to deal with people.

Psychology, cultural anthropology and sociology are helping more and more to shape tomorrow's diplomats. The man in the consulate in Madagascar needs to understand not only human beings in general but the special Madagascar brand. (He also needs to know how to locate the desks of American office help so their egos won't be bruised.)

Science today gives much aid in this line. Yet native gifts are basic to the success of the American abroad looking after his country's political, trade, labor or agricultural interests. Weaknesses that make men fail in Foreign Service are about the same as make them fail in endeavors at home. But these show up in sharper focus in the goldfish bowl life the American abroad must lead.

What he particularly needs are mental flexibility, the quality of personal warmth known as "simpatico," social adaptability, emotional stability, self-confidence, resourcefulness, personal integrity. But as Foreign Service officials point out, these are good baggage for any American to take anywhere.

Death Markers

I suggest that at whatever street corner one has met his or her death, there should be a white cross which would indicate that some one had been hit there or either died at that particular spot. I think that when people see that certain insignia they would stop and think and be a little more careful and I am sure that there would not be so many deaths in the District of Columbia.

THEODORE ROBINSON.

Today and Tomorrow

By Walter Lippmann

The American Guaranty

THE CONNECTION between the pact and the military assistance program which is to follow it becomes clear only when we realize how long it will take to organize the comparatively small army that western Europe is aiming at. The most optimistic believe it might be done by 1952; others, who have good reason to know what they are talking about, say not sooner than 1955. In any event western Europe will not be rearmed this summer or next winter or in the following summer.

LIPPMANN

Moreover, this western European army is to be just about big enough to deal with the Russian divisions that are now in eastern Germany. They are usually estimated at about 30 to 40 divisions. But, of course, Russia can mobilize several hundred divisions. The western European army is designed, at a maximum, to make it impossible for Russia to invade western Europe without mobilizing inside Russia. The theory is that it would take Russia, not weeks, but some months to mobilize and move large additional armies into Europe. In that interval the American Air Force would raise havoc inside Russia and American reinforcements would be moving across the Atlantic.

BUT THE crucial question is what happens in the meantime. If western Europe will not be able until 1952-1955 to resist the Red troops now in Germany, who is resisting them now? The answer, of course, is that the United States is resisting them now. How is it resisting them? By having made it sufficiently plain to the Kremlin that if the Red Army advances beyond its present lines in Europe, the Middle East and in Asia, it will be at war with the United States.

That was indicated when the battleship Missouri was sent to Turkey in 1946. It was made much plainer when the Congress voted American rearmament, based on conscription, in 1948. It will be solemnized by the ratification of the pact and the supporting assurance to other countries that are not members, which have been given and will no doubt be repeated.

This is the American guaranty against overt military aggression by the Red Army. The nations which are in the pact have this guaranty. But so have all the other nations that are not in the pact. It would be a complete misunderstanding of American policy to suppose that the pact is a kind of exclusive club and that those who did not join or were not invited are not covered by the guaranty,—that they are, so to speak, earmarked as countries it would be permissible to invade. Sweden is covered as fully as Norway. It is simply inconceivable that the United States would let Sweden be picked off, or Turkey, or Austria, or Switzerland.

WHAT IS IT, then, that makes this American guaranty, which is wider than the area of the pact, effective? It is that in the foreseeable future the United States cannot be defeated, cannot even be seriously attacked by the Soviet Union; that, on the other hand, though Russia cannot be conquered as Germany or Japan were conquered, there is not the slightest doubt that Russia would be very seriously injured in a war. The knowledge that in a Russo-American war, America can strike without being struck, that Russia will be struck without being able to strike back, should, unless the Russian high command take leave of their senses, be a genuine guaranty against military aggression.

This guaranty has been in effect for a considerable time. It has been tested quite thoroughly in Berlin where our tiny garrison is entirely surrounded by overwhelmingly greater Russian forces, where the bulk of all the military air transport we possess is exposed and undefended. Yet the garrison and the air lift have been secure. They are covered by the American guaranty against overt military action.

WHAT IS more it is only because the American guaranty is effective that the whole project of European rearmament makes any sense. For otherwise the Russians would invade western Europe before it could rearm and in order to prevent it from rearming. Therefore, it is not true to say—as many are saying—that the military assistance program is necessary in order to implement the pact. It is the pact, or more precisely the American guaranty which it records, that implements the military assistance program. Europe can rearm because it is protected by the guaranty.

WHAT THEN is the purpose of rearming western Europe? There are several purposes, all of them essentially political.

A modest increase in the number of available troops, suitably equipped, is desirable immediately to make sure that the governments can deal with indirect, internal aggression. A gradual revival of the French army is desirable in order to augment the diplomatic influence of France in the councils of Europe, to restore French self-confidence, and to enable France—when Germany is evacuated—to come to terms with Germany.

Finally, the development of the framework of a common European defense force is desirable, and should be encouraged. For it can be used to promote the unity of Europe and its independence as a new great world power, on a parity with Soviet Russia and the United States.

THERE ARE, therefore, good reasons for the military assistance program. But there is no reason to become hysterical about it. It is important and it is desirable. But the fate of the world does not depend upon whether it is a little bigger or a little smaller. For if the fate of the world did depend on it a billion dollars would be preposterously too little and many billions could not be used before it was altogether too late.

Washington Calling

By Marquis Childs

Illusions On The Pact

AT THE time of the signing of the Atlantic Pact one of the Ambassadors took his Foreign Minister to call on a prominent member of the Senate. In the course of their private talk the Senator, who is one of the most earnest advocates of international cooperation, was oppressed by some disquieting doubts about the future of the pact.

It was a curious conversation. Each man talked from a different set of beliefs.

The Foreign Minister was full of confidence. He seemed to feel that everything had been settled, including the certainty of a generous allotment of lend-lease arms for his country and other nations of the pact where the need is great.

The Senator was not nearly so sure. He tried to put in a little caution so that the distinguished visitor would return to his homeland with at least the understanding that it would take time to ratify and implement the agreement.

This note of caution made the Ambassador most unhappy. Obviously, he did not want his minister to return with any doubts. So in the end the three talked more or less at cross purposes.

NOW that the pact is before the Senate, there is an object lesson in this conversation for the days ahead. Many Senators are fearful that the promises made to the European nations signing the pact have been too glib and too generous. They see trouble ahead in this connection.

The No. 1 consideration is time. Given the present temper of the Senate, quick action simply is not possible. Approval of the pact is likely to take many weeks.

Hearings before the Foreign Relations Committee have not yet been scheduled. They probably will begin toward the last of this month or the first part of May. They are certain to be lengthy.

The question in many senatorial minds is whether ratification of the pact is also a commitment to provide arms. Secretary of State Dean Acheson will be called on to answer that one, and it will not be easy.

Directly related are doubts as to the internal stability and strength of certain of the signatory powers. The fear is that arms sent from this country may fall into the hands of political adventurers of the Right or the Left.

When it comes to debate on the Senate floor, no one would be rash enough to prophesy the number of weeks that will be devoted to speechmaking. Both in the hearings and in the floor debate it appears certain that the pact and the arms to implement it will be linked together.

SOME sincere opponents, such as Senator Forrest C. Donnell of Missouri, will take hours if not days to expound their uncertainty as to whether the pact violates fundamental provisions of the Constitution. Old-fashioned isolationists of the type of Senator William Langer of North Dakota will exploit the familiar theme of a decadent Europe leaning on the United States. Much of this oratory will be tailor-made for the Soviet propaganda radio beamed at western European peoples.

Secretary Acheson has made an effort to prepare the signatory powers for this performance. But whether, in view of his delicate role as negotiator and mainstay of strength and encouragement, he has been able to do this is questionable.

Some Senators have been disturbed by State Department announcement of European armament requests released while the debate on European aid was still on. They are fearful of implied promises of arms and, back of that, the hint that the number of American troops in Europe will be greatly increased.

There is no reason why all these doubts cannot be honestly resolved in frank discussion. If the Foreign Ministers returned with an impression of quick action, they will have to adjust to the current reality.

At the same time it is important for the Senate to understand the viewpoint of the Europeans who signed the pact. They came here realizing the grave risks they took for their respective countries in defying Soviet threats. They could not, politically speaking, have taken those risks without the hope and even the assurance of tangible help toward greater security.

What must be avoided on both sides of the Atlantic is mutual disillusion and the bitter recrimination that would go with it. The moral of all this is patience and then more patience.

Jews Observe Passover

At sunset last night Jews throughout the world began their observance of Passover, commemorating the flight of the Israelites from Egypt more than 3000 years ago.

The holiday will be observed by Reform Jews until April 20 and by Orthodox and Conservative Jews until April 21. A central part of the traditional Passover service is the seder, held after the sundown service on the first and second evenings.

Special foods are eaten at the seder, including matzoh, an unleavened bread to symbolize the haste of the Israelites' flight; the shank bone of a lamb, commemorating the pascal lamb; bitter herbs, parsley, wine, roasted egg, and a mixture of fruits and nuts.

Passover services for servicemen and patients at hospitals in Greater Washington were planned by the Washington Armed Services Committee, National Jewish Welfare Board. Arrangements for the Passover seder at St. Elizabeth's Hospital were made by the Hebrew Sisters Aid Circle.

Passover services were also held at synagogues and temples, last night. The Northeast Hebrew Congregation will hold an after-seder party at 9 o'clock tonight at Odd Fellows Hall, 2020 Rhode Island ave. ne. Services will be held at Beth Sholom Congregation, 810 Shepherd st. nw., at 7 p. m. today and 8:30 a. m. Friday.

Members of Tifereth-Agudath Ohavay Sholom Congregation have announced a Passover social at Ohev Sholom Congregation, 5th and I sts. nw., at 8 p. m. Sunday. Jewish youth will celebrate Passover at a seder at 6:30 p. m. Monday at the Jewish Community Center, 16th and Q sts. nw.

Wailing Wall Barred To Israel's Jews

Jerusalem, April 13 (AP).—A lag in putting armistice terms into effect will prevent Israel's Jews from marking the start of Passover tonight at their ancient Wailing Wall.

The Wailing Wall is in the Old City of Jerusalem and was part of an ancient Hebrew temple. Since the Middle Ages, Jews have prayed there at the start of each Passover feast.

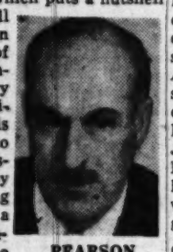
The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Business Interprets Legislation

By Drew Pearson

(Editor's Note—This is the second of Drew Pearson's series on the lobbyists who pull the wires backstage in Congress.)

One of the cleverest lobbies in Washington is the American Enterprise Association, financed by big business, which puts a nutshell analysis of all legislation on the desks of about 400 Congressmen every morning. Obviously, there is no better way to influence legislation than by interpreting legislation to a harassed Congressman who doesn't have the time to study every bill for himself.



PEARSON

This lobby is supported by Robert Lund, past president of the National Association of Manufacturers, and by officials of Johns-Manville, Chemical Bank and Trust, Guaranty Trust, American Steel Foundries, Inland Steel, Chrysler, Bristol-Myers, Brown and Sharpe, United Carr Fastener, and others. It also has the support of some Congressmen, including "Goober Gene" Cox of Georgia, who claims credit for selling the idea to his Mercer University classmate, Eugene Stetson, head of the Guaranty Trust Co.

"It was all my idea," says the Georgia Congressman, who is one of the most reactionary members of the House.

Others who helped inspire the association were Lew Brown, head of Johns-Manville, Baxter Jackson of Chemical Bank and Trust; Congressmen Dan Reed of New York, Roy Woodruff of Michigan; and the late J. Frederick Richardson, the first manager of the Washington office.

Lobby Moves to Capitol

After the Republicans took over Congress in 1946, Congressman Dan Reed induced House GOP leaders to set up a coordinator's office, supposed to do research for members of Congress, and financed out of the public funds.

Lo and behold! Who do you think moved into this key job? The representative of private business—J. Frederick Richardson. Hitherto, Richardson had been working on the outside as the representative of acknowledged business groups But now, thanks to Congressman Reed, he moved right inside the halls of Congress and was put on the Government payroll. Furthermore, Richardson brought with him the same men who had been working for the American Enterprise Association.

Came last November's election, however, and the victorious Democrats moved this amazing lobby out. Thereupon it became necessary for the American Enterprise Association to get some nonpartisan political collaboration. They did this by making a deal with the law firm of Secretary of the Navy John Sullivan, a true and loyal Democrat. Sullivan's law firm was hired to analyze legislation and write the daily reports for Congressmen.

Secretary's Law Firm

The Secretary of the Navy, sensitive about any connection with the lobby, is very emphatic that he is no longer with his law firm.

"Let's get one thing clear," he snapped, when queried. "I am no longer in the firm. My name is not on the stationery. My name is not on the door."

Sullivan admitted, however, that Malcolm Hardgrove, now Washington representative of the lobby, had talked to him about various matters. Hardgrove is the man who gets information from former Speaker Joe Martin's office by occasionally slipping $20 to a Negro messenger, who plays close to the real estate lobby and admit that he interviews 20 to 50 Congressmen a day.

"How well do you know Hardgrove?" the Secretary of the Navy was asked.

"I've seen him three or four times," he replied.

Later the same question was put to Hardgrove.

"John has been a close friend of mine for years," he said.

"But he says he has only seen you three or four times."

"Well, that's true," Hardgrove fumbled. "I've just seen him a couple of times."

"You mean you've been close friends for years and you've only seen him a couple of times?"

"I can see that we're not getting anywhere," Hardgrove blurted and hung up.

It may be significant, however, that when the Secretary of the Navy telephones Hardgrove's office, which he does from time to time, he does not ask for "Mr. Hardgrove," nor does he even use his first name, "Malcolm." He asks for "Mal."

Democratic Support

It also is significant that Congressman Percy Priest of Tennessee, a Democrat, says that he would not have indorsed the American Enterprise Association except for the Sullivan law firm's connection with it. Priest said that Hardgrove had used Sullivan's name in asking him to write a letter boosting the association. It was this letter of recommendation, plus those by two other Democrats, which started Democratic Congressmen subscribing to the lobby's analytical service.

Another liberal Democrat who was euchred into indorsing the analytical service is Senator Francis Myers of Pennsylvania, who explained that he had done so on the recommendation of Congressman Priest.

"Christmas? . . .
Why, this is Spring!"

"This is no time to be talking about Christmas. Heavens to Betsy . . . you know to where my fancy has turned!"

Well, you'd better turn your fancy to next Christmas NOW, if you don't want to be wishing for money then. You'll have it only if you save now.

$5 opens an account at Liberty Building Association. By Christmas you'll have a nice dividend, too.

1949 MERCURY SPORT SEDAN
White side-wall tires and rear wheel shields optional at extra cost

THAT'S WHAT OWNERS SAY ABOUT THIS ROAD-PROVEN NEW 1949 MERCURY!

Imagine being able to drive hundreds of miles in a day—and scarcely feel it. That's how restful and relaxing this road-hugging new 1949 MERCURY is! Owners say there isn't a smoother-riding, easier-handling car in its class! And there isn't!

You can look forward to years of ease and relaxation in your new 1949 Mercury.

For every single feature of this great car has been thoroughly road-proven by thousands of owners for millions of miles!

Here are just a few of the many good things you get: A powerful new 8-cylinder, V-type engine with surprising economy! Owners claim 17, 18, 19 miles per gallon—and up!* Front coil springing! A truly restful "comfort-zone" ride! Easier steering! "Super-safety" brakes! Softer, broader seating! Increased all-round visibility, too!

Drive it—just drive it—and you'll say: "It's Mercury for me!"

*Even more with optional Overdrive

D. C. Deposits Rise Slightly So Far in '49

By S. Oliver Goodman

Aggregate deposits of Washington's 19 banks show a moderate upward trend so far this year.

The total as of April 11 was $1,022,130,959, the banks reported in response to a call for condition by the Comptroller of Currency and the Federal Reserve Board. This compared with $1,020,265,787 as of December 31, 1948.

With the exception of three institutions, all displayed increases during the period. Gains of four million or more were recorded for National Bank of Washington, Hamilton National and Liberty National.

Individual banks reported deposits as follows:

EXTRA DIVIDEND: Directors of National Savings & Trust Co. have declared an extra dividend of $1 a share in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of $2 a share on capital stock. The dividends are payable May 2 to stock of record April 22, President Bruce Baird said.

NEW DIRECTORS: Edmund L. Jones and James E. Colliflower Tuesday were elected directors of the Capital Transit Co. at the annual stockholders meeting. Jones is general counsel of the transit firm and a member of the law firm of Hogan & Hartson. Colliflower is president and general manager of the coal and fuel oil company bearing his name. They succeed Frederick W. Doolittle and Dr. William McClellan, whose decision not to stand for reelection met with formal expressions of regret from transit officials. Reelected as directors were E. D. Merrill, William H. Bennett, G. Thomas Dunlop, Robert V. Fleming, Edwin C. Graham, J. Edward Heberle, Alfred H. Lawson, David McCoach, jr., Alfred G. Neal, George L. Nicolson, John M. Perry, S. Percy Thompson and Merle Thorpe. Directors reelected all officers. John B. Eckert was promoted to assistant general manager. He has been associated with the transit system since 1929.

Chicago Grain

Chicago, April 13 (AP).—With the exception of May wheat, grains sank on the Board of Trade today. Losses ran to about a cent in corn and in the new crop wheat deliveries.

May wheat spurted nearly a cent on short covering and a little mill buying. It was influenced by strength in wheat at Minneapolis as well as the possibility there may not be much free wheat around for delivery on these contracts by the end of May.

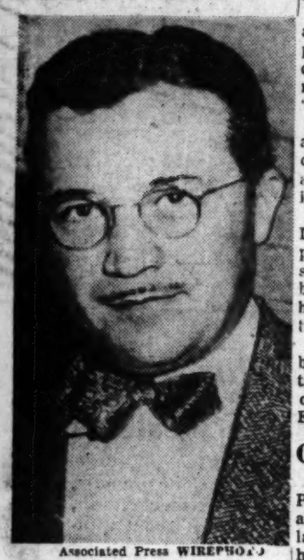
Gains in Cerebral Palsy Fight Cited

Yale Professor Loses Position



Associated Press WIREPHOTO

JOHN M. MARSALKA, denied reappointment by Yale University as assistant professor of history and Russian studies, said yesterday he is awaiting action by the American Association of Univresity Professors before deciding what to do next. He said his "blacklisting" was brought about by "thought control" and State Department "pressure." He was dismissed for alleged leftist leanings

Methods of fighting cerebral palsy, crippler of children, are now on "a solid scientific basis," Dr. Winthrop M. Phelps, Baltimore specialist, declared here yesterday.

Pioneer in the field, he spoke at a spring conference on cerebral palsy sponsored by the D. C. Society for Crippled Children, whose main efforts is to aid victims of "birth injuries."

Dr. Phelps estimated there are approximately 1200 victims of cerebral palsy in Washington alone. The condition is manifest in lack of muscular control.

With treatment now available, Dr. Phelps said, some 650 of the present Washington cerebral palsied could be rehabilitated. "Habilitated" would be a better word, he added, "since they never had the first chance."

The conference was sponsored by the local society in conjunction with its current fund-raising campaign through the sale of Easter seals.

Child Dies After Fall

Hot Spring, S. Dak., April 13 (AP). Patsy Ann Trier, 5, who fell into an incinerator filled with live coals last night, died today in a hospital here.

Bank Bandits Get $5000 in W. Va. Town

Follansbee, W. Va., April 13 (AP). Three gunmen swaggered into the Bank of Follansbee today and escaped with "not more than $5000." One also got a bad case of the jitters.

They drove off in a black car toward Wheeling, 19 miles south. Follansbee is on the Ohio River near the north end of West Virginia's narrow panhandle.

Cashier Maurice Dunlop, who made the estimate of the loot, was hit on the head with a gun butt when he told the trio he could not open the vaults because of a time lock.

The three were described as under 40 and wearing Army flight jackets. Two had .45-caliber pistols, the other a British make submachine gun.

One herded two customers into a corner. The other two headed for Dunlop with the warning: "Don't push no buttons."

One customer was Ross Dye, a rookie policeman sworn in last night. He said one of the men dropped his gun belt. Grabbing for it, he dropped his pistol. He picked up the gun and dropped his holster. Investigators have the holster for a clew.

Sheriff Richard Hogg said the escape automobile was stolen earlier at nearby Wellsburg. It was found abandoned after the holdup at a crossroads about 9 miles south.

Blaisdell Confirmed As Commerce Aide

The Senate last night confirmed Thomas C. Blaisdell, jr., to be Assistant Secretary of Commerce.

It also confirmed John W. Askew of Virginia to be comptroller of the Postoffice Department.

D. C. Seeks Space for Possible Sales-Tax Unit, Asks PBA to Give Up Lease

The District government, seeking space for organization of a possible sales tax unit, has asked the Public Buildings Administration to relinquish its lease of a floor of the District Library Building at 499 Pennsylvania ave. nw.

After the sales tax failed of passage on the first attempt in the House of Representatives, the Commissioners approved leasing of a 10,000-square-foot space in the building to the PBA for use by Federal agencies.

Now that the revenue measure has passed the House and is before the Senate, the Commissioners have asked for a return of the office space. Property Survey Officer Paul Chalupsky has written to the PBA asking for return of the space so the offices of the Public Utilities Commission and the Water Registrar may be moved there.

The Commissioners' Space Committee, headed by Lieut. Col. Carlin H. Whitesell, jr., Assistant Engineer Commissioner, has held several hearings in the past few weeks discussing possible moves in the District Building and the Municipal Center to permit expansion of the tax-collector, tax-assessor and auditor offices.

Several department heads who were affected by the proposals protested vigorously, for the most part, during a meeting with the District Commissioners Tuesday morning.

New Red Claims

Moscow, April 13 (U.P.).—The Soviet navy organ, Red Fleet, said today it had been incontrovertibly proved that a Russian peasant serf named Yefim Nikonov made the first submarine, and that other Russians made the first underwater mines.

Windsor Castle Has Burglar Alarm Scare

Windsor, England, April 13 (AP). A burglar alarm sounded tonight at Windsor Castle, ancient seat of British kings.

A warning signal buzzed at Scotland Yard and the Berkshire police station.

Police immediately surrounded the castle. For more than an hour they checked identity of all persons in local railway stations, on buses and leaving or entering the town by car.

Then police found a short circuit had set off the alarm.

Radio Will Expand Promotion Budget

Chicago, April 13 (U.P.)—Delegates to the National Association of Broadcasters' convention today voted to expand the organization's budget for promotion and advertising of the radio industry.

The measure was passed after heated discussion and was a compromise after a motion to allocate 40 per cent of the NAB's $800,000 annual budget for promotion of the industry.

An official of the organization said about 5 to 10 per cent of the budget now goes for promotion.

The board of directors is authorized to determine how much the promotion budget shall be expanded.

At an earlier session, President Sig Mickelson of the National Association of Radio News Directors said a reliable news report is a radio station's most valuable asset.

District Wins Safety Prizes

headquarters in Chicago, notifying the Commissioners of the awards.

Commissioners' Traffic Advisory Board Chairman Arthur Sundlun attributed the District selection in large part to the year-round publicity and educational program sponsored by the Traffic Advisory Commission, and the establishment of the traffic school for "repeaters" of traffic violations.

He also praised the "splendid cooperation" of his fellow commission members, the Board of Commissioners, the Police Department, Traffic Director George E. Keneipp and the judges of the Municipal Court who handle traffic cases.

Inspector Miller said credit for the victory was due mainly to "the people who drive and walk safely." After them, he said, come the 4000 boys and girls who comprise the school safety patrols; the newspaper and radio station educational campaigns and the tighter enforcement of traffic regulations by police, who "made more than 147,000 cases, more than ever before" during 1948.

Martin Picks GOP Campaign Workers

By The Associated Press

Representative Joseph W. Martin (R., Mass.) named three House members yesterday to serve on the Republican national policy committee. Capitol Hill Republicans now have reached agreement with GOP Chairman Hugh D. Scott, jr., on 1950 campaign tactics.

Martin, the party's leader in the House, picked Representatives Leonard Hall of New York, Francis Case of South Dakota and Donald L. Jackson of California for the policy group set up by the GOP national committee at its January meeting in Omaha.

Senate members will be Owen Brewster of Maine, Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts and Hugh Butler of Nebraska.

Indications are that Republican Governors will pick Alfred E. Driscoll of New Jersey, Frank Carlson of Kansas and either Arthur P. Langlie of Washington or some other Far-Westerner for their representatives.

The moves to speed the GOP vote drive organization included an informal agreement between Scott and Congress leaders on the roles of the Senate, House and national committee.

Temptation Wins In 7th Round of Suede Shoe Fight

Six times James A. Smith, 26, resisted temptation, but he succumbed the seventh time and fell into the arms of the law.

In Municipal Court yesterday, Smith, who told police he lived at 1837 Corcoran st. ne., was found guilty of stealing a pair of gray suede shoes from the Hecht Co.

A store detective said that once a week for six weeks, Smith had come to the basement store and looked at the shoes, once even putting them in a sack before returning them to the shelf. On Monday he put them on and started for the door, where he was arrested.

Judge Aubrey B. Fennell ordered the case referred to the probation officer for a presentence investigation.

Wise Teachers Back at Desks

Wise, Va., April 13 (AP).—Wise County schoolteachers were back in their classrooms today.

With them were the county's some 5000 school pupils who yesterday had an unexpected holiday.

The teachers yesterday took the day off to attend a meeting of the County Board of Supervisors in protest of a cut in the school levy.

The board recessed without taking action and will meet again Wednesday.

THE DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

Diogenes Can Call Off His Search Now

Sylvester E. Cole of 1214 Canal st. sw. returned to his parked car the other night to find a note tucked under the windshield wiper. It said:

"Dear Sir: In pulling out from the curb, my bumper rubbed your rear bumper and the red reflector fell out of your rear light. If it is necessary, see me at 916 S st. nw. or call Adams 8312. James Hampton."

LATE? OR EARLY?

Ernest McIver of 3109 Circle Hill rd., Alexandria, Va., wonders about the sign at the corner of 10th st. and Pennsylvania ave. nw.

Decorated with holly, it says: "Season's Greetings, U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force."

MAIL BAG

Dear Bill:

I read with great interest your item about Officer Cave and his one-man speed trap. Granting that there may have been some justification in some of his arrests, I think that the matter warrants further consideration.

Riggs rd. ne. is a recently completed four-lane highway at this point and there is very little cross traffic. A speed limit of 25 miles per hour therefore seems a bit silly.

Besides, there are no stop signs, no speed limit signs, or any other indication of attention by the traffic department.

Perhaps you can bring some influence to bear to get this road posted, so that the motorist will at least have a fighting chance.

John R. Kelley,
3224 16th st. nw.

Dear Mr. Kelley:

Inspector Arthur E. Miller, head of the traffic division, made a personal inspection of the area, and was surprised by what he found.

There are no speed limit signs, nor even a proper identification of the District boundary line, to let the motorist know that he has passed into a jurisdiction with different traffic laws.

Inspector Miller has written to Traffic Director Keneipp, suggesting that the speed limit be set at 30 miles per hour (the highest permitted in the District) and that the road be posted with the proper signs.

Incidentally, Inspector Miller is surprised that nobody has ever complained about this area before—not even his own men—and he appreciates your report.

Bill.

DEFT DEFINITION

The current issue of the telephone company's excellent magazine "The Transmitter" comes up with a good definition.

It says that a hick town is one where, if you see a girl dining with a man old enough to be her father—he is.

PERSONAL NOTES

Raymond J. Vezina, 38 John Roberts Homes, Alexandria, Va.: You certainly have a legitimate beef. I'm asking our Circulation Director to investigate, and I'm sure you'll get your paper regularly from now on.

Mrs. Peter J. Doyle, 1731 Lyman pl. ne.: Thanks. Now all I need is time off from work, and enough money to afford the trip that you've made me wish I could take. On second thought, I think you've ruined my day.

THE BROTHERS SMITH

There have been a number of jokes about Trade and Mark, the two well-known Smith Brothers. But I wonder whether we realize how many times a day we use registered trade names to indicate a whole genus of manufactured articles.

For example, the other day I overheard two women talking about a new purchase. One had just announced that she'd bought a Frigidaire, and the other exclaimed: "Oh, is that so? What kind did you get?"

"A Kelvinator," was the astonishing reply.

Anybody who stops to think will remember that a Frigidaire isn't just any mechanical icebox, but rather General Motors' special brand.

Similarly, the language has absorbed such trade names as Kleenex, Vasolene, Cellophane, Scotch Tape, Kodak, Dixie Cup, Mimeograph, Thermos Bottle, Technicolor and Band-Aid. Every one of them is registered at the Patent Office.

So, for that matter, is Popsicle.

We had a formal business chat.
Have I met the Ambassador?
Mais oui! That's what my job is for.
And do I know Sir Soandso?
Righto, we met in Tokyo.

Are dazzled secretaries, too.
Oh, I know well each V. I. P.
But doubt they'd say the same of me.

DOUBLE TAKE DEPT.

One of the news vendors at 14th st. and Pennsylvania ave. nw. gets a big bang out of startling passersby by growling: "Get outta town."

Newspaper Fills Big Movie Role

By Richard L. Coe

THE LACK OF NEWSPAPERS can have a very serious effect on the entertainment world. For your movies, plays, concerts and entertainment are the only commodity the public buys sight unseen. Description of that product, details of how, when and where to see it and criticism of it is so taken for granted by the newsreading public that a vacuum results which can be most damaging to the highly expensive, complex entertainment industry.

Washington's theater managers took instant note of this serious condition. An unofficial committee was formed, chairmaned, in a manner of speaking, by Warner Brothers' experienced, vocative Frank La Falce. Frank's public boasts of his pictures, by the way, are an amusing reflection of his private-life hobby. For recreation, La Falce is a book collector, a notably peaceable avocation.

The theaters' first line of defense was radio. So far as their budgets permitted, they bought spots on all the town's stations, detailing their attractions, hours of showing and coming attractions. But radio time is not cheaply come by, and all the details which newspaper readers take for granted in their daily press simply could not be included in the radio spots.

As proprietors of the metropolitan area's largest chain of neighborhood theaters, Warners, for instance, were in a tough spot. Phone calls to their home office switchboard were heavier than heavy. Individual theaters of their chain not only had to keep the phone wires busy, they also had to evolve ways of telling their neighborhood patrons of their attractions.

Time Schedules Missed

One particularly upsetting aspect of the loss of daily newspaper service was the lack of time schedules. The movies — and its critics — have long insisted that movies were made to be seen from the beginning. It's patently unfair to see a picture from anything but the first reel. That a large segment of the public felt this was mirrored, as the first day wore on without its afternoon papers, in phone calls to drama editors and theaters. "What time," asked countless voices, "does the feature go on?"

Less considered by the public has been the double duty necessitated in the theatrical advertising departments. Not knowing when newspaper service would be resumed, advertisements had to be made up for every edition, usually with the artists' half-hearted feeling that "this will never see the light of publication." Each deadline, however, was met as usual, with advertising and publicity department devoting the rest of their attention to the radio campaign.

One standby of the printed word remained to the managers—"The Bulletin," that single-sheet news service you find in restaurants, bars, clubs and odd shops around town. For "The Bulletin," the strike was a windfall of indeterminate strength.

But for all, the cessation of newspapers was a striking reflection of the complexity of modern living. For the theater people it was a headache and an economic danger. To the habitual newspaper readers it was an unsettling inconvenience.

For entertainment, your movies, your concerts, your Glen Echo Amusement Park, are part of the intricate web in which modern man exists.

Boys' Club Band Concert a Success

By Paul Hume

Lots of dreams and plenty of hard work showed up last night on the stage of Constitution Hall.

The second annual Boys' Club of Washington Band concert went off with precision before an audience of interested friends. Under the direction of Andrew Bodnar, with Richard Bales acting as master of ceremonies; the band played tone poems, show music, and those marches dear to the heart of bandsmen.

A half dozen soloists added their notes to the concert, with young Joseph Smith winning particular honors on the trumpet. But it was a joint effort and a joint success for all. The Boys Club has been loyal in support of the National Symphony. The Symphony was represented in the audience by Conductor Howard Mitchell, E. R. Finkenstaedt, president of the orchestra's board of directors, and Frank R. Jelleff, vice president. Jelleff was chairman of the concert.

Monday and Tuesday nights this week, the Philadelphia Orchestra wound up its parallel series of concerts. Alexander Hilsberg, concert master and assistant conductor of the orchestra, directed both evenings in the illness of Eugene Ormandy. Monday evening's soloist was Gregor Piatigorsky, Russian-born cellist now a citizen of the United States.

Piatigorsky played concerts of Saint-Saens and Milhaud. It is a witty, completely nonchalant piece of writing. At more than one point it reminds one of several popular tunes of the day; it is a welcome addition to a limited repertoire, and Piatigorsky played it perfectly. Had he not been drowned out with rather unsympathetic accompaniment, it would have been an even finer occasion.

Tuesday evening Rafael Sebastia made his American debut in Lisner Auditorium. Sebastia is a young Spanish pianist wise enough to draw upon music of his own land. He included sonatas by Padre Antonio Soler and Isaac Albeniz on his good program. His playing is intelligent, subtle, and musicianly. He is now preparing for an early New York debut.

Ex-Richmond Teacher Wins Concert Award

New York, April 13 (AP).—A husky ex-sailor and former Richmond, Va., school teacher today won the American Theater Wing's second annual concert award.

The winner, baritone Frank Roane, wins a recital with all expenses paid at Times Hall, the lead in a forthcoming musical, "Moon Calf," and a year's concert management.

He was picked from 79 contestants in the Theater Wing's musical school. A panel of musicians chose Roane out of six finalists.

Richmond to Have Some Negro Election Officials

Richmond, Va., April 13 (AP).—Negroes will be appointed as election officials at some Richmond precincts for the August Democratic primary and the November general election, the city Electoral Board said today. This is a departure from past practice.

Wilmer L. O'Flaherty, board secretary, told a delegation of Negroes who met with the board today that this is being done "due to the increased number of Negro voters in the city. . . ." He said the board next month will appoint "certain Negro officials" in eight precints, which he listed.

O'Flaherty said the board was working towards turning the eight precincts over entirely to Negro officials, but that at the start probably two Negro officials would be used at each. He said it was necessary to train them.

There will be 80 or more precincts in Richmond after this year.

Studebaker's really rolling!

During the first 3 months of 1949 Studebaker retail sales throughout the U.S. set a new all-time record!

More people bought new Studebaker cars and trucks in January, February and March of this year than in any previous quarterly period in Studebaker history!

Studebaker is the '49 buy word all over America!

Oldest Bible Scrolls to Go At Auction

Baltimore, April 13 (AP).—Four leather-bound parchment scrolls, described by a Johns Hopkins University archeologist as "the greatest manuscript discovery of modern times," soon will be offered for sale to the highest bidder.

The bidder will have to be wealthy. The documents are the four oldest manuscripts of the Old Testament known to date. Valued at more than one million dollars, they were brought secretly to this country early this year.

Discovered by wandering Arabs in a half-closed cave by the Dead Sea in 1947, the parchments contain the entire book of the Prophet Isaiah as it appears in the Bible, a commentary on the book of Habakkuk, and a manual of discipline for a Judaic sect.

Experts say they were written 100 years before Christ—1100 years before the date assigned to the oldest Hebrew Bible scroll previously known.

An authoritative source, who declined use of his name, said the treasure would shortly go back on the block. It is owned by St. Mark's Syrian Orthodox Convent in Jerusalem.

Dr. F. W. Albright, professor of Semitic languages at Hopkins and one of the Nation's top archeologists, first established the authenticity of the scrolls from photographs sent him, and since examined the originals.

"During the past few weeks," he reported today, "any possible doubt about the age and authenticity of the scrolls has been removed."

2d Man Pleads Guilty in W.Va. Train Holdup

Fairmont, W. Va., April 13 (AP).—The second of two Youngstown, Ohio, men charged with the holdup of a Baltimore and Ohio passenger train March 9 pleaded guilty in Federal Court here today.

He was Luman C. Ramsdell, 23, described by his attorney as a veteran with a "war neurosis."

Sentence was deferred by Federal Judge Harry E. Watkins pending investigation by probation officials.

Judge Watkins said that Ramsdell and his accomplice, George L. Ashton, who previously had pleaded guilty in connection with the holdup of the "Ambassador" near Martinsburg, Va., would be sentenced at the same time.

Ramsdell pleaded guilty to two charges.

One accused him of obstructing interstate commerce by the armed holdup.

The second charged him with two specific thefts during the holdup—$140 from Dr. Karl Krowl, a passenger whose address was not given, and $200 and a diamond ring valued at $180 from Lindon McWashington, jr., whose address also was not given.

Ramsdell entered his pleas to the two charges after Judge Watkins asked if Ramsdell was aware that he could be given 40 years in prison—20 years on the first charge and 10 years on each count of the second.

Ramsdell and Ashton were arrested in a Washington, D. C., pawnshop the day after the train robbery, in which some 100 passengers were robbed of about $1000. Ramsdell was wounded while resisting arrest and his arraignment had been delayed pending his recovery.

Furnishings Of The Stables To Go on Block

The furnishings of the Stables Restaurant, at Riverside dr. and E st. nw., are scheduled to be auctioned by the District government April 27 to satisfy delinquent 1944-48 personal property tax claims totaling $2006.

Tax Collector Guy W. Pearson said yesterday the furnishings will be advertised for sale April 18-20. He said the establishment operates on Federally-owned land and in a Federally-owned building.

Pearson said $220 is due the District for a delinquent water bill.

Yesterday three employes of the restaurant filed suit against Lee Ice Cream, Inc., trading as The Stables, and various District government officials, asking the District Court to put the firm into receivership and issue an injunction prohibiting distribution of assets.

1 Killed, 20 Hurt In Bomb Blast At Clark Field

Clark Field Air Base, Philippine Islands, April 13 (AP).—One person was killed and more than 20 were injured at this big U.S. base today by the explosion of 100 tons of stored bombs.

Cause of the explosion had not been determined.

The blast, which destroyed a cement pipe manufacturing plant, set fire to dry grass. The grass fire for a time threatened the U.S. 20th Station Hospital. The flames were brought under control before the evacuation of hospital patients could be carried out.

A Filipino workman was killed by the exploding bombs.

A U.S. Air Force spokesman said the exact number of injured had not been ascertained but that more than 20 persons were hospitalized and given first-aid treatment.

With Shirley Povich

IN THE CASE of Joe DiMaggio, baseball's most celebrated patient since the late Babe Ruth came down with his famous tummy-ache of the twenties, the threat that hangs over the Yankees is that they may be spurred to a new low.

Before DiMaggio's heel-spur began kicking up a fuss again and took him out of the Yanks' opening-day lineup, the New York club was rated a third-place outfit at best, behind Cleveland and the Red Sox. If the Yankees are without DiMaggio for a considerable time this season, and that could happen, they may be hard put to finish in the first division.

POVICH

DiMag was the Yankee ball team last season, even as a bailing-wire case, suffering concurrently from painful heels, a charley horse, a wrenched knee and a skin rash. He kept them in the race through the final week with his heroics at bat. Without him, they are, indeed, a sad-sack outfit, shy of batting punch.

The Yanks were already hard hit by the uncertain status of Charley Keller and his ailing back, and the lack of a first baseman that compelled the conversion of Outfielder Tommy Henrich into a first baseman. The once-great outfield of DiMag-Keller-Henrich is history, or close to it, perhaps.

THE UNHAPPIEST GUY in the whole Yankee cast is DiMaggio. Throughout the winter, after his heel operation, he was cheerful enough. But during spring training when that dratted heel began to act up again, and his every step was painful, DiMaggio went moody, as sullen as a guy in a batting slump.

DiMag was out of patience with his ailment. A year before, he underwent his first operation and was pronounced cured. During 1948, he learned differently. Last month in Florida, he almost broke down and wept. "They tell me I'm getting better, but they don't have to walk on this heel of mine. They ought to try it some time, and learn how it feels," he moaned.

This was going to be one of his finest years, DiMaggio assumed. Another operation, a winter's rest, the biggest salary he ever drew, and another big season at bat. At $90,000, he had the distinction of drawing baseball's biggest straight salary. In his first tests in the South, as a pinch hitter, he was murdering the ball, and getting into shape, he thought.

FROM HUNDREDS OF well-wishers, DiMaggio has received encouragement. They wrote him, describing their own successful operations to remove the same kind of growths that affected DiMag. But he couldn't draw much comfort from that.

"They tried to be helpful, but they don't understand that a ball player is different," said DiMaggio. "They get operated on, throw their crutches away and return to their offices or wherever they work. They don't have to take the fast starts and turns and put all that strain on the legs and body that a ball player does."

None of DiMaggio's immediate worries are financial. The $90,000 the Yankees have agreed to pay him for 1949 is as good as in the bank despite the fact his paydays do not start until opening day. The Yankees could release him, taking advantage of the 10-day clause in his contract, but that is not likely to happen, nor are they apt to choose that gamble.

IF MADE A FREE AGENT, DiMaggio would be avidly grabbed up by another club willing to risk his salary plus a big fee for signing, in the hope that he will ultimately play a lot more baseball. But he is the last link with Yankee greatness and the Yankee owners will prefer to sweat out his present affliction.

At any rate, the Yankees no longer look formidable in the American League. DiMaggio's absence for even a month, and it could be longer, would be disastrous to any pennant hopes they might have. There is nothing among their outfield replacements to bolster any pennant ideas. Hank Bauer and Gene Woodling, the rookies who are available, are a far shout from DiMaggio's type, either with a bat in the hands or in the outfield.

It threatens wide repercussions throughout the American League. What was supposed to be a two-team race between Cleveland and Boston for the flag is now clear-cut as such. And the scramble for third place ought to be a beaut with the Athletics the new favorites for that spot, and the Yankees a second-division possibility for the first time in 24 years.

Mikan's 29 Points Help Victors Take Series, 4-2

Special to The Post

St. Paul, Minn., April 13.—Against George Mikan, when he's "right," nobody could do anything tonight.

Even the Washington Caps, who deviled the Minneapolis Lakers into six playoff games in the Basketball Association of America, couldn't do it—and Washington finished runnerup for the title by a 77-56 margin before 10,482 fans here tonight.

No matter who guarded Mikan—whether it was Kleggie Hermsen, Jack Nichols or a combination of three or four Caps—Mikan just went on being Mikan.

Big George tallied 29 points to run his season's total to 2001, and was the big reason the Caps didn't push the series out to its seven-game limit.

Wrist Still Bandaged

Mikan was up against Hermsen at the start and collected seven straight points although his arm was encased in a heavy cast of adhesive tape.

Then the boys got instructions to drop back on George to give Kleggie a little help. That put a slight damper on George, but in the doing, Hermsen got five quick fouls, and the Lakers started counting points outside the congested area.

It was the sixth game of the four-of-seven series, and Minneapolis led all the way. If the Caps, whose Coach Red Auerbach was not enthusiastic even up to game time, had won this one, there would be another game here Saturday night.

But the Lakers were hepped up, and so was Mikan.

They led 12 to 3, and then 19 to 12 at the quarter.

Even after Sonny Hertzberg dropped a couple of long ones, it was still 40 to 24 with the Lakers in front at halftime.

That's the way it went. Minneapolis ran its lead to 24 points twice and except for Hermsen's 12 points, there wasn't a single Cap who startled anybody afield.

As a team, Washington probably hit 15 per cent of its shots, and Mikan shared honors with Jim Pollard in grabbing most of the rebounds.

All Auerbach said was "they were terrific. I've got no kick coming."

Robinson, Young Club Draw Crowd Of 22,000

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

Some 22,000 fans and the Brooklyn Dodgers will assemble at Griffith Stadium tonight to greet the 1949 Nats.

After five weeks in Florida and a sixth touring the canebrakes, Manager Joe Kuhel's hopefuls returned to Washington last night, eager to make their first appearance of the season on the home lot. Game time is 8:30 o'clock.

This evening's whopping turnout—which will set a Griffith Stadium preseason exhibition game record—undoubtedly will be occasioned by the appearance of Jackie Robinson in the line-up of the team favored to win the National League championship.

Jackie Packs 'Em In

The spectacular Robinson, first Negro ever to play in the majors, has been responsible for most of the tremendous crowds that have turned out wherever the Dodgers have played this spring. Last Sunday in Atlanta, for instance, the Dodgers and Atlanta played before 25,000, a record for the Cracker park.

Eager for his club to make a good showing in its first performance before the home folks, Manager Kuhel will trot out two of his first-line pitchers for tonight's activities.

Ray Scarborough, 15-game winner with last year's seventh-place Nats, will work the first three innings. Sid Hudson, spring pitching sensation, will toil the middle three innings with Lefthander Mickey Haefner finishing up.

Kuhel, incidentally, made it official last night that Scarborough will hurl the American League opener against the Philadelphia Athletics here next Monday.

Joe Likes His Chances

"We're a much better ball club than last year," he said. "Scarborough and Hudson are looking great; Gil Coan is confident that he can make the grade and so far has shown it; Buddy Lewis plays like he hasn't missed a day of baseball, much less a year; Eddie Robinson is beginning to hit; Eddie Yost has been walloping the ball all spring; and Sam Dente is giving us a good job at shortstop."

The Dodgers are not exactly strangers to the Nats. The two clubs met in Vero Beach, Fla., several weeks ago with the National Leaguers winning a 6-2 tilt.

Bums Are Young

Brooklyn's beloved Bums are loaded with youthful talent. Gil Hodges, a converted catcher, is the regular first-baseman; Robinson is the second-baseman and teams up with Shortstop Pewee Reese, a veteran at 28, to give the Brooks the best double-play combination in the majors. Young Billy Cox is the third-baseman.

Carl Furillo, Cal Abrams, Duke Snyder, Mike McCormick and Gene Hermanski are the Dodgers' leading outfield candidates. Fireballing Ralph Branca and Rex Barney top the what is rated as the strongest pitching staff in the National League.

IN SHORT—After tonight's exhibition, the Nats rest Friday, but swing back into action Saturday against Baltimore at Griffith Stadium. The same clubs meet in Baltimore Sunday . . . Reserved seats are still available for tonight's game . . . Walter Masterson, who had an appendectomy in Orlando last week, is due back in Washington today . . . Pitcher Joe Haynes is still taking it easy, Kuhel reported, but should be ready to go in a week . . .

Yanks Lose Di Maggio Indefinitely

Everybody's Happy Now

Horseplayers Find Strike Plenty Expensive—Those Publicity Men Were Woeful Lot, Too

Washington's two-day newspaper strike was an illegal pitch to the city's sporting set.

It made a sad lot of horse players, numbers players, publicity men and in general all types of athletic aficionados.

The poor horse player was perhaps the hardest hit. Instead of paying five cents for race information (that's legal, Mr. Fay), he had to shell out 25 cents for Armstrong's Scratch Sheet or 35 cents for the Morning Telegraph. Incidentally, neither Armstrong nor the Telegraph missed an edition.

Some of the boys beat the rap by rousing our Walter Haight at 8 a. m. to find out how their choices fared. Others were exposed to endless commercials listening to radios to learn who won the fifth at Havre de Grace or the third at Gulfstream.

Radio, which proved it's here to stay during the nonnewspaper days, won many listeners from numbers players. With no newspapers to turn to for mutuel prices, this lot had to listen to their sets and compute the number themselves.

For the sports publicity men it was real tough. They couldn't crash the radio because of a boom in commercials and spot sports stuff.

Dave Herman, who beats the drums for practically everything from Turner's Arena fights to Serutan, looked like an advance man for a famine when he learned of the strike Sunday night.

But Honest Dave, his face all aglow, was his old self two minutes after the cease-fire order was issued yesterday. He barged into the office with an armful of handouts, which included stories about bowling, boxing, wrestling, basketball, softball, and, by mistake, the arrival of a Hindu juggler at one of the neighborhood taverns. Dave gets around.

Mountainous Joe Holman, who lives and dies with the Caps, was a late arrival. Strictly a night operator, Holman didn't learn of the settlement until 8 o'clock last night, but he was in at 8:30 with his suitcase littered with publicity. His main item—Cap tickets for next season are already on sale.

Georgetown U. suffered a bit, too. Basketball Coach Elmer Ripley resigned on the second day of the strike, leaving the Hoyas without a basketball coach and Bill Rach, their publicity man, incensed over Ripley's untimely act. "He could've waited until we got space in the papers," Rach moaned.

George Carroll, Maryland tub thumper, phoned shortly after the settlement to inform a breathless world that Terp spring football practice would be curtailed during Easter holidays.

The Redskins office was strangely quiet. Didn't even sign a new trainer during the lull.

"Being left without a Post is worse than having your horse left at the post," was the way one of our set summed up the two-day newspaper drought.

MORRIS SIEGEL.

Joe's Heel Again Under Treatment

Baltimore, April 13 (AP).—Joe DiMaggio will probably be discharged from Johns Hopkins Hospital tomorrow, but the New York Yankee centerfielder will continue treatments for his sore heel as an out-patient.

The big slugger arrived at the hospital shortly before 2 a. m. His right heel, from which a bony growth, or "spur," had been removed between seasons, was paining.

He was examined by Dr. George A. Bennett, who had treated him several times before.

Afterward, the hospital issued a bulletin stating that the "length of the disability will be determined by the results of the treatment." Doctors declined to speculate on just how long that would be.

Remains in Baltimore

DiMaggio was found to be suffering from "immature calcium deposits in tissues adjacent to his heelbons.

"He will receive the usual treatment for this condition, which is seen in many parts of the body.

"It is expected he will be discharged on April 14, but will continue treatment as an out-patient.

"The length of the disability will be determined by the results of the treatment."

A hospital spokesman indicated the "immature calcium deposits" were not the same as a bone spur.

Hospital officials declined to elaborate further.

Rickey Says Communists Attack Game

New York, April 13 (AP).—Branch Rickey said today baseball's reserve clause is opposed by persons of "avowed Communist tendencies" and he drew immediate fire from men challenging the game in the courts.

The president of the Brooklyn Dodgers made his statement in a speech before the Advertising Club at Baltimore.

He added that persons opposing the reserve clause "deeply resent the continuance of our national pastime."

Danny Gardella, the former New York Giant outfielder who has a $300,000 suit against baseball pending in the courts, and his attorney, Frederic A. Johnson, quickly answered the charges.

Offering to "match my own record and that of Gardella against Rickey's any time," Johnson said:

"Rickey has had dictatorial powers so long he doesn't recognize the true principles of American life."

Rickey, in his Baltimore speech, explained the reserve clause and praised its operation:

"For years we have labored on that point," he said. "It has worked out splendidly. The person cheating on the reserve clause is not the baseball owner—more fortunes have been lost than won in this game. So far as I know, players favor the clause unanimously."

Specialists Golf Starts

Virginia Beach, Va., April 13 (AP).—The all-star field of 16 pros selected for the $10,000 Cavalier Specialists golf tournament lolled around the clubhouse and moaned today as intermittent rain soaked the 6065-yard layout of the Cavalier Yacht and Country Club.

All agreed that by tomorrow, when competition in the unusual four-day event begins with pro-amateur play, the going would be very tough, indeed.

Only three of the specialists had gotten in practice rounds. Dick Metz, Horton Smith and Toney Penna went out yesterday. Metz and Penna carded one-under-par 68's. Smith took a 72.

There are three ways of winning money in this second renewal of the Specialists tourney. Top pro in the pro-amateur tomorrow gets $300. The Specialists team with the low score on Saturday wins $500 to dvvy up among its four members. But the big reward—$1500—goes to the fellow with the low score in medal competition.

Williams Hits 3 Homers as Bosox Tie

Hartford, Conn., April 13 (AP).—Ted Williams delighted an overflow crowd of 8444 fans today by belting three home runs for the Boston Red Sox as the American League pennant contenders played a 10-10 tie exhibition with the National League champion Boston Braves.

The tall slugger had a perfect day at bat as he singled and walked on his other two trips to the plate in the game which was called because of darkness after nine innings which lasted 2 hours and 23 minutes.

Four of the Sox runs were driven in by Williams who was challenged somewhat for hitting honors by Al Dark, Braves' shortstop, who hit safely in four of his five times at bat. Two of Dark's clouts were doubles.

The Braves landed on Sox starter Mickey Harris for four runs in the second inning after Bobby Doerr made one of his rare errors. Phil Masi and Ed Stanky doubled and Tommy Holmes and Dark followed with singles in this melee.

A five-run outburst in the fifth put the Sox ahead. They sandwiched six hits around an error by Braves' starting Pitcher Warren Spahn.

Recreation Board Again Holds Back Publinx Report

Once again, the D. C. Board of Recreation voted to keep its explosive "secret" report of the operation of the local public golf courses that way for the momcnt.

The group voted to give the Interior Department "one more chance" before publicizing the controversial report after heated discussion at its last meeting Tuesday.

A compromise measure to wait until its next meeting with the Interior Department, or on April 21 if no meeting is held, finally was passed.

Highly critical of the S. G. Leoffler management, the report has been opposed strongly by Irving C. Root, Interior's superintendent of National Capital Parks. Its principal author, James E. Schwab, insists that it be made public.

Ripley Quits Georgetown For John Carroll Post

By Jack Walsh
Post Reporter

Unexpectedly, Georgetown was shopping for a new basketball coach yesterday.

Elmer Ripley terminated a 10-season Hoya career that began in 1927. He wired his resignation from Cleveland Tuesday. Shortly after, Ripley was named to succeed Norbert Rascher as head coach at John Carroll University there.

Father Robert J. Parsons, S.J., faculty director of athletics, said it was too soon even to consider a successor. Inevitably, a few names promptly were dropped in the hat for him.

Ripley himself said he has recommended two of his former stars. He asked school officials to interview Buddy O'Grady, St. Louis Bomber player who played for him at Georgetown, and Billy Hassett, who was with Rip at Georgetown and at Notre Dame.

Mentioned also was Bob Feerick, stellar captain of the Washington Caps. Known to be interested was George Garber, who filled in so capably for Otts Zahn at George Washington last season while Zahn was ill.

Ripley still had two years to go on his Georgetown contract but made the switch because "John Carroll is going in for big-time basketball."

The 58-year-old confirmed bachelor long has been one of the top figures in basketball. Fittingly, he was born in 1891—the year the court game was invented at Springfield, Mass., by Dr. James Naismith.

Oddly, Rip didn't play the game when he was a student at Brown University. He made up for the lapse when he starred with New York's Original Celtics. He joined the Celtics in 1922, left them in 1924 but returned the following year and remained until 1826.

Ripley started with the Hoyas here in the 1927-28 season and his team turned in a 16-1 record. The following year it lost only 4 of 16 and Ripley promptly was lured away by Yale.

After a tour at the New Haven school, Ripley coached Columbia then returned to Georgetown in 1938. His best team was the 1942-43 club that won the Eastern NCAA title in Madison Square Garden and posted a 21-5 record. Standouts on it included John Mahnken and Billy Hassett.

One of the high spots of his coaching career was the 1945-46 season he had at Notre Dame after Georgetown discontinued basketball fo rthe duration of the war. The Irish won 13 straight that year and lost only 4 of 21 games. Ripley's stars included Hassett, who followed him to South Bend, Vince Boryla and Leo Klier.

Last season was the most disastrous Ripley had at Georgetown. His Hoyas won only nine and lost fifteen. Only 3 victories were posted in their last 15 games.

His over-all record at the Hill top, however, was 137-80 for a .631 percentage.

LaSalle Coach Quits With Brilliant Record

Philadelphia, April 13 (AP).—Charlie McGlone today resigned as basketball coach at LaSalle College after compiling a 3-year records of 61 victories and 17 defeats.

McGlone told Athletic Director James J. Henry he was resigning because of the pressure or private business.

Sorry, Doctor, but DiMaggio's Case Is News

Those Testy Remarks Reveal Joe's Worry

By Red Smith
NEW YORK, April 13 (NYHT).

In Baltimore, Joe DiMaggio snapped, "Go fly a kite. Do you think I would tell you if I thought I was through?"

Well, now, there was this doctor and he was talking about the way prominent athletes sometimes suffer at the hands of the press when they are ill or injured. This doctor is a surgeon of high repute who has had a lot of experience treating headline guys, so he knew what he was talking about. Naturally, is attitude is conditioned on his profession; that is, he sees the situation through the eyes of a medical man, not from the viewpoint of the reporter or, for that matter, of the fan, the newspaper reader.

The doctor talked about how a patient can be harassed and worried and depressed by photographers shooting pictures of the guy in a hospital bed with a leg hung up on pulleys, and by reporters asking the will-you-ever-walk-again sort of question. The doctor said much damage was done and why couldn't somebody do something about it.

IT WAS EASY to appreciate the doctor's point. There is in this business, as in all others, a minority of unecessarily clamorous and tactless guys who obviously don't contribute much toward the mental well-being of a fellow who is suffering.

But the doctor couldn't see the newspaper man's side of it, or the public's. He failed to understand that publicity is both the reward and the penalty of public life. It hadn't occurred to him that the reporter has a job to do which is sometimes difficult and unpleasant but which must be done all the same.

The conversation took place while the ball clubs were still working out in Florida and, naturally, the case of Joe DiMaggio came up. What could an honest reporter do about that? Ignore the fact that Joe was in pain? Conceal the fact that he was unable to play in the early exhibition games? Avoid mention of the doubts and fears shared by Joe and everybody else connected with the Yankees?

HERE IS NEWS, far and away the biggest baseball news of the spring, and baseball news is important to a great number of newspaper readers. It would be a bad thing for the club owners and for the earning power of guys like DiMaggio if the public weren't interested.

So the newspaperman on the job has to cover the news. He'll try to avoid sensationalism, but he can't suppress the facts. And the facts are that DiMaggio's troubles were caused by a bone spur on the heel, and that it was such a condition which finished Rogers Hornsby.

Joe's advice to a Baltimore reporter to go fly a kite betrayed the extent to which worry over his condition has worked on his nerves. Earlier in his trip back to Johns Hopkins he had said something about "sadistic peo-

Mr. Ace Coasts to Six-Length Victory in $10,000 Harford 'Cap

Bill Bennings . . .

For one of our unprinted papers I wrote a piece about Jockey Tommy Baker whipping his horse over the head after the finish. This has been a pet peeve with me for years and I'm glad to report that the stewards fined the boy $25 which is good, but not enough in my book. Colonel Govans, the 7-year-old who put the finishing touches on yesterday's $602 daily double, has long been an inconsistent horse. The $60.40 winner was barred at Charles Town so his trainer shipped him here. The veteran caught the soft track he likes and ran off with the opposition. Earl Porter must be added to the long list of former jockeys who have become successful tariners. He's doing a fine job for the Rarco Stable.—BILL.

Harry S. Sharpe, Who Fought 77 Rounds, Dies

St. Louis, April 13 (AP).—Harry S. Sharpe, who won a fabulous fight of 77 rounds in 1893 and established a boxing record that still stands, died today at the age of 78.

On February 5, 1893, Sharpe knocked out Frank Crosby in the seventy-seventh round in a picnic grove at Nameoki, Ill.—for the Missouri lightweight title.

Boxing was illegal at the time. To get away from St. Louis police, who had stopped two previous attempts to have the battle, there was a special train for the occasion on a Sunday afternoon.

Daily Double Pays $602; 55 Tickets

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Havre de Grace, April 14.—Mr. Ace ran like one today, outdistancing three opponents to win the thirty-sixth running of the $10,000 Harford Handicap before 7790 who braved the showers.

William G. Helis' 4-year-old gelded son of Case Ace quickly raced Istan into the ground and at the end had a six-length margin over Oriole, 7-to-1 long shot, Seven League took the show spot, a half length behind Oriole. After the futile early bid, Istan brought up the rear. Mr. Ace paid $3.40.

The winner, ridden by Jimmy Stout, covered the 6 furlongs in a creditable 1:12 over a slow track. Mr. Ace's victory was made easier by the late scratches of Blue Border and In the Rink.

A record daily double for the Maryland season created the early excitement. Surpass and Colonel Govans (12 and 10) were responsible for the winning $602 combination. Fifty-five lucky investors collected.

Surpass, $7.40 to $2, won by a length in the first event, a maiden 2-year-old dash.

It was Colonel Govans which made the principal contribution to the season's top payoff. Riddenby Nick Shuk, Colonel Govans held on to score by a neck over Lovi-Lovi.

Across the board payoff on the game longshot was $60.40, $19 and $8.80.

Another longshot caused the chalk players grief in the seventh event. Bobby Strange held Relious' nose in front to beat out the favored Astral, $1.90 to $1 choice. Relious paid $47.20, $15 and $7.20 across the board.

Giants Slug Gromek, Wallop Indians, 16-6

New York Scores 10 in 2d Inning

Knoxville, Tenn., April 13 (AP).—The New York Giants figuratively murdered Steve Gromek today as they pounded out a 16-to-6 victory over the World Champion Cleveland Indians.

Gromek's right-handed offerings were pasted for eight hits, including hour home runs, in the second inning. Before Mike Garcia warmed up and came to the rescue the Giants had scored 10 runs.

The Indians pecked away at Sheldon Jones, the Giants' starting hurler, getting six runs in the first five innings.

Chandler, American League Heads Discuss Player Suits

Chicago, April 13 (AP).—The American League today conferred with Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler on player suits against organized baseball, but the discussions were kept secret.

Chandler and his counsel met for nearly three hours with 13 American loop officials at the commissioner's suite in the Blackstone Hotel.

Afterwards, the group posed willingly for news pictures, but were mum on what had been said about current litigation against the major leagues. A similar meeting had been held last Friday among National League representatives at Cincinnati.

Chandler, however, said there would be no joint meeting between the two leagues on the same subject which previously had been expected.

"I have discussed various phases of the litigation now with both leagues and there will be no further conferences along those lines," the commissioner said.

Organized baseball must file answer in New York on April 25 to a suit by Max Lanier and Fred Martin, former St. Louis Cardinal pitchers, for $2,500,000 damages. The two former Cardinals were suspended for five years because they jumped to the Mexican League in 1946.

Gardella, former New York Giant outfielder, has a suit for $300,000 pending, also based on his suspension for joining the Mexican loop. Gardella also has challenged the constitutionality of baseball's reserve clause.

The commissioner's delegation at the meeting included his counsel, Judge John Lord O'Brian of Washington and the latter's partner, Graham Claytor, and assistant Commissioner Walt Mulbry.

The American League executive staff was represented by League President Will Harridge, and three league attorneys, Ben Fiery, Joseph C. Hostetler and Ray Jackson, all of Cleveland.

The club representatives included Ray Mack, Philadelphia vice president; Edward Eynon, Washington secretary; Thomas A. Yawkey, Boston owner; Bill Veeck, Cleveland president; Vice President Charles Comiskey and General Manager Frank Lane of Chicago; William O. De Witt, St. Louis president; J. Arthur Friedlund, New York secretary; and General Manager Billy Evans of Detroit.

West Fights At Turner's

"Sonny Boy" West, the District lightweight crown holder, will trade punches with Detroit's Talmadge "Buzz" Bussey in the 10-round headliner of next Monday night's boxing show at the Joe Turner Arena, which is the last of the indoor season.

The highly praised Bussey, who dropped only three bouts during the 1948 season, will be making his first visit this far East.

The Michigan scrapper has battled champion Ike Williams and featherweight titleholder Willie Pep. He has also beaten among others Jim Robinson, Chet Martin, Harry Hart, Jesse Underwood, Al Jordan, and Wray Carter.

West, whom the National Boxing Association recently called the world's fifth top lightweight, in his last bout at Turner's dropped a close but thrilling battle with Doug Ratford, New York star. In spite of the loss, however, the local boy, who has won 35 out of his 39 pro matches, lost none of his prestige or his wild throng of fans.

National, Alexandria Skaters to Race

John Duval, newly appointed roller skating professional at the Alexandria Arena, will direct the speed skating team of that arena into action against the National Arena's speedsters at the Alexandria rink tomorrow night.

Duval, 22, is former national and Maryland State dance skating champion from Baltimore, where he originally served as roller skating pro at Carlin's Park Arena. National Arena holds a 2-1 match edge over Alexandria in the competition involving these rinks to date.

Willard Laws Wins Figure Skating Cup

Willard L. Laws, jr., 4315 Fourth st. nw., yesterday won the Washington Figure Skating Club adult beginner championship, first of its kind ever sponsored in the United States.

Willard will retain the Edith Johnson Memorial Trophy for a year. The contest was established to give beginners incentive to improve their skating. Muriel H. Parry, 4820 Reno rd., was second and Robert T. Rudy, 720 Webster st. nw., third.

Stone Age Doubtful

New York, April 13 (AP).—Stone Age, owned by Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, today was put in the doubtful class for the Kentucky Derby. The stable announced he definitely would not start in the Wood Memorial, New York's top Derby test.

Yanks Lose DiMaggio

cialist, examined him Monday. At that time, Dr. Girard described the trouble as a "hot condition"—an irritation which requires rest, X-rays and inoculations.

Dr. Girard said the $100,000-a-year star would be here about 10 days.

DiMaggio has been plagued by injuries and other physical ailments during most of his career. He has made five trips to Johns Hopkins in the last two years.

Apparently he will not be on hand for the opening of the season next Tuesday. This would make the eighth different year that ailments have kept him out of opening games with the Yanks.

Di Maggio has spent almost as much time in hospitals as on the ball fields since he came to the major leagues. He's had some "misery" every year since he joined the Yankees in 1936.

His medical record is as impressive as his hitting — knee trouble, eye trouble, stomach trouble, tonsillitis, Army trouble and heel trouble.

3 Operations In Year

He had a bone spur removed from his left heel after the 1946 season and when the incision left an opep sore which refused to mend Dr. Bennett ordered a skin-grafting operation.

He was back at the end of the 1947 season to have bone chips removed from his throwing arm. Then he returned last November for the operation on his right heel.

The assortment of ailments has kept him out of opening games with the Yankees seven different years.

Interhigh Play Begins Today

Five games are scheduled for the opening of the interhigh baseball season this afternoon. This is the first year in the interhigh setup for two teams, Bell and Chamberlain. All games are at 3:30.

Last year's championship team, Coolidge, will open its title defense against Eastern, winner of the round-robin series last year, at Eastern. Wilson will journey to Anacostia, last year's finalist. Bell will play at Western; Roosevelt at Central, and Chamberlain at Tech.

Eastern is probably the team hardest hit by last year's graduation, losing 10 of their lettermen; Anacostia lost its top flight keystone combination of George Sengstack and Leo Kershbaum. Coolidge has only two of its first team returning while Woodrow Wilson has four. Central and Roosevelt are both weak on the mound.

Moon Makes News In 'Black Eclipse'

New York, April 13 (AP).—The moon made astronomical history last night.

It disappeared—for an hour.

Scientists said the "black eclipse" was the first one here in more than 100 years.

The solar spectacle was piped into thousands of homes and bars via television.

The last "black Eclipse" was in 1844, Hayden Planetarium said. There have been several full eclipses of the moon since then, the last one in 1945.

In a normal eclipse the moon retains a dull glow from sun rays that bounce from the earth's atmosphere, the planetarium said.

Oil Tanker Burns After Head-on Collision

DELAWARE BAY FIRE—Water is played by a fire boat on the burning 13,000-ton oil tanker, Pennsylvania Sun, which caught fire yesterday when it crashed with a freighter in a dense fog near Marcus Hook, Pa. A 90-foot hole was turn in the bow of the tanker. Ten feet of deck were ripped from the 7607-ton freighter, American Attorney. There were no casualties although fires aboard the two ships raged for nearly half a day

Fay's Gambling Phone Charge Challenged

mentary and testimonial evidence that:

1. Miller was a known gambler. Under oath Miller admitted that his sole occupation was "following the horses at tracks all over the country."

2. That Miller had registered for the draft as a "bettor on sporting events."

3. That in his income tax returns for 1946-1948, Miller had listed his occupation as either "broker" or "none," and that he had listed his sole source of income, amounting to more than $6000, as "commissions."

4. That Miller had applied for additional telephone service on the grounds such service was needed to establish a medical clinic. Miller's house was small, the Government claimed, and could not possibly serve as a clinic. The doctor who requested the telephone service at Miller's home was Max Schwartz, an accused gambler, who has told police he gave up medical practice because he could make more money gambling.

Long Distance Calls

5. That Miller made many long distance calls to known gamblers, in Baltimore, Milwaukee, New Jersey, New York, and elsewhere.

6. That Miller rented, under the name of Jack Levy, a building at 3801 Nicholson ave., Hyattsville, Md., where a racing teletype was located.

O'Donoghue admitted he had no evidence that Miller's telephone was ever used to make a horse bet.

Immediately after that admission, Ehrlich rested his case.

Previously he had questioned Fay, who is codefendant with the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. of Baltimore City, Dudley Woolfe, Hyattsville manager of the telephone company, and Samuel K. Abrams, an assistant United States attorney.

Miller Questioned

Miller was the first witness called by the Government. For more than two hours he was examined by O'Donoghue, often taking refuge behind his constitutional privilege to refuse to answer on the grounds that he might incriminate himself.

He is not one of the 34 accused gamblers indicted last Friday by a special gambling grand jury, but is involved only in this civil proceeding.

Miller first said that his occupation was "used car dealer," but under close questioning admitted he was not licensed as such, and had bought only two cars in "three or four" years."

Admissibility of income tax returns in evidence caused a legal harangue between counsel for the Government and the plaintiff, settled only after the noon recess. Pine ruled that returns were admissible when they had been requested from the Bureau of Internal Revenue by a United States attorney. Fay's office had requested Miller's returns.

Gordon Sadur, 1406 G st. nw., the accountant who prepared Miller's income tax returns, also testified as a Government witness. He said miller had given him only his total income, and had not supported the figures with records of any kind.

Laughlin Testifies

Meanwhile, in Upper Marlboro, Md., where a grand jury is investigating gambling in Prince Georges County, James J. Laughlin and Mrs. Anna Kelleher each testified for two hours.

Mrs. Kelleher is the wife of John B. Black Jack" Kelleher, a convicted gambler, who, she said, was a "kingpin bookmaker" with headquarters at 3205 Rhode Island ave., just over the District line. She told the grand jury her opinion of how gamblers operated in Prince Georges County, where they operated, who they were, and whom they worked with.

Laughlin, who represented Mrs. Kelleher in her efforts to divorce her husband, said he told the grand jury what he had learned of gambling as a result of defending Mrs. Kelleher.

Laughlin declared that, according to his information, the Rhode Island ave. address was open for business "until a week ago last Monday." "I know it was open all during the divorce trial last winter," he said.

Laughlin was subpenaed to appear before the grand jury again Monday, and to bring all the letters he said he had received complaining about Prince Georges County gambling.

Charges Dropped

U. S. Commissioner Cyril S. Lawrence Tuesday dismissed charges against five men charged with gambling as a result of raids made last month.

The Government requested the dismissals on the grounds that Lawrence had lost jurisdiction, because the five had been indicted for gambling offenses by a grand jury.

Garner S. Barner, John and William Quinn, Thomas B. White and George Plummer posted new $1500 bonds in District Court, where they will be arraigned today.

Independent Offices Appropriation Cuts Would Fire Thousands

Thousands of Federal employes in more than 20 agencies would be fired in the independent offices appropriation bill reported to the House Monday by its appropriations committee.

The bill was cut 671 million dollars, or about 10 per cent. There are few agencies covered by the more than seven-billion-dollar bill that would escape a reduction in personnel. This is a rundown of the major personnel shifts proposed in the bill:

VA: This agency would have to lay off upward of 9000 employes, as $28,223,060 was cut from the money it requested for salaries. The cut would be in addition to reductions in the Veterans' Administration.

The committee directed that no layoffs be made in VA's medical and hospital program. It said administrative costs here were "too high"; that the operating costs of supply depots were "excessive," and it vetoed the opening of additional inspection and special service offices in the field.

CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION was slashed so it would have to drop around 800 employes, of whom several hundred would be in this city. It was given 14 million dollars, $3,520,000 less than it asked.

If it stands, this reduction would affect every single agency that recruits through the commission. The agencies would be required to do more of their own recruiting, examining and selection of workers—a plan the committee said would be more efficient and economical. The Hoover Commission advocated agency hiring under Civil Service standards in its personnel report.

The committee vetoed an Administration proposal that Federal employes and officials in "sensitive" jobs be given an automatic full-field investigations by the FBI. It sought $1,202,400 for transfer to the FBI for that purpose. The President is reported to have personally okayed this type of inquiry. Also, the committee urged the commission to take steps to speed up the firings of inefficient people from Government.

GAO: This agency was given a record cut by the committee. The $3,685,200 slash plus reductions already planned would compel the General Accounting Office to fire around 1000—and at least half of them would be in this city. The committee paid GAO a compliment for its "outstanding work" but it concluded its staff was too large in view of the present overall appropriations.

PERSONNEL EMPLOYES would have to be discharged in nearly every agency. Through committee prodding, the Budget Bureau will limit the agencies to 1 personnel worker for every 103 workers. This "standard" will require the agencies to discharge a total of 2139 employes before July 1. But the committee still isn't satisfied. It ordered the "standard" raised to 1 personnel worker for every 125 people.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION was cut $108,000, which would force it to discharge a few employes. The committee said it's legal and administrative divisions were overstaffed . . . DISPLACED PERSONS COMMISSION was cut $990,000, which will force it to revamp its expansion plans . . . FEDERAL POWER was cut $211,000, which would wipe out about 50 jobs. FPC is now laying off about 40 people . . . INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION was cut $376,100, which would mean the firing of a few employes. The committee vetoed its plan to take over the 49 employes in the Bureau of the OFFICE OF DEFENSE TRANSPORTATION.

SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION was given a $220,000 cut—a reduction which would force it down to its lowest staff since 1938 . . . NATIONAL ARCHIVES was cut $98,000 which would mean a small layoff . . . SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION was given a slight increase . . . TARIFF COMMISSION was cut $150,000. Another small reduction here . . . NATIONAL ADVISORY COMMITTEE FOR AERONAUTICS was given a whooping $9,900,000 slash which would wipe out its plans to hire 1100 additional employes.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS would have to lay off at least 1000 employes here in its guard, elevator operator, and building maintenance force to absorb its $3,460,000 slash . . . FEDERAL HOUSING ADMINISTRATION was given a cut of $639,250 which the committee ordered applied to its staff here. That would mean a lay off of about 200 here . . . PUBLIC HOUSING ADMINISTRATION was given a 10 per cent cut here and 5 per cent in its field staff . . . MARITIME would have to reduce its staff about 12 per cent, and SELECTIVE SERVICE would have several thousand jobs wiped out by a $7,700,000 slash.

The committee ordered the salaries of commission members raised from $10,000 to $12,000.

Friday Is Deadline For D. C. Income Taxes

Friday is the deadline for filing District income tax returns, taxpayers were reminded yesterday by District tax officials.

Half of the income tax payment is due on the filing deadline-day; the other half will be due by October 15. All persons residing or domiciled in the District are required to file returns, except those earning less than $1,000.

Forms may be obtained and payment made at the District Building, 14th and E sts. nw.

Perez Allowed 2d Degree Plea In Murder Case

Bartender Facing 15 Years to Life in Ambassador Hotel Robbery-Slaying

Crispin Perez, 29, was permitted yesterday in District Court to plead guilty to second-degree murder in the brutal robbery-slaying of Charles J. Hines, 48, of Madison, Wis.

The plea was accepted by Judge Henry A. Schweinhaut and carries a penalty of from 15 years to life imprisonment.

Perez, a part-time bartender, had been indicted on two counts of first-degree murder in the Hines killing. Last week, Judge Edward M. Curran refused to accept a guilty plea to the lesser second-degree charge, saying that Hines' slaying in an Ambassador Hotel room was a "brutal" one.

Curran said he had no objection to the defense attorney, Irvin Goldstein, taking the case before another judge and it came before Schweinhaut on a motion to suppress evidence.

Judge Schweinhaut said he accepted the guilty plea because:

The Government admitted that Perez's mentality was perhaps too low to permit him to form the premeditation necessary for first-degree murder.

The evidence that the murder was committed in the perpetration of a robbery was scant. It was indicated that Perez did not form the intent to rob Hines until after he was killed.

The judge said he believed the Hines family might be subjected to some "embarrassment" if the first-degree trial were held, adding, "I read the complete file on the case last night and gave it thorough consideration. I do not believe a first-degree verdict would have been returned in any event."

D. C. Bar Told President Is Not Real Boss

The most striking thing discovered by the Hoover Commission is that "the President is not boss of the executive branch" of the Government, James H. Rowe, jr., commission member, told a meeting of the District Bar Association here last night.

"In constitutional theory he is, and as lawyers and political scientists we talk of him as boss," Rowe told the 300 lawyers at the Mayflower, but, he added, when "you get down into this morass of government you find he isn't at all."

As one example of failure to allot proper responsibly to the President, he referred to the Army Corps of Engineers which by statute, he said "works out river-development plans and reports directly to Congress even though the President may disagree with its report."

Also because of the "many civil service restrictions," he said, the President has no "control over personnel," and he "doesn't know where the money goes since he doesn't control accounting."

"We must give authority if we expect to be able to place responsibility," he declared.

Drunk Injured

Court Scores 2 Policemen In Beating

Judge Armond Scott lashed out yesterday at two policemen whom he accused of brutally beating a helpless drunk.

The Municipal Court jurist called the officers a "disgrace to the Police Department." They are Benjamin F. Howze and John C. Ostrom, both of the Second Precinct.

Despite this criticism, Judge Scott said he found it necessary to find guilty of assaulting the officers—by beginning the incident—Eugene Brooks, 39, of 909 O st. nw. But the judge freed the defendant and said:

"He's been punished enough, indeed far out of proportion to his wrong."

Judge Scott leveled his criticism, knowing that since 1939 Brooks has been arrested 25 times for minor offenses and last year received a sentence of nine months in jail for assault, according to police records.

As the evidence in Municipal Court was summarized by the judge, the two officers on March 26 went to a hallway in the 1200 block of 10th st. nw., in response to a call that a drunk was there. They roused Brooks, who was apparently asleep in a chair, and started with him to a scout car. At the door, Brooks pushed Howze through a glass door, smashing the glass.

The policemen said that, to subdue Brooks and maintain the arrest, it was necessary to strike him four or five times, according to the judge's findings.

Brooks, according to hospital records, was taken to Freedmen's Hospital in a "profound unconscious condition," and was sent to Gallinger later as improved. He was released after treatment for head injuries and possible concussion April 11.

Judge Scott declared at the conclusion of the case:

"Here is a case of two officers brutally beating a helpless drunk. I think it is an outrage. The public has no protection under such circumstances against officers armed with guns, blackjacks and billies.

"We have a very fine police department and cases like this are very rare. Officers like these are a disgrace to the force."

Churches Mark Maundy Thursday At Services Today

Maundy or Holy Thursday will be observed at church services today. The day commemorates Christ's washing of the feet of the disciples and the eating of the Last Supper. Easter is on Sunday.

In Catholic churches oil to be used for the sacraments during the coming year will be blessed, and the main altar will be stripped of its covering as a sign of deep mourning. After the mass, the Blessed Sacrament will be carried to the repository altar, which is decorated with flowers, and left there until the mass of the presanctified on Good Friday

Holy Communion services have been scheduled for Holy Thursday at many Protestant churches.

Auto Crash Hurts Fatal To Girl of 17

A 17-year-old Pennsylvania girl died in Suburban Hospital yesterday of injurie suffered in a Sunday traffic accident, and police reported a Washington woman, 69, in a serious condition as a result of another accident.

The dead girl was Juliette Ann Fleck, Youngman, Pa., who was injured at 5:40 p. m., Sunday, on Rockville pike. Police said Miss Fleck was in a car which was hit by a convertible which failed to stop.

Dr. Robert Roy Morris, 33 of Rockville, Md., was taken into custody last night by Sergt. Leo C. Day on Wisconsin ave. in Bethesda, on the basis of a description of the striking vehicle broadcast by police.

Dr. Morris was charged with manslaughter, hit-run driving and leaving the scene of an accident without making proper identification, police said.

In serious condition at Emergency Hospittal is Mrs. Rebecca Webb of 788 Irving st. nw. Police said she has a fractured right leg and possible hip and pelvis fractures. The woman was struck at 10:30 a. m. by an automobile operated by Frank A. Bargas, 43, of 6202 6th pl., Riverdale, Md.

The accident occurred at 9th and I sts. nw. Police have charged Bargas with failure to yield the right of way.

Other accidents yesterday sent five other persons to the hospital.

Mrs. Charlene Suarez, 35, of 7139 Georgia ave. nw., and Robert W. Rocehill, 25, of Knoxville, Tenn., were in Montgomery County General Hospital after their cars collided at Colesville rd., Ashton, at 7 a. m. yesterday. Mrs. Suarez, a laboratory nurse at the hospital, is being treated for a possible fractured back. Rocehill was treated for a cut on the left eye.

Ronald Wilkins, 7, of 3119 28th st. se., suffered lacerations and contusions when he was struck by a car which police said was operated by Esther Snyder, 23, of 2 Forrest st. se. The accident occurred at 9:07 a.m. at Good Hope rd. and 14th st. se.

John Franklin, 27, of 1419 S. Capitol st. and Phillip F. Brooks, 70, of Seat Pleasant, Md., were taken to Gallinger Hospital following a collision of their cars at 7:50 a. m. yesterday at Fourth and C sts. sw. Franklin sustained injuries to both knees. Brooks was treated for shock.

A freak accident, in which no one was injured, yesterday cost somebody 30 dozen eggs. It happened at Fifth and K sts. nw. at 2:20 p. m., when Dennis W. Flanders, 19, of 5705 Grant st. ne., driving a motorcycle, collided with an automobile operated by James J. Sexton, 43, of Pelham, N. Y. and the motorcycle knocked over a pushcart containing the eggs.

For Theater Man

Chorus Line Minors Cause Fine of $50

Bernie Faber, 50, house manager of the Gayety Theater, was fined $50 Tuesday, April 12, on a charge of employing two minors in the chorus line.

The fine was imposed by Judge Nadine L. Gallagher in Juvenile Court, after prosecution by Assistant Corporation Counsel Richard Barton.

The charge was "employing juveniles without work permits." The girls involved were sisters, ages 16 and 17.

Barton quoted Faber as testifying that he employed the girls last February after their mother pleaded with him to do so. He said that the mother said she was in financial straits and knew that chorus girls' pay was good, according to Barton.

The mother extracted a pledge, which Faber said he kept, to treat the girls like a father. He was quoted as saying he made certain that men stayed away from the dressing rooms and that the quarters in the theater were kept warm.

The girls went through their paces, three shows a day, for a three-week period in February before a routine check by police disclosed their age.

House Passes Bill to Speed Greenbelt Sale

The House yesterday passed and sent to the Senate a measure designed to expedite Government sale of Greenbelt and the two other "Green" towns.

The bill, sponsored by Representative Lansdale G. Sasscer (D., Md.), authorizes the Public Buildings administrator to dispose of the three towns by negotiated sale, with nonprofit veteran and mutual ownership groups receiving first preference.

The measure also insures that veteran and nonveteran tenants will be given equal opportunity to participate in any cooperative purchase of the projects.

Last month Greenbelt town officials and tenant spokesmen testified before the Senate Banking Committee in favor of a similar bill.

While most Greenbelt residents have consistently opposed sale of their town to private ownership, they are backing this legislation guaranteeing them a first option. They gave their support, they said, only because the Government already had announced its plan to eventually sell out.

The House-passed measure would prevent real estate speculators from getting the jump on them, Greenbelt witnesses have told congressional committees.

The nearby experimental town, developed in the early 1930's now houses more than 1800 families.

The Greenbelt Mutual Home Ownership Corp. with a membership of more than 1100 is still in the preliminary stages of raising funds.

The total investment of the Government in Greenbelt and the other two towns—Greendale, Wis. and Greenhills, Ohio—stands at $40,791,300.

District auto tags for 1950 will be yellow on a black background the Commissioners decided Tuesday. The city shelved a proposal for a three-color special sesquicentennial license plate as impractical because of production difficulties.

Senate Approves $5-Million Fund For White House

House Expected To Act Today on Money for New Courthouse, GAO

A $5,400,000 fund for remodeling the White House was approved by the Senate last night as part of the 542-million-dollar first deficiency bill.

The White House building appropriation was not included in the bill when the House passed it. As a result it is one of the items of difference which must be settled in conference. The money bill passed the Senate by a voice vote.

Money for two other major Washington building projects is slated for House action today—five million dollars for starting construction of the new Federal Courts Building at 3d st. and Constitution ave. nw., and five million dollars for the new General Accounting Office Building at 5th and G sts. nw.

Reverse for Slum Clearance

These amounts were recommended by the House Appropriations Committee as part of the independent offices appropriation bill. The committee, however, gave the city's long-delayed slum clearance and redevelopment program another setback. It refused $53,000 for the National Capital Park and Planning Commission to survey blighted areas, but gave $20,000 for the commission to print its comprehensive Washington plan, set as a first step in the slum program.

The bill also carries $197,000 for NCPPC to buy District land for recreation, and $498,000 to buy land in Maryland. Also included is $34,410 for National Capital Housing Authority operations.

White House Bill Likely to Pass

Leaders in both Houses have indicated probable final approval for the White House building fund. Earlier action has made sure that Congress would have a voice in deciding how the job is to be done. This was given by a bill, which cleared Congress Monday, setting up a six-member commission to supervise the White House remodeling job. Two of its members would be from the House, two from the Senate and two named by the President. The President proposed the commission plan.

GAO Cost Limit Raised

Senate approval of the deficiency money bill also carried these actions:

1. An increase in the limit of cost for the new General Accounting Office Building was approved. It was boosted from $22,850,000 to $25,400,000.

2. Final approval was given to a $2,274,500 fund for remodeling the House chamber and putting a new roof over it. With both houses having approved the fund, it is not subject to further change in conference.

3. The Senate agreed with the House in refusing to grant money for the proposed new $11,500,000 census building in Suitland, Md.

Senate Votes 11 D. C. Bills

While this week's scheduled House District day was postponed to April 25, the Senate approved and sent to the House 11 District bills. They would:

1. Tighten present laws for making fathers of illegitimate children help pay for their support.
2. Provide a family allowance and simplified procedure in settling small estates.
3. Authorize the courts to allow up to $1000, in place of the present $600, from a deceased person's estate to pay funeral expenses.
4. Let a deceased person's estate be settled by his personal representative six months after he qualifies with the court.
5. Require court appointment of an attorney to defend uncontested annulment cases.
6. Strengthen enforcement of court orders for payment of temporary and permanent maintenance.
7. Permit personal service of legal papers outside the District in uncontested will cases here.
8. Label a suit for divorce a "complaint" rather than "petition."
9. Provide for service of legal papers on District agents or officers of nonresident firms.
10. Permit legal service by publication in annulment cases.
11. Fix a one-year period for filing a caveat, or notice of contest, to a will.

Senator Millard E. Tydings (D., Md.) blocked immedate Senate action on a bill to permit payment of up to $25 a day to lawyers assigned by the District Court to defend indigent persons in criminal cases. He indicated he would agree to a revised bill for $20 payments, in line with a recommended bill for similar payments to lawyers in other Federal courts.

Senator Harry F. Byrd (D., Va.) also delayed Senate action on a bill to permit revising the charter of the Washington Gas Light Co. He said he acted at the request of Arlington County officials who sought a chance to give the bill more study.

Senate Group Approves D. C. Revenue Bill

The proposed District revenue bill—featuring a 2 per cent sales tax—should serve the city's fiscal needs "without major change for some years to come," the Senate has been told.

That was the concluding thought of the Senate District Committee's report filed in the Senate late Tuesday, April 12. The report accompanied the $17,750,000 revenue measure which the District Committee approved by 7-4 vote.

Senator Lester C. Hunt, (D. Wyo.), District Fiscal Subcommittee chairman, sent the report to the Senate floor.

The sales tax bill is designed to permit restoration of the $4,500,000 pruned from the budget by the House and pay for $330 retroactive salary boosts for District employes.

In support of the central sales tax feature of the revenue bill, the committee report commented:

"It is believed that the imposition of a sales tax such as the one provided in this bill, with its liberal exemptions, would not work as much hardship on persons in low income brackets as would a substantial increase in the rates on property."

The tax bill boosts the real estate levy from $2 to $2.15 per hundred dollar value.

In order to raise $13,500,000, as does the sales tax alone, the committee argued, "property taxes would have to go to $2.85 per hundred."

For Appraisal

Girls Bring Dad's Music To Truman

Two young sisters—ages 14 and 4—came to Washington yesterday to get a critical appraisal of their father's musical compositions from President Truman.

White House police were more than a little startled when the pair stepped from the drizzling overcast, approached the west gate of the White House and asked to see President Truman.

Police took the children under the shelter of the portico, where the older one identified herself as Dorothy Hoover of Cumberland, Md. The name of the younger girl is Sue.

Dorothy explained that her father is normally employed at a plant in Cumberland but currently is on furlough. She had with her a brown manila envelope containing music composed by her father.

"He's never been able to get anyone important to listen to it," she added.

Dorothy said she and Sue had left Cumberland for Washington by train at 5 a. m. yesterday. She had saved the money which financed the trip, she said. She still had $28 left.

The children were turned over to the Metropolitan Police Women's Bureau and Cumberland police were contacted and asked to notify the father.

Dorothy and Sue were returned by train to Cumberland last night—still without the critical advice of that well known pianist, Harry S. Truman.

Six German Police Officials Study Methods Here

Officers From U. S. Zone Cities Surprised At Idea That Policeman Is Citizen's Friend

Alfred E. Lewis
Post Reporter

Six police officials from cities in the American zones of Germany have been conferring with the Washington police for the past two days, to study our police methods and form of government.

Under the sponsorship of the American Military Government in Germany's "Cultural Exchange Program," they visited with police departments in 11 United States cities since their arrival in this country on March 6.

Accompanying the officials is James L. McCraw, deputy chief of public safety of the Military Government in the United States Zone. McCraw said that under the exchange program, German educators, religious leaders, public health officials, burgomeisters, labor leaders and news editors already have studied American methods.

The police heads, McCraw said, were selected by the German people. He said that all of them had been policemen before the war, but some of them had been expelled by the Nazis because they were "politically unreliable." Others served in the German army, but passed denazification tests.

The visiting officials are Herbert A. Becker, police president of the city of Wiesbaden; Ernst Binder, adjutant to the president of Bavarian rural police; Eric Ehlert, oberinspector of uniform police, United States sector, Berlin; Oskar E. Riester, chief of police, Mannheim; Ludwig A. Weitmann, vice president of police of Munich and Franz Noch, chief of police, Bremen.

Riester, who speaks English more fluently than the others, said they were impressed by Americans' lack of fear of police. "The idea that the policemen is a friend, is alien to the German people," Riester said.

Greatest problem in policing now, Riester said, was in the steady flow of refugees to the American zone where housing already is inadequate, and looting is rampant.

Juvenile thievery is another problem, blamed on the war. Poor street lighting and shortage of modern equipment has hampered efficient police work, Riester said.

One of the things the Germans want to do when they get back is end the practice of arresting suspects on investigation charges and holding them for long periods of time.

The present laws, McCraw said, provide that a person can be arrested as a suspect and taken before a magistrate, who would hold him for investigation for 30 days. The suspect is entitled to another hearing every 30 days but in most cases the same magistrate hears the case and there have been cases where a person has been held for as long as six months without trial.

German police also make "preventative" arrests" of known criminals and keep arresting them for investigation every time they see them, holding them for long periods until they agree to leave the jurisdiction or are forced to.

The Germans yesterday morning toured Municipal, District and Juvenile Courts. In the afternoon they had a roundtable discussion with Metropolitan Police officials.

A visit today and tomorrow to the Federal Bureau of Investigation will conclude their American visit. They expect to be back on their jobs by May 10. A similar group from Austria under the sponsorship of the International Association of Police Chiefs is expected here Monday for a similar program.

Gen. Kerr, 89, Dies; Fought In Indian Wars

Brig. Gen. James T. Kerr, USA (retired), 89, veteran of the Indian Wars, died last night in George Washington University Hospital following a prolonged illness.

General Kerr, who had lived at the Westmoreland Apartments, 2122 California st. nw., for 39 years, followed a military career which spanned 40 years and encompassed four wars.

He saw his first action, after graduating from West Point in 1881, in the Sioux Campaign in South Dakota in 1890 and 1891. He also participated in the campaign at Santiago de Cuba in 1898 and the Philippine Insurrection.

After being retired for disability in 1914 he was recalled to active duty in 1917 and restored to the active list in 1920. During World War I he was assigned to the Adjutant General's Office. He retired in 1922.

General Kerr was awarded the Silver Star twice, for actions in Cuba and the Philippines, and received the Distinguished Service Medal for service in World War I.

An honor graduate of the Infantry and Cavalry School, Fort Leavenworth, Kans., he also served a tour of duty with the General Staff from 1903 to 1907.

A native of Martin's Ferry, Ohio, he married Miss Margaret Eaton, daughter of the late General Joseph H. Eaton, in 1892. Mrs. Kerr survives him.

At the time of his death, General Kerr was commander of the Order of Indian Wars of the United States and president of the Society of the Army of Santiago de Cuba. He was also a member of the Army-Navy Club.

Reinterment Set Today for Col. Winslow

Reburial services for Col. William Randolph Winslow, 43, who died of pneumonia in Luxembourg February 24, 1945, will be held today at 1:30 p. m. at Arlington Cemetery.

Col. Winslow

Col. Winslow, although he was eligible to return to the United States in December, 1944, after 18 months overseas' duty, elected to remain and participated in the Battle of Bulge. During the siege of Bastogne he led his engineer command as infantry soldiers to assist in stemming the enemy's advance.

Going overseas in June, 1943, as commander of the 390th Engineer Regiment, he later served on the staff of Gen. Troy Middleton as Eighth Corps engineer. He saw action in the French invasion, the captures of Brest and Cherbourg and the break-through from Coutances to Avranche.

Colonel Winslow was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal posthumously for service rendered in military operations in Europe. He also received the Bronze Star, Croix de Guerre of Luxembourg, Chevalier of the Legion of Honor and Croix de Guerre with Palm of France, and Officer of the Order of Leopold II and Croix de Guerre of Belgium.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Marcella Comes Winslow, a son, John, 10, and a daughter, Mary, 13, all of 3106 P st. nw., and his mother, Mrs. Anne Goodwin Winslow, and a sister, Mrs. Winslow Chapman, both of Memphis, Tenn.

8 Days Apart

Rites Friday For Widow of McDiarmid

Mrs. Alice Root McDiarmid, 72, widow of Col. Norman L. McDiarmid, former superintendent of Columbia Hospital for Women, died Monday, April 11, just eight days after the death of her husband.

Mrs. McDiarmid, who had been in failing health, lapsed into a coma when informed of her husband's death April 3. She remained unconscious most of the time until her death in Columbia Hospital where she had resided with the colonel.

Mrs. McDiarmid, the former Mary Alice Root of Butler County, Ohio, was a nursing graduate of the Miami Valley Hospital in Dayton, Ohio. She and Colonel McDiarmid met while she was nursing at a Dayton hospital of which he was a staff member.

They were married in Dayton October 17, 1906. Funeral services will be held at Gawler's funeral chapel Friday at 11 a. m. She will be buried beside Colonel McDiarmid in Arlington Cemetery.

Surviving are a son, Hugh McDiarmid of Vienna, Va., and a sister, Mrs. William Kiichli of Seattle.

Lieut. Sasser To Be Buried At Arlington

Graveside services for First Lieut. Lewis Sneed Sasser, jr., 27, who was killed in Belgium in World War II, will be held at 1 p.m. today in Arlington Cemetery.

Lieut Sasser

A graduate of Roosevelt High School and the University of North Carolina, Lieutenant Sasser was in training with the Aetna Life Insurance Co. in Hartford, Conn., when he joined the Army in 1941.

He was commissioned a second lieutenant of infantry at Fort Knox in 1942 and assigned to an armored Division. As leader of a tank platoon in the Second Armored Division he took part in the Casablanca landings, the invasion of Sicily and the invasion of Normandy, remaining in continuous action through France, Belgium, Holland and Germany.

He is survived by his wife, who has since remarried, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Sneed Sasser of 5 Woodland ave., Takoma Park, Md., his sister Margaret Louise Sasser, who lives with her parents, and his brother, William G. Sasser, Seattle, Wash.

Funeral services for Sidney G. Bursley, 75, former assistant postmaster at the District post office who died Tuesday, will be held at 2 p. m. today at Joseph Gawler's Sons funeral home, 1750 Pennsylvania ave. nw.

Mr. Bursley

Mr. Bursley was assistant postmaster when he retired five years ago after 51 years' service. His death, at his home at 5130 Connecticut ave. nw., followed a long illness.

He was born near Bangor, Me., coming to Washington at the age of 12. After attending a military school at Winston-Salem, N. C., he returned to Washington and entered the postal service.

He was appointed clerk in the mailing section April 8, 1892, and became a foreman March 15, 1906. He was appointed assistant postmaster on September 1, 1940. He served under 19 postmasters general and 10 postmasters.

Mr. Bursley was active in the District Chess Club. He was a member of All Saints Church, Chevy Chase, D. C.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Mildred Bursley, and a daughter, Mrs. Mildred Rogers, both of 5130 Connecticut ave. nw., and three sons, H. S. Bursley, Ambassador to Honduras; Maj. H. C. Bursley, Fort Bliss, Tex., and Howard Bursley, who works in the District postoffice.

Burial will be in Rock Creek Cemetery.

William W. McCabe

Salisbury, Md., April 13 (AP).—William Whaley McCabe, former Mayor of Ocean City, Md., died in Peninsula General Hospital today from a heart attack.

He served as Mayor of Ocean City from 1925 to 1937.

Since his retirement in 1941, he had been living on his farm near the town. Besides his wife, he is survived by three children, three sisters, and a brother, Thomas B. McCabe, chairman of the Federal Reserve System and president of the Scott Paper Co.

Chase S. Osborn

Poulan, Ga., April 13.—Former Gov. Chase S. Osborn of Michigan, died here Monday of the aftereffects of pneumonia. He was 89. Saturday he had married his adopted daughter in a deathbed ceremony.

Ex-Paratrooper

Civil Service Examiner Kills Self

A 34-year-old Civil Service Commission examiner and former paratrooper killed himself Tuesday, April 12, with a .45-caliber Army automatic.

According to police, the man, Charles Van Diver, a veteran of the 101st Airborne Division, who lived at the Imperial Apartments, 1763 Columbia rd. nw., shot himself shortly before 6:30 p. m.

His body was found by a roommate, George F. St. Lawrence, when he returned from work. Police said the body was lying on a bedroom floor near a wall mirror. The bullet had entered the right temple above the ear. The weapon was lying beside the body.

Van Diver left one note, police said, addressed to three roommates. The note stated his intention to commit suicide, police said, and asked that his body be buried "with my buddies" in Arlington Cemetery.

St. Lawrence said Van Diver experienced prolonged moods of depression that he attributed to his war experiences.

Van Diver is survived by a brother, Lieut. Col. Ray Vandiver, stationed in the Air Force Intelligence Office at the Pentagon, who lives at 708 S. Mill dr., Arlington, Va., and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Van Diver of The Dalles, Oreg.

Van Diver's sister-in-law said he had recently sold his car and sent the money to his parents. Yesterday he went to his office, she said, and cleaned out his desk, telling other employes he was going away and not coming back.

A verdict of suicide was issued by Coroner A. Margruder MacDonald.

You'll be thankful with every tankful

WHEN you first experience the thrilling performance of this husky, 130-Horsepower Packard Eight, you won't even be thinking about such things as gas mileage.

You'll be marveling instead at its soothing smoothness through the entire performance range . . . and at the trigger-quick response of its "safety-sprint" reserve power.

The most pleasant surprise of all comes later, much later—when you've breezed through a few score of restful miles and the fuel-gauge needle seems to be stuck at the "Full" mark!

You'll know then, how Packard's "free-breathing" engine design is writing the year's big thrift news in the fine car field!

Want specific figures? Just take a look at the chart at the right. Compare Packard gas mileage with what you're getting from your present car. Then compare your present car with Packard on horsepower . . . roominess and riding comfort . . . weight and roadability.

Obviously, the man to see is your nearby Packard dealer. And the sooner the thriftier!

ASK THE MAN WHO OWNS ONE

And here's a second pleasant surprise: Penny-accurate service reports—submitted by all Packard dealers—prove that the new Packard Eights are the finest built, most trouble-free cars in Packard's 49 years of precision manufacturing!

GAS-MILEAGE REPORT

Mary Haworth's Mail

Matron Is Worried About Dearest Cousin, 28, Who Won't Relinquish Hope of Marrying Man Who Has Been Giving Her Run-Around for Years

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Three years ago my dearest cousin, Florence, met Fred—who works with my husband—at a party given by us. They liked each other, Fred took her home that evening, and for months thereafter he phoned her constantly and dated her often. It looked like serious interest.

Then out of a clear sky Fred told Florence he enjoyed her company and would like to continue seeing her, but he wanted her to know that a French girl, whom he had met overseas during the war, would be arriving in a few months to marry him. This was a crushing blow to Florence, who was falling in love with him.

After that Fred took her out a few times, then finally didn't bother to call. Towards the end of the summer they met on the street and Fred explained that his French girl had married someone else. I know Florence hoped he would date her again, but it was a year before he called to take her to a movie.

Girl's Mother Worries, Too

AGAIN MONTHS passed and then last week he took her out to Sunday dinner, but brought her home at 5 p. m., saying he had to be in early. Each time he dates Florence he talks of places he has been with other girls and virtually boasts of his conquests.

Florence is now 28 and Fred is 33, and it doesn't look as if he had serious intentions towards anyone. Yet Florence seems confident that he will reward her hopes eventually, and meantime she is indifferent to all other men. Her mother and I have tried to explain that she is wasting time waiting for Fred, but she won't listen to us. What do you think? I foresee heartbreak if she doesn't wake up.

E. P.

True-Believing Makes Miracles

DEAR E. P.: There is a possibility that by steadfast trustful concentration on the thought, or "mental image," Florence may "conjure" Fred into marrying her eventually,—and for more on this subject, you might read Claude Bristol's book, "The Magic of Believing" (Prentice-Hall, Inc., publishers).

However, it is evident that Fred has been consciously resisting that current of thinking so far, when Florence's hope communicates itself to him. And it is my guess that he "invented" the French girl as excuse to break with Florence, after her desire to marry him became reproachfully apparent.

There is no doubt that Florence's steady devotion keeps her "alive" in the depths of Fred's mind, or he wouldn't drift back, after lengthy absence, to see her again. And the fact that he hurriedly shies off again suggests that he knows there is conflict between her purpose and his. But I think it is still a toss-up as to which side will win.

Don't Supervise Girl's Thinking

IN LETTING Florence know how busy he's been with other girls, and how much they think of him, Fred is driving at two things: firstly, he is giving himself a build-up, to keep from feeling small in her company; secondly, he is stressing, "See, I'm not the marrying type; just a rolling stone; bear that in mind," etc.

As husband-material, Fred isn't the best. He is immature, a Peter Pan, emotionally in revolt against the tedium and disciplines of growing up and settling down. But perhaps when he's tired of sampling, if Florence is still waiting—in a placid, comfortable, self reliant sort of way—he may give her the break she's counting on. I am not vowing that he will; but I do suggest that you ought to let Florence do her own thinking in this matter.

Day-Old Bread Is Best For Sandwiches

It's always best to buy day-old bread for sandwiches, according to the General Electric Consumers Institute; but if this is impossible, chill fresh bread well before you use it. There's one exception to this rule: rolled sandwiches require very fresh bread; otherwise, they will break in rolling.

Sewing Tips for Beginners

All those little boys who wouldn't practice their piano lessons and grew up to regret that they couldn't play the piano, must have had little sisters who got bored hemming dishtowels and now wish their mothers had made them learn to sew.

At any rate, a million or so adult women are taking up sewing this year for the first time. For most of them it will be the beginning of a fascinating hobby and a means of keeping well dressed at pin-money cost.

Spring and summer are a fine time to start a sewing project, for then the crop of easy-to-sew cottons and linen-y rayons is plentiful and inexpensive, and simple styles are at their best.

To insure your getting off to a good start in your first creation, sewing experts make these suggestions:

Choose a fabric that's easy to handle, with enough body not to need pampering in achieving a trim look. The various weaves of rayon linen, or cotton broadcloth, are ideal fabrics for the beginner, and not expensive.

Don't start out on prints, stripes or plaids; you have other things on your mind when you're just learning besides trying to match the pattern at seams.

He's Silent on Pact

Turkish Minister, Wife Honored on Visit Here

By Marie McNair

IN WASHINGTON for a short stay but NOT to discuss a Mediterranean pact, the Turkish Foreign Minister and Madame Sadak were honor guests at a reception yesterday at the Turkish Embassy.

Secretary of State and Mrs. Dean Acheson entertained at luncheon on Tuesday in honor of the visitors and that night they dined with the Turkish Ambassador and Madame Erkin at the embassy.

Nedgheddin Sadak, youngish, intellectual looking, stood with his pretty dark-haired wife, and the Ambassador and Madame Erkin in the formal drawing room yesterday as guests made their way up the winding stairway carpeted in deep, richly colored Turkish coverings.

Madame Erkin, one of the handsomest women in the Diplomatic Corps, wore a becoming soft pink silk frock dotted in black and Madame Sadak's gray, white and yellow print was topped with a round flat hat of white feathers.

The newly finished portrait of Madame Erkin by Beran, tucked away on a small table in the corner, escaped few eyes, and brought forth exclamations of delight.

Never was the press more welcome at a party, bringing the news that the pressmen's strike was over. "I've forgotten how to read," said Mrs. Leslie Biffle, then went on to say that she managed to keep her husband, recovering from virus pneumonia, supplied with New York and Baltimore editions.

Gen. Young to Remain

Catching up on the news of the week, I learned that Engineer Commissioner Brig. Gen. Gordon Young will remain in his job, after some speculation that he might be ordered away. That Princess Halim entertained at dinner Tuesday night at the Shoreham with Chip and Evie Robert, Mrs. George Holmes, the Morris Cafritzes, Hugo Gouthier, George Williams and Frank Rediker among her 18 guests.

The Norwegian Ambassador and Mme. Morgenstierne were at the party and I saw the Iranian Ambassador, Hussein Ala, talking with Mrs. George Allen, whose husband, now Assistant Secretary of State, is a former Ambassador to Iran.

As parties go at the Turkish Embassy, the fete yesterday was small. A bar was set up in the center hall, the buffet in the dining room was covered with Turkish specialties such as diminutive meat balls and pastries lighter-than-air. And there were bowls of shrimp and larger bowls of velvet-smooth ice cream.

Mrs. Robert Taft was there in a gay poppy-trimmed red hat; Mrs. Eric Johnston brought her daughter, Harriet, and her guest, Nancy ter Harriet, and her guest, Nancy is a student at Smith.

Adm., Mrs. Denfeld Drop By

The Chief of Naval Operations, Admiral Louis Denfeld, and Mrs. Denfeld in long cocoa-brown lace gown, stopped in on their way to dinner; Representative Dewey Short and Mrs. Short were late arrivals, and others there were Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, wife of the new Undersecretary of Commerce, looking in the pink after a West Indies holiday, and telling me her husband was too busy yesterday to be her beau.

Saw the Syrian Minister, Faiz El-Khouri, Mrs. Robert Whitney Imbrie, wearing her Turkish decoration for relief work following World War I; Mrs. Julian Gillespie who lived in Turkey when the late Mr. Gillespie was attached to our embassy there, and with her daughter, Mrs. Gillespie Critchell, looking prettier and slimmer than I remember.

Mrs. George Thorpe was in the center of a group, and Col. and Mrs. Robert Guggenheim and Mrs. Parker West formed a threesome.

Then there were Mrs. Martin Vogel and Nan Garcia; Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Morris, the Tom Burkes—Anita wearing a becoming off-the-face black hat; Mr. and Mrs. Eldon P. King, former French Premier, Camille Chautemps, and Mme. Chautemps wearing one of her own hats of white straw which waved and rippled over her sleek brown hair.

Francis Hill, was accompanied by good-looking Mrs. Hill, in sheer black; Mrs. Morris Cafritz and Mrs. Emil Hurja were sans husbands, and also there were Mrs. Robert Low Bacon, Miss Carolyn Nash, Mr. and Mrs. James Souby, Mrs. Thomas A. Wadden and her daughter, Edwina, and Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Bretsch.

Australian Embassy Tea Honors Lady Shedden

THE AUSTRALIAN EMBASSY was bright with spring flowers Monday for the tea given by Mrs. Makin, wife of the Ambassador, in honor of Lady Shedden, wife of the Australian Secretary for Defense. Yellow and white snaps filled the entrance hall. Pink flowers were placed about the green drawing room, and on the tea table in the dining room was a fountain circled with hyacinths and daffodils.

Buffets and tea-time snacks at the Australian Embassy are unsurpassed. The embassy still has the Blair House cook, who is temporarily replaced at the Blair House by the White House cook. Everything offered is prepared at the embassy, and brought fresh and crisp directly from the kitchen. At yesterday's party there were delectable little sandwiches and cakes and cookies.

Lady Shedden and the Secretary for Defense arrived in town last Thursday as guests of the Department of Defense and they are stopping at the Shoreham Hotel.

A distinguished group of ladies were invited to the tea. All the wives of members of the staff were there, along with Lady Hoyer Millar, Lady Maitland Wilson, Lady Dalrymple-Hamilton, and Mrs. J. A. Gascoigne.

Also, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, Mrs. Robert Low Bacon, Mrs. Francis Biddle, Mrs. Nelson Johnson, Miss Dorothy Stirling, Mrs. John J. McCloy, Mrs. Stuart Symington, Mrs. Ralph Flounder, Mrs. Harold Burton, Mrs. Leverett Saltonstall, Mrs. Robert E. Lee, 3d, Mrs. Emmet O'Neal, Mrs. John Graham, Mrs. Walter Wyatt, and Mrs. Frank McCoy.

Countess d'Amecourt Is Dinner Hostess

A DINNER was given last evening by the Countess d'Amecourt in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McClintock who are leaving soon for Belgium. Mr. McClintock will be posted at the American Embassy there. Last evening's dinner guests were the Counselor of the Danish Embassy and Mme. Bertelsen, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Tartiere, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Besterman, Baroness Weber, house guest of Countess d'Amecourt; George Baker and Roazka Petrovitz.

Lady Berendsen Entertains for Club

Van Kleffens Give Embassy Dinner

A DINNER was given last evening by the Netherlands Ambassador and Mme. van Kleffens at the embassy. The next big party at the embassy will be a reception on April 30 in celebration of the anniversary of Queen Juliana.

Miss Montfort Feted By Mrs. Alvord

MISS Florence Montfort, who is to be married Easter Monday to James R. Tastet, was the guest in whose honor Mrs. Ellsworth Alvord entertained at a miscellaneous shower yesterday at her home.

Organist Tufts Addresses Zonta Club Luncheon

At its Easter luncheon yesterday at the Dodge Hotel Zonta Club members heard a talk by Bill Tufts, noted Washington organist and husband of the new Zonta president, Mary Poore Tufts.

The speaker, who teaches organ at George Washington University and also serves as organist for the Takoma Park Presbyterian Church, discussed "True and False Easter Music." Mrs. Alice Sheldon, outgoing president, presided.

Decorations for the luncheon, including baskets of Easter flowers, were given later to the Children's Emergency Home of the Central Union Mission.

Mrs. Wesley Emanuel Roos, the former Miss Anna Catherine Karch, was married on April 10 in Carmi, Ill. The Rev. W. A. Robinson performed the ceremony at the First Methodist Church and a reception followed at Carmi Country Club. The bride is the niece of Mrs. H. T. Reiling of this city. Mr. Roos is the son of Mrs. Nathalie C. Roos of Burbank, Calif.

Ackad

Mrs. Herbert Decker, whose marriage took place April 10, is the former Miss Helen M. Becker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Becker of Washington. She wore white satin and carried a white orchid with her Bible. Following their reception the newlyweds left for a honeymoon at Myrtle Beach, S. C. They will reside in Frederick, Md., on their return.

Window Dressing With Paper

Paper draperies look like the real McCoy if you add the right touches, and the March American Home gives a few decorating tricks that will accomplish the effect you want. For a valance of paper drapery, cut to desired width, make pleats about 2½ inches wide with 2½ inches between each pleat, and fasten with Scotch tape. Attach to cornice or curtain pole.

About Using Dried Strawberries for Jam

I have some dried strawberries which I would like to use in making strawberry jam. Could you possibly print a recipe I might use? R. S. B.

Reconstitute the berries by covering them with hot water and letting them stand for two hours. If all the water is absorbed before the two hours are up, add more so that the berries absorb as much water as they will. Now, when they are plump, follow this recipe:

4 cups reconstituted berries, with little juice.
Juice from 2 lemons.
½ bottle commercial pectin.

Put fruit and sugar into a large kettle. Add juice of lemons and mix well. Bring to a full rolling boil over hot fire. Stir constantly, before and while boiling. Boil hard one minute. Remove from fire and stir in pectin. Stir for five minutes and pour into hot glasses. It takes at least 12 hours for this to become completely jelled. Makes 6 to 8 glasses.

In reference to the question sent in by F. B. sometime back asking for a good cookbook to help her learn the "groundwork" of cooking, may I recommend an excellent one for beginners, entitled "How to Cook," by Marjorie Griffin, published by the Hall Publishing Co. There are no recipes in this book, just the "how" of cooking, complete with photographs describing everything from how to prepare an egg to efficient dishwashing.

If F. B. would purchase a copy of this book along with the "Good Housekeeping Cookbook" that you recommended, she would have everything she needed (as regards cookbooks) to learn the basic steps in cooking. S. J. S.

Can you furnish me directions for cleaning and brightening a good quality white milan straw hat? The style or shape is a close fitting toque or cloche, and it does not need re-blocking. Is this a job that can be handled satisfactorily at home? G. C. C.

There really is no safe way to refurbish straw hats effectively at home. As a matter of fact, experienced hat cleaners will not always attempt the job on some straws. From an opinion as to whether your hat will respond favorably to freshening, I suggest you take it to a reliable hat cleaning establishment.

Can you tell me how to remove large greasy stains caused by vaseline being rubbed into a solid color, glazed chintz slipcover? The covers are new and I would like to remove the stains, if possible without washing the entire cover. The stains are several weeks old now. G. C. C.

Place an absorbent pad under the stain between the slip cover and the furniture and sponge with carbon tetrachloride. Move the pad under the stain occasionally to always have a clean surface to absorb the grease as it is driven through the fabric. If the stain is not all removed by the first treatment, repeat.

I will be grateful if you can tell me how to straighten into shape a jersey half slip which was evidently ironed while wet. It is a rather full slip and now hangs as much as 5 inches too long in parts and an inch or two short in parts. R. S.

Wet or wash the slip again, this time allowing it to dry completely. Ironing jersey, wet or dry, often times pulls it out of shape and this type garment is much more satisfactory if worn without ironing.

Perhaps E.E.G., who wrote in about pine paneling, would like to have the benefit of our advice and experience. Clean all dirt and marks off the paneling with a soft rag dipped in industrial alcohol. A few imbedded bruises may have to be sandpapered. Then apply two coats of clear shellac and one coat of flat varnish. The finish is non-shiny like soft satin and retains the natural color of the wood.

Our contractor says that oil and wax are not best in this warm humid climate and easily accumulate dust and dirt. A fresh coat of flat varnish in two or three years is all that is necessary besides an occasional dusting. Our basement room is bright and beautiful with such treatment, and a joy forever. A. P. J.

I have a large metal platter which I would like to convert into a lazy Susan. Is there a shop in this area which does such work or sells the materials necessary for doing it at home? H. L.

I have discussed this with a firm which does metal restoring and repairing, and from the information you have given, their best judgment was that converting a platter into a lazy Susan would not be practical. However, if you wish to discuss it further, I suggest you take the platter to a firm listed under "Platers" in the yellow pages of the telephone book (one of those which also does repairing) for their opinion.

Inquiries and contributions to the "Ask Anne" column must be in written form. We regret that time does not permit handling them by telephone. Address letters or cards to Anne, Room 403, The Washington Post, Washington 4, D. C.

Flowers for a Garden Wedding

For a garden wedding, deck the ruffly rim of an organdy parasol with dainty buds, and have your bridesmaids carry flowers this way, instead of the traditional arm bouquet, suggests the April issue of Charm, the magazine for the business girl.

If the ceremony is to be held with a rose arbor as a backdrop, take an unblocked hat of natural straw, and tack wide ribbons to the crown, Charm suggests. Carry the hat upside down, filled to the brim with fresh flowers

Fashion Consultant Teaches How to Spend Time, Save Money

By Peggy Preston

HOW much does it cost you each time you wear a certain garment? Is it $5 or 5 cents?

Here's the way to figure out the answer to this provocative question, as explained by Phyllis Bell, fashion consultant and shopping adviser. Say you pay $25 for what you consider a beautiful, divine, heavenly, wonderful hat. It is frothy and flower-ridden, and it makes you look like an angel. It can go to a party with the greatest of ease. But how often do you go to a party? Five times a season, at the most? Then, your hat is costing you $5 each time you wear it!

Keep this simple rule in mind when you go shopping for any wardrobe item, and you will soon learn to stop, look—and count—before you make lovely but foolish purchases.

Importance of Prudence

Miss Bell has been handing out advice like this to her students for several years and she finds it one of the surest ways to make women aware of the importance of proper, wise shopping.

Business girls and government workers are the most frequent culprits in matters of this kind, says Miss Bell. This is because they spend neither time nor thought on the problems. They dash into a shop during lunch hour or on Saturday morning and buy the first item that catches their eye. All too often this technique results in a closet full of unrelated colors, fabrics and styles.

An hour of concentrated thought and work with your old wardrobe the night before you go forth on a shopping expedition can save you innumerable costly mistakes, according to Miss Bell.

While students at her school have been receiving instruction in fashion as part of their regular course for several years, Miss Bell recently established a new department which makes this information available to the public in general.

Her Fashion Advisory Service provides for consultation by phone at the cost of only a few dollars per year.

Women unable to cope with the eternal question of what to wear—and when, will find Miss Bell's service a comforting one. Via the telephone she can learn whether her old black satin will do for a certain cocktail party; where to find a purse to match her new shoes and belt; whether black can be worn with brown, and what color accessories will look best with her new green suit.

More complex problems, such as wedding trousseaus or wardrobes for that special cruise or vacation may be planned and discussed by personal consultation. And if personal assistance in shopping is desired that, too, can be provided.

FUN and fellowship prevailed when delegates to the twenty-eighth annual general assembly of the National Society of Daughters of American Colonists gathered for a banquet Tuesday night in the Mayflower Hotel. Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, director of the Mint, (seated at left) chats with Mrs. Thomas Coke Mell, national president (seated right). Mrs. Ross was principal speaker at the event which brought together four of the society's living honorary presidents including (left to right standing) Mrs. Charles D. McCarthy, Mrs. Joseph S. Calfee, Mrs. William F. Stone, and Mrs. Loren E. Rex

DAC Opposes Federal Aid to Education, National Health Insurance, World Government

By Genevieve Reynolds

DELEGATES to the twenty-eighth annual general assembly of the National Society of the Daughters of American Colonists yesterday passed a series of resolutions opposing Federal aid to education, national compulsory health insurance, world government and the present method of teaching American history in the public schools.

Action came at the morning session of the two-day annual conclave, which opened Tuesday and concluded late yesterday afternoon at convention headquarters in the Mayflower Hotel.

The resolution pertaining to American history urged that "true American history be taught in the public schools." The some 73 delegates, 13 alternates, 8 honorary national officers and the 62 State officers present were requested to urge each member of the organization to inform herself "on the great danger of any world government movement."

Delegates also reaffirmed a resolution opposing any and all Federal interference in education; another expressing opposition to any further Federal legislation which would tend to further regimentation and centralized control of government by removal of State control or rights.

"We oppose any legislation on socialized medicine or the so-called national compulsory health insurance," stated the resolution on health insurance.

Reaffirmed was the society's stand calling upon Congress to abolish the Indian Bureau or "investigate the distribution of money already appropriated to raise the living standard of the American Indian." A section of the motion asked that the American Indian be given adequate educational facilities, public health and medical services equal to those of other United States citizens.

Mrs. Rudolph Stoyer, chairman of the resolutions committee, presented the resolutions to the assembly delegates for adoption.

Following reports of State officers at the afternoon session, Capt. William W. Thomas of Marion, Ohio, received a watch for having flown the greatest number of hours in the Berlin Airlift up to January 18. Mrs. Thomas Coke Mell, national president of Atlanta, Ga., who presented the watch on behalf of the society, said that Captain Thomas had flown 227 airlift missions.

By Gene Jones—The Washington Post

MRS. THOMAS COKE MELL of Atlanta, Ga., national president, National Society, Daughters of American Colonists, yesterday presented a handsome watch to Capt. William W. Thomas of Marion, Ohio, (center) for his pilot's rating in the Berlin Airlift. Up to Jan. 18, Captain Thomas had piled up 227 airlift missions. Mrs. Mell (left) offers congratulations while Mrs. Thomas B. Throckmorton, national historian of the Daughters of the American Colonists (right) stands by, her hand on the gift. Presentation took place at the afternoon session yesterday of the national society's two-day convention, which opened Tuesday in the Mayflower Hotel

Officers Elected

Mrs. Gerome Powers of New Jersey was elected national president at the afternoon session yesterday.

The national vice presidents elected include Mrs. Ralph J. Miller of Pennsylvania, Atlantic Coast section; Mrs. Frank G. Trau of Texas, Southern Section; Mrs. Frederick A. Groves of Missouri, Middle West Section; Mrs. George M. Adams of California, Pacific Coast Section.

Midst a Welter of Rumors . . .

Expected Appointment Of ECA Chief in France As Envoy Is 'a Relief'

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

AFTER SO many scares and alarums, the soon-to-be-announced appointment of David Bruce as our Ambassador to France comes as pleasant relief. Rumors had it the important job had been tossed in a somewhat undignified manner from Allen Dulles to Mrs. Roosevelt to other exalted personages, settling at long last on the more obvious choice, ECA Chief in France France Bruce.

David, who is tall, grave, distinguished, has the most appropriate ambassadorial background. He's the younger son of the late Senator Bruce of Maryland. His elder brother, Jim, until recently, was our Ambassador to the Argentine; and his uncle, Howard Bruce is ECA Deputy Administrator.

David has served as member both in the Maryland and the Virginia State Legislatures, and during World War II he headed up the OSS in London, then Paris, and in earlier war years, directed the Red Cross in London.

Trustee of National Gallery

HE WAS first married to Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon's daughter, Ailsa, and helped the Pittsburgh multimillionaire with the mechanics of his wonderful gift to the American people—the National Gallery. He was president of the gallery, preceding the incumbent, Samuel Kress, and is still a trustee.

David, in addition to his many responsibilities has found time to pursue belles letters, authoring a history of American Presidents titled "Revolution to Reconstruction.'

A Truly Beautiful Wife

HIS PRESENT WIFE is one of the few really beautiful women of this generation. Evangeline Bruce is tall, dark, brown eyed, possessor of one of the most aristocratic of profiles. She has a great flair for clothes, for interior decor.

She met David during the war while she was working for the OSS in London. Diplomacy is an old story to her. She's lived all over the world with her father, who was a member of our Diplomatic Corps. After her father's death, her mother married James L. Dodds C.M.G., the present British Ambassador to Peru.

Until last June when he took over the ECA job, David was Assistant Secretary of Commerce. The Bruces have two very small children —a girl and a boy born a year ago last February. They are at the Bruces' farm at Staunton, Va., waiting until David made up his mind whether, come June, he'd resign his foreign job and return home.

Hessler Studios

Mrs. Jack Wendell Rardin, the former Miss Faye Widener, was married last evening at the First Baptist Church. The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Widener of West Plains, Mo., was given in marriage by her brother, Sergt. Mont Widener. She wore white slipper satin and carried white orchids and stephanotis. Following their New York honeymoon the newlyweds will reside in Washington. Mr. Rardin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rardin of Topeka, Kans., is a student at the Georgetown University School of Foreign Service

Rings on Their Fingers

Mrs. Malcolm Alexander Holliday of Charlottesville, Va., announces the engagement of her daughter, Helen Virginia, to Henry Clay Mitchell 2d, son of Dr. and Mrs. Edward Clay Mitchell of Memphis, Tenn. Miss Holliday's father is the late Malcolm Alexander.

The wedding is to take place on May 7 in the University of Virginia Chapel in Charlottsville, Va.

Reamy—Jungkeas

Mr. and Mrs. Judson Reamy of Arlington, Va., announce the engagement of their daughter, June, to Lieut. Robert L. Jungkeas, USN, of Saginaw, Mich. The wedding is to take place May 31 in the chapel at Fort Myer.

Breher—Foley

Miss Geraldine M. Breher will be the June bride of Robert C. Foley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond M. Foley of Washington. Her engagement and approaching marriage is announced by her mother, Mrs. John J. Breher of Martin, N. Dak.

The bride-elect, the daughter of the late J. J. Breher, was graduated from the University of North Dakota, where she was a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority.

Mr. Foley, whose father is administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, is a member of the State Department's foreign service.

Douglas—Hughes

The engagement of Miss Leatrice Ann Douglas to Charles D. Hughes, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Hughes of Chevy Chase, Md., is announced by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Douglas of Irving Manor, Mechanicsburg, Pa., formerly of Washington.

Miss Douglas attended Pennsylvania State College, is now a student nurse at Emergency Hospital, Washington. Mr. Hughes is a student at the University of Maryland, where he is a member of Phi Delta Theta.

Apartment Lease Brings 'Buried' Children to Life

Springfield, Mass., April 13 (AP). "Any kids"? asked a landlord.

The query was put to a Westover Field Soldier, desperately seeking an apartment.

The soldier's wife brushed away a tear.

They got the apartment by paying six months' rent in advance.

Then they drove to the cemetery, picked up their three children, who were in on the ruse, and marched into the apartment.

The landlord objected to the youngsters. The parents brushed him off by waving the rental receipt.

ATTENTION, PLEASE
With 14 solid columns of advertising in yesterday's paper, it is not amazing to me that you overlooked these 2 homes. Please don't do yourself the injustice of doing it again, because they mean what they say.
SUPERLATIVE HOME
Personality of its own, atmosphere you'll enjoy, and location second to none from a standpoint of convenience are all included in this exquisite 5-rm. home. Such features as entrance foyer with guest closet, the placement of light fixtures, large liv. rm. with fireplace, huge bedrm., with ample closet space, French tiled bath, 2 1st fl. entrances and a profusion of plantings insure delightful living. Detached garage; gas h.-w. h. Charm is here offered at no premium because the basic home is worth the price of only $16,500.
KEYNOTES
Are charm and the "at home" feeling you seek so earnestly. The setting is high, insuring cool summer breezes, and the stately old trees add to the general loveliness; 7 rms., 4 down and 3 up, plus a tiled bath and full bsmt. provide sufficient space for gracious living. Entrance hall with gentle stair, lovely clear oak floors, lge. kit. and huge bedrms. with lge. closets assure your pleasure and comfort. Apple orchard, grape arbors, lge. outbuildings, and lovely lawn occupy only a portion of this acre. City conveniences in a suburban atmosphere will appeal to many (the squirrels stay, too). One Little Letter

One little letter in the mail
. . . From in or out of town . . .
May move the world in which I live . . . And turn it upside down . . . It may be for the better or . . . It may be for the worse . . . In terms of friendly greeting or . . . In phrases cold and terse . . . Perhaps it brings some money from . . . An unexpected source . . . Or threatens me with tragedy . . . By legal means or force . . . But whether it is news from home . . . Or just another ad . . . I wonder and I worry if . . . The words are good or bad . . . And that is why I hesitate . . . To slit the envelope . . . And struggle with the fears that seem . . . To challenge every hope.

U. S. and Paraguay Resume Relations

The State Department yesterday announced the resumption of "normal diplomatic relations" with Paraguay.

Its statement said United States Ambassador Fletcher Warren handed the Paraguayan Foreign Minister in Asuncion a note recognizing Felipe Molas Lopez as Paraguay's new president. Relations were interrupted on January 30.

Child With Match Sets Million-Dollar Fire

Cebu City, Philippines (Thursday), April 14 (AP).—A child with a flaming match touched off a million-dollar fire here yesterday. Six persons were reported missing.

The Philippine Red Cross estimated 1200 houses were destroyed as the fire raged for four hours through an area covering more than 10 city blocks. Authorities said probably 8000 persons were made homeless.

Catching Up on Comic News

Even as their fans, comic strip characters continued to experience their joys and sorrows, loves and hates during the two-day newspaper strike.

So, to bring you up to date, here is what happened to your favorites Tuesday and Wednesday mornings:

Mark Trail

Mark and Johnny are still on the trail of the ghost wolf pack. Mark says he intends to look for wolf tracks the next morning. Johnny remarks, "You forget, my friend', ghost don't make track."

But Johnny is wrong. The tracks are almost obscured by the snow but Mark is certain they were made by wolves. But he is puzzled. "They've killed many caribou," he muses, "but haven't eaten anything. That's strange, very strange."

Mary Worth

Nancy is still away and Margo and Tom are still out together. The artist completes his sketch of Margo and adds the dedication, "To a beautiful lady made even more so by the lovelight in her eyes." Margo suggests they go home.

Near her home, Margo tells Tom, "Well . . . Nancy will be home tomorrow . . . and I—I want to tell you it's been fun, Tom." He agrees and then notices a light has been left burning on the steam shovel. Margo starts into the excavation pit with him and loses her balance. Will she land in Tom's arms?

Steve Canyon

Reed races back to the castle when he finds that "Snow Flower" is missing. He reasons that she is probably trying to save her father from the rebels. As he starts into a room, he sees she has been captured by three rebel soldiers. One is gloating. "It is the daughter of the High Rokk—for her capture there will be a huge prize."

Reed has an idea. Suddenly a terrifying apparition moves into the room. A fantastic mask peers over a moving curtain. Reed is pushing the assembly. The rebels fire but their bullets only rip through the curtain.

Joe Palooka

Joe departs by plane for South America to search for Dr. Tony Hunter who is lost in the jungle. Ann and Knobby bid him farewell. "Come back soon . . . I love you," Ann says tenderly. "I promise I will, darling," Joe tells her.

Aboard the plane a Mr. Vieira of Brazil, introduces himself to Joe. He tells Joe the wilderness in which Tony is lost is "very dangerous and unexplored country." He adds, "Some of the Indians are very bad actors . . . and further up in the Mato Grosso . . . well, I wouldn't care to venture there." The plane arrives at Port of Spain, Trinidad.

Mickey Finn

Phil waits in his hotel room for Red to visit him. Clancy goes off to a movie so Phil can see Red alone. Before going to Phil's room, Red remarks in the dining room, "I don't like anybody checking up on me."

"Okay," he tells Phil, "so I haven't been trying. And the sooner they send me home the better." He says he can "outhit any of these guys" and doesn't have to waste a couple of years in the sticks. He says he can make "good dough' playing semi-pro baseball back home. Has he heard from home since he left, Phil asks. No. Phil tells him to sit down and says, "I'm going to tell you about a wonderful thing that's happened up there—and all on account of you."

Penny

Father remarks that the world today has gone too far from the simplicity of the past. Then, he tells Penny, people grew their own food, made their own clothes, provided their own entertainment. But it sounds complicated to Penny. "I mean, she says, "what is as simple as just pressing an electric button and zing, everything's done."

Father complains that one of his golf clubs doesn't seem to have its old zing. Nonsense, says Penny. She tells him, "If it will hammer a perfectly huge iron bolt into the frame of Doodie's jalopy, it's strong enough to hit a little old rubber ball."

Dotty

Horace shouts to Dotty for a towel. She tells him he'll have to use the little guest towels. He tries one and moans, "Fooey, it's like using a postage stamp." He gathers up all of the guest towels to dry his face.

Horace asks Taffy and Wilbert if they have any questions to ask or need help with their homework. They don't. He asks Dotty if she has any gossip to impart. She hasn't. But she wonders why he asked. Horace sits down, cracks open a mystery and explains, "I just don't want to be interrupted in the middle of this mystery story."

The Saint

The Saint, Diana and Colonel Wrenn go off on their ride without Rex Martin. Rex is back at Wrenn Manor on the telephone saying, "Beefy? . . . This is Rex Martin. Listen, can you find me two or three guys . . .?"

"You know what I mean, Beefy," Rex continues. "They've got to look like tough characters . . . and they've got to be just as tough as I tell 'em to." Beefy, an ugly-looking character in a pool room, promises, "Why sure, Rex, I can put my hands on two-t'ree guys like you want any time."

Drastic Action Is Threatened In London Strike

London, April 13 (AP).—The government threatened drastic action tonight to end a London dockworkers' strike that has crippled London shipping.

The government sent troops to unload perishable foods during a dock strike last year. Labor Minister George Isaacs, who gave the warning in a broadcast tonight, did not say exactly what the government planned to do this time.

He said the workers had been "hoodwinked into irresponsible actions."

The ranks of the strikers were split when 1300 voted to return to work.

The men were members of the Transport and General Workers Union who joined in a walkout called Monday by the rival National Amalgamated Stevedores and Dockers.

More than 15,000 men were idle and 84 ships were tied up at London piers as a result of the discharge of 33 workers considered too old or sick to hold their jobs.

What Morgan, Terry, Steve Did

To bring you up to date in the continuity, here is what happened Tuesday and Wednesday mornings in the comic strips which appear on this page:

Rex Morgan, M. D.

Otto helps Rex on with his coat and Mrs. Rensaleer offers to drive him home. Rex declines, saying, "While I appreciate your offer, I'm afraid your husband wouldn't." Meanwhile, Rensaleer awaits the arrival of his attorney.

As Rex walks from the house, Otto asks Mrs. Rensaleer, "You like Doc Morgan?" She replies, "Yes, I'm afraid I do, Otto." Otto says, "He good man." Mrs. Rensaleer puts her fist to her mouth to stifle a sob and runs to her room.

Terry and the Pirates

Charles C. Charles and Terry see Spray O'Hara off and wonder why Chopstick Joe didn't show up. Chops is in a pawn shop exhibiting a watch—"a rare old heirloom given to my mandarin father by a Manchu prince." The money lender says, "Five dollars silver—and spare me the fairy tale."

Later, Chops tells Chaz and Terry that Air Cathay has been wiped out. How will they pay their hotel bills, they wonder. A character new to the strip observes their entrance into the hotel with interest.

Steve Roper

From the stove, Steve pulls a charred piece of the murdered radio man's jacket. There is a bullet hole in it. He tells police he sees something else that may crack the puzzle wide open.

Carefully, Steve extracts a charred letter that Crunch and his boys had tried to destroy. He says he will take it to his studio, put it between photographic plates and pull off a copy. Meanwhile, the peasant girl is entering a ready-to-wear dress shop.

Dixie Dugan

The mystery man trailing Hazy Short finally locates Dixie Dugan, but tells her he has the wrong number. As he leaves the drug store he tells the clerk he is going to Dixie's address and "now I'll get this kid."

But the clerk has qualms of conscience and calls Dixie's house. He tells Hazy she must run away. The mystery man hops in a cab for the two-mile ride to Dixie's house.

Myrtle

Sampson is making faces at Wilbur, the goldfish. He tells Myrtle's pop he and Wilbur don't like one another. "That's silly," says Pop. But when the fish splashes water in Pop's pipe he shakes hands with Sampson and says, "I'm joining your side."

Myrtle steals a worm from a bird and feeds it to Wilbur. Later, the bird chirps, "Cheap, cheap." Myrtle observes, "Now I've got everybody hating Wilbur and me, too."

Skelley tells Ike he has made Zip Zalen, the rookie, regular shortstop hoping to wake up Elmer Hornblow. And if Zip continues his sensational play, nobody will get him out of the lin-up, Skelley says.

As the Bugs break camp and head north, Zip continues his sensational play and his name is in all the headlines. Hornblo hugs the bench and mourns, "Fat chance I got of crashin' the headlines with that string bean playin' miles over his head."

Donald Duck

Donald performs with a full fiddle at a concert and the applause is deafening. At home, sly Donald shows how it's done. He opens a secret compartment in the fiddle and pulls out a record player.

Donald's girl friend buys a suit of armor and drives it home. She bedecks it with ivy in the garden and explains to Donald, "It's English ivy . . . doesn't it give a cute effect?"

Winnie Winkle

Two irate mothers leave Winnie's house, angered because they can't dictate what their debutant daughters will model at Winnie's fashion show. Mrs. Gotrox calls and tells Winnie her daughter won't be able to model in the show.

Winnie tells Daisy the next day that all the mothers are calling up and saying their daughters won't be able to model in the show. "Wow," says Daisy, "no models, no show . . . What'll we tell Mr. Bibbs?"

Barnaby

Barnaby's father tells him that if there's any trouble he'll do all he can to help. "Mr. O'Malley's been gone three days," says Barnaby. "I could put a cold lamb sandwich in the hollow tree." And the best thing his father could do would be to write Mr. O'Malley a letter.

"Mr. O'Malley's feelings got hurt," explains Barnaby, "but if you wrote and explained, why maybe——." Barnaby's mother offers to fix the cold lamb sandwich and his father sits down to write a letter to "that imaginary pixie."

Labor Party Keeps Council Control In London County

London, April 13 (AP).—The Labor Party clinched continued control of the London County Council today.

Its grip had been in question since elections last Thursday resulted in a 64-to-64 tie in Conservative and Labor council seats. One lone Liberal was elected.

By a series of maneuvers under council law, Laborites elected as chairman an outsider who could cast a double vote in case of a tie, and then filled six of the 11 vacancies on the panel of aldermen who sit with the council. Named as chairman was J. W. Bowen, former Labor member of Parliament.

Labor already had 10 holdover aldermen. The Laborites thus wound up with an over-all majority of 81 votes to 69 for the Conservatives. The holdover aldermen voted for Bowen as chairman. They were not eligible to vote for the 11 vacancies in their group, but by then the Laborites had the chairman's double vote to put over their candidates.

In the old, smaller council, Labor held 90 seats, Conservatives 30, Communists two and Liberals two.

British Sending 2 Antiaircraft Units to Continent

Brussels, Belgium, April 13 (U.P.).—Two British heavy antiaircraft groups will move to Belgium and Holland next month with guns and full battle equipment, the Belgian Ministry of Foreign Affairs announced today.

The royal artillery units will stay on the continent "several months," the announcement said.

It said the British troops were invited by the Dutch and Belgian governments to "develop the closest cooperation including the exchange of ideas and methods." The invitation came within the framework of the western union defense treaty, the announcement added.

Belgian military sources said this was the first of a series of moves to standardize equipment and training methods among western union armed forces.

Bunche on Way Home
